ELMER O. LAKE, WELL KNOWN
LUMBER DEALER, DIED IN DUR-HAM, N. H.

DURHAM, N. H., Sept. 15.—Elmer Orlando Lake, a lumber dealer of Boston, who has been here the past 10 days, died last night, aged 52. The body was taken to Boston.

Elmer Orlando Lake was born in Lowell in 1862, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Orlando H. Lake. While he was a boy, his folks moved to Hyde Park, and he attended the high school there. He had been in the lumber business practically all his life, and soon after leaving school became associated with James W. Skillings of Winchester. About 30 years ago he became identified with the Northern Lumber company of St. Johnsbury, Vt., and for about half of this time his office was in that city.

Eventually he assumed the office of vice president and sales agent of that company, and 15 years ago he came to Boston in that capacity. He took up his residence at 56 St. Botolph st. and had lived there since.

About a year ago he left the Northern Lumber company and with several others formed the E. O. Lake Lumber company, with offices on Summer street. He was its treasurer.

He leaves his wife, who was Miss Minnie A. Burt of St. Johnsbury, and one son, Harold A. Lake, who is also associated with the Lake Lumber company.

BOTH ARMIES REPEL ATTACKS ON LINES

PARIS, Sept. 18. The great battle of Aisne continues. All that is known officially of its progress is that the Germans are yielding slightly at some points on the left. Though the communication with this fact was given out officially by the French yesterday it evidently refers to the situation on Tuesday since it accords with the English press statement of Wednesday. The many wounded prisoners coming in from the front indicate that the allies have made the Germans give ground, the latter leaving their wounded behind.

The army of Crown Prince Frederick William has finally turned on its pursuers at Montfaucou, northwest of Verdun, encouraged no doubt by advices of reinforcements coming from the Rhine garrisons and the line of defense is now clearly established from Noyon, 67 miles northeast of Paris to Montfaucou.

In addition to the difficulty of reorganizing their forces to withstand the attack on the new line the Germans are no doubt troubled about their rear. The resumption of activity by the Belgians means more than that its troops have had time to rest and no doubt there is good foundation for the many rumors that King Albert's forces have been reinforced, though from where is only a matter of conjecture.

Some experts still think that the battle is only intended to secure the safety of the crown prince's army which had great difficulty in disengaging itself from the defiles of the forest of Argonne and is not yet, according to opinion here, by any means safe. The prolonged rains also make it necessary to have more time in which to get the artillery out of the chalky mud of northern and eastern Champagne.

LINE OF ADVANCE OF THE ALLIES IS THREADED BY SIX RIVERS

An official statement written by a staff officer who has been on the scene of the operations and which is authorized by the British war office gives details of the actions closing with the crossing of the Aisne but only the most meagre communications have been issued concerning the fighting of the last two days.

Roughly speaking, the line of the advance of the allies is threaded by six rivers, four of which already have been crossed. The crossing of the Marne, marking the assumption of the aggressive by the allies, was purely a rear guard action in which General Von Kluck cleverly kept the German right from being outflanked. So far as the British were concerned the passage of the Oise was not contested. The Vesle river was only lightly defended by the Germans, while, as is now well known, the resistance of the Germans at the Aisne was and still is of the most stubborn character on both the French and British fronts.

If the allies hold the ground across the Aisne which they gained despite the heavy artillery fire from concealed German batteries on the heights above the river, two more rivers, the Allier and the Oise remain to be crossed. The country between the Aisne and the Allier is ideal for defensive purposes and if the German army holds the Aisne heights for a few days defensive works can be constructed along the two other rivers which may delay the allies' advance on German territory for a long time.

On the other hand if the Germans resume the offensive the country now occupied by them affords an excellent operating base.

It is clear from reports coming in from the allies that the victory of the battle of the Marne and the assumption of the offensive had a tremendous moral effect on the France-British armies.

There is a lull in the operations in Galicia, where the victorious Russian armies evidently are moving in an effort to cut off the retreat of the Austrians toward Cracow.

IMPORTANT EVENTS EXPECTED IN BELGIUM IN THE NEXT FEW DAYS

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The correspondent of the Daily Mail at Ostend deems that important events are expected in north Belgium in the next few days, the nature of which he is not allowed to disclose. He says there is little doubt that there are three German army corps, about 150,000 men in Belgium and convey a report which he has received that the German military authorities have advised the civil population of Liege to leave that town.

GERMAN RAIDING IN VARIOUS PARTS OF NORTH BELGIUM IS EXPLAINED

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The correspondent of the Times at Ghent believes that most of the German raiding in various parts of north Belgium which could not be explained in any relation to the fighting on a large scale last week was connected with incidents just heard of where some 1200 Uhlans were sent out in small parties to discover whether British troops were landing.

They were told to push through at all costs, he says, and it was promised that every man who got back with reliable information would receive the decoration of the Iron Cross. "I do not think any will get back," is the terse comment with which the correspondent concludes his despatch.

PARLIAMENT PROROGUED

Wild Scenes Follow Announcement That Home Rule Bill is Law—King's Speech on War

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Scenes of enthusiasm in the staid legislative chambers of Westminster palace were enacted today when the two houses of parliament were prorogued.

King George was absent inspecting the troops and his speech was read in the house of lords by Viscount Haldane, the lord high chancellor and in the house of commons by John P. Whitley, the deputy speaker.

When the announcement was made in the house of lords that the royal assent had been given to the Irish Home Rule and the Welsh Church Disestablishment Suspension bills and to a number of emergency bills, cheers were given for the passing of the Irish and the Welsh bills.

On the announcement of the passing of the Irish Home Rule bill in the house of commons the Nationalists and Liberals broke into loud cheers, which were repeated again and again.

Wm. Crooks, the labor party leader, asked if it was in order to sing "God Save the King." Without waiting for permission he started the first verse himself and broke down with emotion. The anthem was taken up by the spectators in the gallery as well as by the members and the singing was heard in the palace yard.

As the members filed out of the chamber Mr. Crooks cried out:

"God save Ireland!"
John Redmond, the Irish nationalist leader, replied:
"God save England!"
Parliament will sit again Oct. 27.

The King's Speech
The king's speech was as follows: "My Lords and Gentlemen: I address you in circumstances that call for action rather than for speech. After every endeavor had been made by my government to preserve the peace of the world I was compelled in this assertion of treaty obligations, deliberately set at naught and for the protection of the public law of Europe and the vital interests of my empire to go to war.

"My navy and my army have with unceasing vigilance, courage and skill sustained, in association with our gallant and faithful allies, a just and righteous cause.

"From every part of my empire there has been a spontaneous and enthusiastic rally to our common flag.

"Gentlemen of the house of commons: I thank you for the liberality with which you have met a great emergency. My lords and gentlemen: We are fighting for a worthy purpose and we shall not lay down our arms until that purpose has been fully achieved. I rely with confidence upon the loyal and united efforts of all my subjects and I pray that Almighty God may give us His blessing."

Mr. Redmond, who was the recipient of many warm congratulations in the lobbies of the house after adjournment, left later in the day for Ireland, where he will take part in the recruiting campaign for which Premier Asquith has sought his aid.

Home Rule Bill Law

With the prorogation of parliament the Home Rule bill and the Welsh disestablishment bill become law but both are suspended for one year.

G. BROOKS IS CHAMPION

Local Bantamweight the Best in His Class in New England—His Record

Gardner Brooks, the Lowell boy who has been in action for the past few years, has just won the New England Bantamweight title. He defeated Young Clark, the champion of the class, in a battle which lasted for the full ten rounds. Brooks, who is now in his third year of college, has a record of 10 wins and 1 loss. He is considered one of the best fighters in the class.

Last Tuesday night the local youth met and decisively defeated Young Clark, the champion of the class, in a battle which lasted for the full ten rounds. Brooks, who is now in his third year of college, has a record of 10 wins and 1 loss. He is considered one of the best fighters in the class.

Brooks is distinctly a boxer and his fighting style is very much like that of a professional. He is very quick and agile, and his punches are very hard. He is also very good at defense, and he is able to withstand a great deal of punishment.

KAISER WANTS UNCLE SAM

To Ascertain Under What Terms the Allies Would Make Peace—Nothing Tangible in Message

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Germany has suggested informally that the United States should undertake to elicit from Great Britain, France and Russia a statement of the terms under which the allies would make peace.

The suggestion was made by the imperial chancellor, von Bethmann-Hollweg, to Ambassador Gerard at Berlin, as a result of an inquiry sent by the American government to learn whether Emperor William was desirous of discussing peace as Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, and other Straus recently reported.

No reply was made by Emperor William himself, nor did the imperial chancellor indicate whether he spoke on behalf of his monarch. Ambassador Gerard called on President Wilson, who made no definite statement, but said that the American government would be glad to receive such a statement.

Germany was appreciative of the American government's interest and was willing to try to bring about peace. Germany did not want war, but had it forced on her. Even if she defeated France she must likewise conquer both Great Britain and Russia, as all three have made an agreement not to make peace except by common consent.

The above is all that Ambassador Gerard communicated as to his conversation. He added only the brief comment that he himself, thought it would be best to keep the matter quiet. President Wilson did not regard the message, however, as non-committal and incidental to the acknowledgment of the American government's inquiry.

The president indicated that he rather expected a reply to the inquiry to be sent eventually from the emperor himself, though he realized that the imperial chancellor may have consulted his monarch by telegraph before talking informally with the American ambassador.

President Wilson took no action as a result of the message, waiting to hear from Ambassador Gerard whether anything of a formal character could be obtained by him. Germany's position is that she will give her opinion on terms of peace when she has received a definite statement from the allies. The statement she received from Germany did not want war, but had it forced on her, as well as the declaration that she wanted a lasting peace, is almost identical with the remarks which Sir Edward Grey made to Ambassador Page in London last week.

With Insistent Ambassadors The general belief in well informed circles last night was that the president, after waiting a few days for more information from Berlin, probably would instruct American ambassadors at London, Paris and Petrograd to communicate what the imperial German chancellor had said to Ambassador Gerard. It was believed that the ambassadors would be asked to reiterate the wish of the American government to be of service in bringing about peace and to point out the readiness of the United States to communicate to Germany and Austria any statement of terms which the allies might care to make.

Diplomatists were disposed to believe that through such informal conversations something definite in the way of peace terms might yet be obtained as a working basis. If a concert of opinion for the discussion of peace terms were reached, President Wilson then would endeavor to obtain an acceptance by all the belligerents of the original tender of good offices.

The Final Reckoning President Wilson already has indicated that he believed that the final reckoning of the war should be made in a conference of the European powers.

WHAT DYSPYPTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE "Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to indigestion. Therefore, stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on flatter products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisulphate of soda in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisulphate of soda is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach, but by neutralizing the acidity of the food content, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine when necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid, the cause of all trouble. Get little bisulphate of soda from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisulphate afterwards, as directed above, and see if I'm not right."

LUSTIG TO BOX

Clever N. Y. Boxer Will Once More Appear in Boston Ring

Tuesday night at the Atlas A. A. of Boston, the boxing fans will have another opportunity to see Johnny "Young" Lustig, the cleverest boy ever turned out in New York, perform against Eddie Murphy of South Boston, who is the cleverest lightweight in New England. They will box 12 rounds at catchweights.

Lustig showed in Boston two weeks ago, winning a decision over Terry Brooks, the hard hitting Boston lightweight, after one of the hardest fought contests ever seen in this section. Twice, the clever New Yorker went to the mat, only to arise and unleash such a fast brand of speed as is very seldom witnessed in this or any other country, with the result that the New York boy received an ovation when the referee announced he was the winner. When the announcement was made last Tuesday night that Lustig was to appear here again with Eddie Murphy for an opponent, the members were well pleased, and as a loud in their approval of this match.

Eddie Murphy is a different type of boxer than Brooks, and he feels confident he can take the measure of the New York lightweight, feeling that he is a better and a harder fighter, but he is leaving nothing in the condition line undone, as he knows it would relegate him to the rear to suffer defeat at this time, and will carry the willing to Lustig from the opening bell.

Another 12-round bout between Al McCoy of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Young Jasper of Boston, will also be staged, making a double whammy show. This team boxed a sensational 10-round draw three weeks ago, and as each is out to secure the decision in a long battle, there will not be any time wasted when this team gets started.

Harry Riker, a New York lightweight, meets Gus Murphy of Cambridge in one of the six-round preliminaries. Eddie Brown of Boston meets Billy Burke of Lynn in the other six round affair.

"FATHERS' CLUBS" Organized at Council Bluffs, Iowa, Over a Year Ago—Training Children a Specialty

"What sort of a father are you?" This question is found on every program of what is claimed to be the first fathers' club in the United States, organized at Council Bluffs, Iowa, a little over a year ago, according to information received at the home education division of the United States bureau of education.

Each month the "fathers' clubs" debate such questions as: "Are our children trained for, or away from, the life in which we live? How many children out of 1000 reach high school in our town? What about the rest? Or they discuss topics like the following: Comparative public expenditures in various states; juvenile courts; school-house instruction; compulsory education; open air schools; playgrounds; medical inspection; the sex question; business education; the cultural influence of newspapers, magazines, music, books, etc.; women on the school board; the school house as community center.

Guests representing various community groups are invited to the meetings; interested fathers from other districts; clergymen; physicians of the neighborhood; members of the board of education; mayor and city council; and the Bar association. The clubs were addressed at different times during the year by a judge of the United States circuit court, an educator, a professor, a senator, a school superintendent, a judge of the supreme court, a member of the state board of education, as well as other interested citizens.

It is planned in the near future to form the existing clubs into a federation, with a uniform program for all the clubs every month.

Textile to Have Strong Team At the Textile school Captain Oliver Laue is very optimistic about the chances of his team this season. Textile, as well as the High school, did not turn out a team to be proud of by any means last fall and an effort will be made at the Moody street institution this year to make up for last season's poor showing by putting an exceptionally strong eleven on the hundred yard field.

The Lowell Textile school is very fortunate in having a man of the caliber of Arthur A. Stewart at the head of their athletics. Mr. Stewart, while an instructor in the institution, is in full sympathy with the athletes and appreciates every move which may be made for the betterment of the school's athletics.

CANADA FEARS ENEMIES

ALL AEROPLANES MUST CARRY
DOMINION OFFICER—AMMUNITION
FORBIDDEN

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—Air craft have crossed the American border on several occasions since war began in Europe, and fear that a German or Austrian sympathizer in the United States or Canada may resort to bomb throwing has led the Canadian government to make regulations, announced here yesterday, governing the movements of aeroplanes in Canada.

A few days ago, it is learned, the actions of an aeroplane in the vicinity of the Welland canal excited so much attention that canal guards were prepared to fire on it.

The government, under the regulations, forbids flight within 10 miles of the principal centers of population and points at which aeroplanes may alight have been designated.

Guards have been ordered to fire on air craft within 10 miles of Halifax, Sydney, St. John, Charlottetown, Quebec, Valcartier, Montreal, Ottawa, Edmonton, Kingston, Toronto, London, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, Victoria and Vancouver and of any government wireless station.

Any aeroplane carrying passengers which crosses the international boundary will be allowed to land only at Annapolis, N. S.; Woodstock, N. B.; Lake Megantic and Remingtonford, Que.; Athens, Welland and Essex, Ont.; Morris, Man.; Estevan, Sask. and Lethbridge, Alberta, and Chilliwack, B. C. Canadian officers must be carried on any air craft which enters and lands in Canada, and no firearms, explosives or photographic apparatus may be carried. No military air craft will be permitted in Canada which is not the property of the government.

LIEUT. COL. LEMARCHANT WON
MEDALS IN AFRICAN WARS

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Among the British officers killed, as made known in a casualty list issued last night, was Capt. Bertram Stewart of the West Kent Yeomanry. Capt. Stewart was one of the two officers who was imprisoned in a German fortress several months for spying and was paroled by Emperor William on the occasion of his last visit to England.

In the list of dead also appear the names of Col. Sir Evelyn Hilary Bradford of the Suffolk Highlanders, who was a well-known Londoner, and Lieut. Col. Louis St. Julien Lemarchant of the East Lancashire regiment.

Col. Bradford was born in 1869. He served in a Nile expedition in 1895, the battles of Adowa and Khartoum and in the South African war. In the latter war he was breveted a major and given the queen's medal and the king's medal for distinguished service.

Lieut. Col. Le Marchant was 48 years old and also had been honored for services in the field, having received the king's medal, the queen's medal and the distinguished service order for his work in the Central Africa force, 1905, and in South Africa in 1900-02.

FORWARD AMERICAN GOODS

British Officials Order Such Carcasses in Belligerent Vessels Sent to Destruction

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Advice to the state department yesterday showed that in many cases the British government already has released cargoes of American goods seized in belligerent vessels at the time of the declaration of war. Many such cargoes have been forwarded to their destinations. It is expected that American shippers will ask for several million dollars in damages for delays caused by seizure, but the state department will not take up that question immediately.

Under international law ships sailing

at any time do so with the risk of being exposed to conditions arising from a possible declaration of war while en route.

$5.00 PANTS FREE

On my Fall Opening two weeks ago, I had a special offering of a pair of trousers free for that occasion. Since that time I have had several inquiries through the mail from out of town customers. Some said the season was a little early to order then; others told me the time limit was short and they couldn't take advantage of it with the double holiday near at hand. Now at this reading I am giving you two days' notice. I have forty-eight trouser patterns to give away with suit or overcoat orders. I want my out-of-town customers to respond in large numbers, and for TODAY and SATURDAY, positively the last two days, I will give

A PAIR OF $5.00 TROUSERS FREE

I am an optimistic man—I have faith in this country—I have faith in the future—I have faith in the people because I have always found the people to be right in the long run.

Whatever may be the cause, it is a fact nevertheless that people are not paying much attention to my overcoat announcement. Just now it isn't that you don't need an overcoat—it isn't that the weather of the past few days was too warm, we have had warm weather other years, but people responded to overcoat bargains.

LISTEN TO ME—You will get cold weather soon enough. You will need an overcoat. I offer you now the chance to get a suit or overcoat for less money than the ordinary clothing dealer can put that garment on his counter for. It is positively the greatest trade of my career and that means something. Will you order now? You don't spend your money until you want your garment—Take the suit or overcoat when the weather compels you to wear it.

As a Token of My Regard

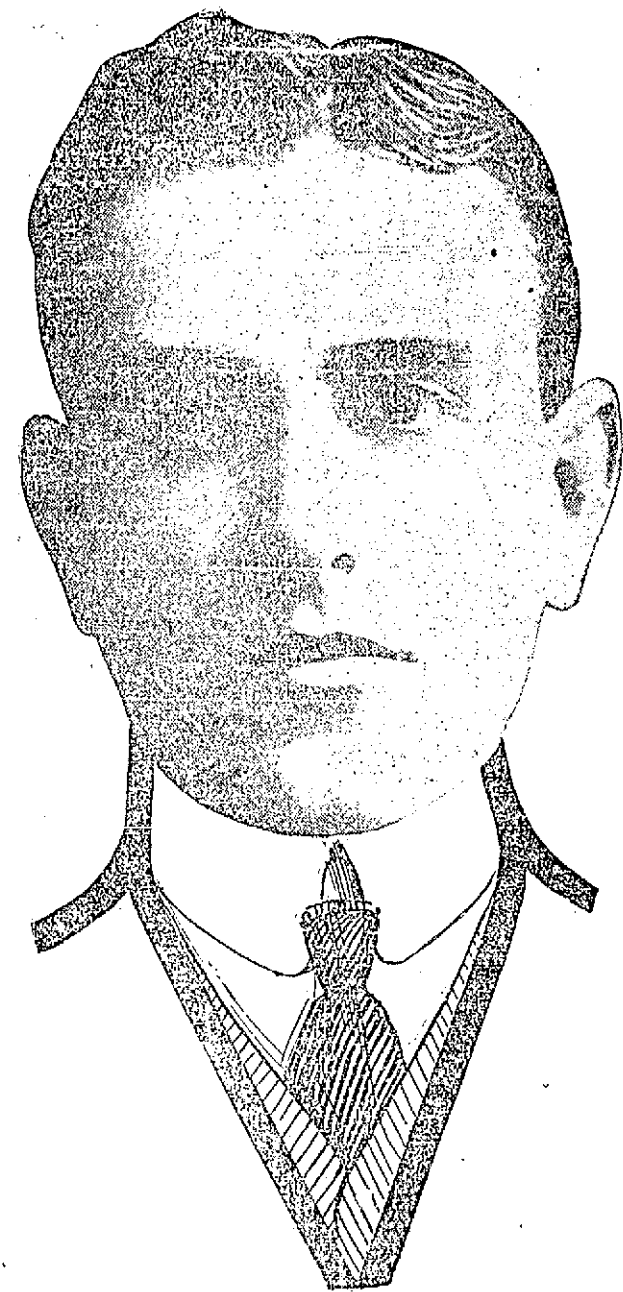

To answer the many inquiries I had in the last week as an inducement to the late buyer to force his order earlier and to the new customer to give me a trial, I will give to each customer ordering a suit or overcoat Friday or Saturday

Edward Barrington, employed at the Spaulding Shoe Co., will spend Saturday in deep sea fishing.

John Farrell of the Wittertown Arsenal is enjoying a two weeks' vacation in this city.

Walter Kelly, formerly employed at the American Safety Tread Co., has accepted a position with the Federal Shoe Co.

The Tremont & Suffolk baseball team is without a game for Saturday and would like to hear from the Coburn A. C. or any other strong team in the city.

William Hollowood, formerly employed at the Ray State mills, is now working for Uncle Sam at the Watertown Arsenal.

John King of the Barry Shoe Co. has put the shutters on the windows of his beautiful camp at Silver Lake and has moved into the city.

The election of Henry Grinnell as assistant treasurer of the Chace mills, Fall River, will be welcome news to his many friends.

A. Felgentrauer, the new boss finisher at the Ray State mills, was formerly connected with the Germania mills, Holyoke, Mass.

John Mulligan of the Prescott mills is anxiously waiting for the Y. M. C. I. bowling tournament to open. He says that he is going out after first money this year.

Fred Webster of the Plumbers union is blossoming out into a promising young speaker. At a meeting held last night by certain young gentlemen he explained what unionism really means and his talk was highly instructive.

Jack Moran of the Massachusetts mills was seen knocking the pins around in the Les Miserables alleys last evening. He put on a very good string considering that it was the first time this year.

Captain Cannon of the Lawrence Manufacturing Co. baseball team is said to be thinking of starting a baseball aggregation. If they put out as well as the baseball team did there will be no kick coming.

At a recent meeting of the directors of the New Bedford cotton mills, James

O. Thompson was elected manufacturing agent. Mr. Thompson was formerly superintendent since the organization of the mills, and his advancement will meet with general approval.

Henry B. Hunter, for some years in charge of duck weaving at the Boot mills, has resigned his position and has accepted a similar one with the Euphonia mills of Anderson, S. C., of which Wallace W. Morrison, formerly of this city, is superintendent.

Chester Hartigan, protégé of Mike Wrenn, scored a signal victory over his old time rival, Jack Moran, last evening, on Kittredge's alleys. It was an exciting match and was witnessed by many friends of the boxers. In the first string Moran secured an early lead and won easily. The second string was close but went to Hartigan. Moran started off like a winner in the last string but Hartigan rolled three spares in succession and soon had the heart taken out of Jack. Hartigan's high string was 119. Moran rolled a total of 276 while Hartigan's total was 296. These men will meet again in the near future and Moran predicts that he will turn the tables. Both athletes are employed at the Federal Shoe Co. Before leaving Chester informed his rival that they would be unable to meet again as Kittredge was going to close. Jack wanted to know why, and was informed that the "Alloys" were going to war. Spare him, Mike!

NEW MAP SHOWING THE LINEUP OF GERMANS AND ALLIES IN GREAT CONFLICT IN FRANCE

PASSED 96TH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Jane F. Taylor of Methuen Street Congratulated on the Notable Event

Mrs. Jane F. Taylor, who makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. Edwin A. Robinson, 151 Methuen street, yesterday observed the 96th anniversary of her birth. On this occasion open house was kept and the aged lady was showered with congratulations and best wishes by her many friends.

Mrs. Taylor was born in New Portland, Me., and lived there for 36 years. Ten years ago, when her husband passed away at the age of 85 years, she came to Lowell to make her home with her daughter.

Despite her advanced age, Mrs. Taylor can read newspapers and is enjoying the best of health. She is an expert in needlework and spends most of her time doing fancy work of all descriptions. Among those who called to offer best wishes yesterday were a daughter, Mrs. Thomas Doten of Winchester; Dr. Gerald of West Virginia; Rev. and Mrs. Edward W. Newcomb of the First Congregational church, and Rev. and Mrs. E. R. Harris of the Paigso Street Baptist church.

The first lodge of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen was organized by 11 Erie railroad firemen at Port Jarvis, N. Y., in 1873.

In New Zealand every man out of work has the right to demand employment on work of public improvement at the prevailing rate of wages.

The ingenious plan is being adopted by the German Imperial bank of offering two extra days for every week of vacation to employees who are willing to postpone their holidays till winter.

Labor is so cheap in Trinidad that its does not pay to buy lawn mowers, as coolies will cut the grass with a small sickle or knife at a trifling cost.

It is estimated that nearly 29 per cent. of the persons engaged in agricultural pursuits in the United States are members of industrial and economic organizations.

Official German statistics show that the average yearly income of the railway maintenance workers in Baden is $260; in Wurttemberg, $250; in Bavaria, $230; in Saxony, $225; in Prussia, $210.

FIRE IN JEWELRY STORE

ALARM CALLED THE DEPARTMENT TO STORE ON EAST MERRIMACK STREET

The fire department was called out at 10:15 o'clock last night in response to an alarm from box 8, at the corner of East Merrimack and Howe streets, when a blaze started in the jewelry store formerly owned by the Qua Jewelry Co., but now the property of Hepoleto Basilewicz. The store is at 55 East Merrimack street.

The fire was discovered by Officer T. A. Moloney while making the rounds of his beat. An explosion of some sort aggravated the blaze to such a degree that the firemen had difficulty in getting it under control. Beyond burning the fixtures of the store and smoking up the interior and stock little damage was done.

POST — SEASON GAME

LAWRENCE AND NEW LONDON
MEET DOWNRIVER TODAY FOR
THIRD BATTLE OF SERIES

Lawrence, champions for the season of 1914 of the New England league, and New London, winners of the flag in the Eastern association, got down to business this afternoon in the ball yard of the downriver city after yesterday's vacation.

Yesterday the managers of the two teams went over the existing situation thoroughly with their players. Every weakness, no matter how trivial, which had been discovered in the first two games of the series, was discussed at length, in an effort to make both clubs more effective today.

Although results are still even thus far, the majority of the critics still feel that New London will win the series. There is one little thing that these dopsters have forgotten which might be well for them to remember.

Lawrence without doubt is inferior in playing ability to the team Gene McCann has under his command. But we have seen the way Lawrence fought its way to the top of the New England league ladder and refused to be ousted. It is just this kind of aggressiveness by which Lawrence will win if she wins at all, for beyond dispute New London is the stronger aggregation.

9 KILLED, 15 INJURED

WHEN LOCOMOTIVE STRUCK A
STREET CAR ON RAILROAD
CROSSING AT MEMPHIS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 18.—Nine persons are known to have been killed and more than 15 injured early last night when an Illinois Central freight train crashed into a street car containing about 25 passengers, near Bluffington, a suburb of Memphis.

The wrecked car, a trailer, was hurled over an embankment and the foremost freight cars toppled over on it. The motor car drawing the trailer cleared the railway tracks ahead of the engine. None of its passengers was injured.

Recovery of the bodies of the victims from the tangled heap of wreckage was attended by great difficulty. Two hours after the tragedy, nine dead had been found and 15 injured taken to the hospitals.

An eye witness says the accident occurred when two freight trains were switching over the street railway crossing. The street car, however, it is said, gave his motorman the signal to go ahead after the first train passed. The car and its trailer were passing the engine when struck by the second train coming from the opposite direction.

The conductor and a few passengers on the trailer saw the oncoming train in time to jump, escaping with slight injuries. Several other passengers who remained in their seats were carried nearly 200 feet on the locomotive tender before being thrown into a ditch.

IMPORTANT CHANGES

IN NAVAL COMMANDS—ALL LINE
OFFICERS TO HAVE ADEQUATE
SEA DUTY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Important changes in naval commands were announced yesterday by Secretary Daniels, continuing his policy of giving all line officers adequate sea duty.

Rear Admiral John R. Edwards, commander of the Charleston, S. C., navy yard, succeeds Rear Admiral William B. Caperton, in command of the Atlantic reserve fleet at Philadelphia. Admiral Caperton having been detailed to command the newly organized cruiser squadron of the Atlantic fleet.

Rear Admiral John R. Edwards, lately president of the board of inspections for shore stations, which has been abolished, will assume command of the Charleston yard.

Rear Admiral Nathaniel Fisher, at present commander of the Norfolk navy yard, goes to the New York yard in succession of Capt. Albert Gleaves, detailed to command the battleship Utah. For the present Commander Louis R. DeStiege, captain of the Norfolk yard, will continue acting commander, on account of the illness of Rear Admiral Fisher.

WIFE MAN REFUSES TO WED

WARE, Sept. 18.—There was a disappointed bride-to-be at Ware street yesterday morning when Pauline Bonarowski of 36 Water street refused to leave his house to marry Katherine Kut.

The bans of marriage were published at St. Mary's church and yesterday morning Katherine put on her wedding gown and sat into a hearse which drove up to 36 Water street, but Pauline refused to come out and get married.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Sir Edward Carson, leader of the unionists in Ulster, was married at Wincanton, Somerset, yesterday to Miss Ruby Frewen, niece of Moreton Frewen, member of parliament for Northeast Cork. WERE BURIED ALIVE

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 18.—A cave-in on the 1600 foot level of the Centennial-Eureka mine at Eureka yesterday buried 13 men. Although hope of rescuing them was abandoned, their relatives stood about the shaft imploring help. The men were too deeply buried to have survived.

JAPAN VERY FRIENDLY

TOKIO, Sept. 18.—3.55 p. m.—A notable demonstration of friendship toward the United States was made last night at a dinner given by the Japanese association, which was attended among others by Takanaki Kato, the Japanese foreign minister, and George W. Guthrie, the United States ambassador.

Viscount Kentaro Kaneko, president of the association, in a speech scored these persons who, he said, were trying to estrange the United States and Japan. "Japan not only will attack the Philippines," said Viscount Kaneko, "but she never had any idea of disturbing the tranquility of the territorial waters of the Philippines. Our friendship will be as firm and immovable as historic Plymouth Rock." Other speakers suggested an alliance between the United States and Japan for the preservation of peace in the Pacific.

QUARTER CENTURY AGO

Continued

Mr. Morrison didn't remain to express the confidence that had been in him, just prior to the chairman's interruption.

John L's Little Joke

Quarter of a century ago, John L. Sullivan, then in the hey-day of his popularity, sprang a little joke which appears to have gotten the goat of the editor of the old Sun, for the latter said editorially:

"John L. Sullivan says that he intends to run for congress. The democrats who attempt to place him in nomination should be read out of the party."

It may have been that John L. read the above editorial, for he reconsidered his intention and was not a candidate.

Bill Husted Injured

"While Hose 5 was flying to a small place started by boys in some straw in the rear of Ella and Parker's store, in Middlesex street, Thursday evening," says The Sun of 25 years ago, "Fireman William Husted was doing from the hose carriage and badly cut about the face and head. He was also considerably shaken up. He was taken to the protective station and put to bed."

Bill was pleased with the good treatment accorded him at the protective company's house that he took a liking to the place and today is captain of the protective company.

Arthur Cummock's Debut

Said The Sun of 25 years ago: "Among the Harvard students who have started on their studies for the coming year are: Winthrop E. Fiske, Lewis H. Dow, John J. Tobin, James Mollen of the class of '20; Arthur J. Cummock of the class of '21; H. H. Harris, Fred Coburn, G. A. Viles, Percy Purrows of '22, Guy Martin and F. Roy Martin, who are on their first year."

One year later Arthur Cummock's name became a household word from the Atlantic to the Pacific, for making the football team in his first year, he became its captain in the year when Harvard defeated Yale at Springfield and had one of the strongest teams in the history of the university. The old-timers when discussing football still go back to the days of Arthur Cummock of Lowell. Mr. Cummock is the son of A. B. Cummock of the Appleton mill of this city. The football games of that year made such an impression on "Jimmy" Mollen that he hasn't missed a Harvard-Yale game since. Three of the gentlemen above mentioned subsequently became connected with Lowell's school department; Mr. Mollen, at present principal of the Lincoln school; Mr. Harris, in charge of the Yarnum school, while the late Mr. Tobin taught in the high school.

Matt McCann's Wedding

Respectively of whether he has had his one day off in fifteen for the month of September, Police Officer Matthew McCann should be given an extra day next Friday, for that day, Sept. 25, he will be called upon to celebrate an anniversary that can better be observed "in the sanctity of his home," than on a motorcycle in the Oakland. And we get the tip from the old Sun as follows:

McCANN—MURDOCK

Rev. Fr. Shaw officiated at the marriage ceremony of Mr. Matthew McCann and Miss Alice Murdock at St. Patrick's parsonage, Wednesday evening (Sept. 23). Mr. John McCann acted in the capacity of best man and Miss Lizzie Murdock was bridesmaid. The young couple were the recipients of numerous and costly presents, among them being a parlor suite from the Crescent club, of which the groom is a member. They left for a short bridal tour on the 8 o'clock train and on their return they will reside in Contrabville. Matt can still travel 100 yards in 11 seconds and won't let the prisoner who attempts to put up a battle with him while under arrest for Matt can still handle the roughest necks without resorting to the word. Since youth Matt has been a consistent physical culturist, and the result is that he is as active as when he was the pride of all Lowell athletes.

That Old Police Court

While we are still doing business in the same old police court, that is some of us, 25 years ago the lawyers were "hollerin'" for a new court room. Since then many of them have passed away but the old court room is still with us. The old Sun, quarter of a century ago, had the following editorial: "All the lawyers of the city are longing for a new police court. The air in the present court room is about as foul as it is possible to have it and those who have any business to do in the place are continually complaining."

Even the prisoners complain when they are taken into court."

The editor might truthfully have added that a majority of the prisoners also complain when being taken from the court.

THE OLD TIMER.

Dandruff Surely
Destroys The Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and itching of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get it inexpensive at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

WAR NEWS

CROWN PRINCE WANTS WOOLEN UNDERWEAR AND SOCKS FOR HIS SOLDIERS

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—(via London)—Crown Prince Frederick William telegraphed to the Zeitsung Am Mittag, as follows:

"Please collect and forward as early as possible woollen underwear and socks for my soldiers. Greetings."

"Wilhelm, Crown Prince."

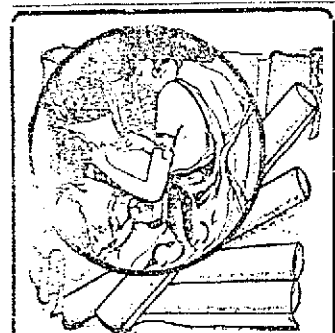

It was only a few days ago that the crown prince, who evidently has the comfort of his soldiers always in mind, telegraphed a Berlin newspaper asking it to collect and forward tobacco and cigars for his soldiers.

The healing of the wound of Prince Joachim, the youngest son of Emperor William, is progressing normally but it will possibly be several weeks before he is wholly restored, according to an announcement at the imperial court today.

No Official News

No news from official sources for publication has been received since the midnight bulletin, whose reports of attacks and counter attacks indicates that the battle is still progressing, otherwise there is little illuminating news for the German public and not the slightest hint of the movement or positions of the German army for the last ten days has been disclosed by the military authorities. The wording of the latest German bulletin may, perhaps, be interpreted as indicating that there is only a series of minor engagements in progress but it is understood that this is not the case and that the attacks and the counter attacks are part of a heavy general engagement.

Meanwhile the severity of the engagement of the Russian front has been relaxed and a number of stories are current to draw a general picture of the operations leading to the defeat of General Rennenkampf's Russian army.

From Sept. 1 to 13 the Russians took a strong position on the line from Angerburg to Gerdauen, Allenburg and Wehlau, the left wing resting on the Masurian lakes and the right wing protected in the rear and flank by the forest of Prisching.

Were Strongly Entrenched

The Russians devoted great efforts to entrenching their positions and brought up besides their heavy artillery, Russian cavalry scouted far to the west and south but otherwise the army undertook no offensive operations in the days following the battle of Tannenberg. The German commander, meanwhile, was assembling every available man, depriving the fortresses of their garrisons and calling in all but a bare remnant of the force protecting the southern frontier in the vicinity of Soldau, adding them to reinforcements received from the west.

General Hindenburg again resorted to the customary outflanking movement and since the Russian right protected by the forest and marshes seemed too strong he adopted the daring strategy of sending the flanking force to the lake region to the south, the character of movement by which the Russian Narva army was trapped and captured a short time ago and which in case of failure might have been equally as disastrous for the Germans.

The strategy, however, succeeded although General Rennenkampf offered a desperate resistance to the frontal attack. After three days' fighting the Russian were forced back in the center. On Sept. 15 the Russians began to fall back on their main position, retreating in good order and well covered. The Russian artillery on the right wing appears to have made good retreat owing to a timely start while the left wing was hard pressed by the enveloping German infantry.

Governor of Suwalki

The German government has appointed Count von Merfeldt as governor of the Russian province of Suwalki.

The university of Bonn has today conferred upon General von Hindenburg honorary doctorate degrees from all four of the departments of philosophy, law, medicine and theology.

The Berliner Tageblatt prints the following regarding the operations in the west:

"We are standing on the defensive on a 125 mile battle line and because we have been spoiled by a rapid series of victories many are unable to realize that a defense under certain circumstances is as justified as an offensive movement."

"We have learned little concerning the situation, but we can point to some successes, such as the repulse of the French night attacks and the fact that the French have succeeded neither in outflanking the retreating right nor breaking through the front."

For Strategic Reasons

The abandonment of our original positions between Paris and Verdun for strategic reasons is in itself nothing momentous. In many days of battle and shifting positions final results alone are important. So long as the battle continues undisturbed with the possibility of throwing in fresh troops drawing nearer while the enemy has exhausted himself by repeated attacks, the German chances are better than those of the Anglo-French."

Capt. Schickel, the correspondent of the Lokal Anzeiger describes the action in East Prussia on Sept. 10, as follows:

"Our heavy howitzer batteries located on the extreme right wing bombarded the entrenchments and bomb-proofs of the Russian infantry with terrible effect and from this position we could watch the progress of the battle easily with field glasses; but we, too, caught the big notes of the battle music. The battle salvo of the Russians came in ever-shortening intervals and between rolled the infantry in now in volleys and then irregularly. Meanwhile the hard rattle of the machine guns on the edge of the forest had a deafening sense, adding long runs of notes to the concert. The Russian shrapnel meanwhile burst too high or too low near our batteries, but the Russians after a while got the range and over our batteries soon flew fragments of the iron showerbath intended for us. Soon our batteries increased our fire until the heavens seemed alive while on the horizon the villages broke out in flames.

The German Infantry

"Through the field glass I observed dark masses moving across the fields. It was the well-extended German infantry advancing with extraordinary speed. Altogether too high over them expanded shrapnel and from the north came infantry fire which soon was silent."

"At 1.45 in the afternoon, the Russian shrapnel fire reached its maximum violence and then followed a cessation of all fire for ten minutes and then again the fire was opened. At 2.15 the Russian fire stopped with our then advancing as rapidly as possible and a little while afterward the effect of our flank movement behind Loetzen made itself felt."

CENSORSHIP OF WIRELESS MESSAGES BY FEDERAL GOVERNMENT IS LEGAL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Censorship of wireless messages by the federal government is legal according to an opinion by Attorney General Gregory announced today by Secretary Daniels. The attorney general gives several citations of law to back up the opinion, but his main contention is upon the right of the government to use any means at its command to preserve neutrality in war time. To preserve neutrality, the opinion says, the government has the right even to make use of the armed forces of the United States.

The legal right of the government to exercise a censorship was raised by the Marconi Telegraph Co. of America. All wireless plants are affected by the opinion, but those most prominent in the public eye are at Slanscott, Sayville and Tuckerton.

THEODORE WHITNEY DEAD

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—Theodore D. Whitney, senior member of the firm of T. D. Whitney & Co., 39 Temple place, and in the linen business in Boston for about 60 years, died suddenly yesterday morning in the Portsmouth, N. H., hospital. Although he had not been feeling well for some time his death was entirely unexpected.

He had been on a vacation at Hampton beach, was taken suddenly seriously sick Wednesday night, rushed to the hospital in Portsmouth, where a surgical operation was ventured, but he succumbed on the operating table.

Mr. Whitney was born in Boston July 2, 1847, the son of Nathaniel Davis and Laura Whitney. The father was for many years proprietor of a store at Tremont and Winter streets. The present store was started at 143 Tremont street and was under the firm name of Whitney, Warner & Frost.

When Mr. Whitney bought out the firm he moved the store to the present location. The present firm consisted of Mr. Whitney and Phineas Hubbard, who was a partner of Mr. Whitney's for about 35 years.

In 1875 Mr. Whitney was a member of the old "Tigers," of the then 1st Regiment, and also on Col. Wellington's staff. He served as a militiaman during the Boston fire of 1872.

Mr. Hubbard, Mr. Whitney's partner, was greatly shocked at learning of the death yesterday. He said: "Mr. Whitney was an ideal employer, generous hearted and a true friend. Although of a retiring disposition, he was a strong business man. His death has been a great shock to all of us and I shall miss him greatly."

Mr. Whitney is survived by his wife and a sister, Mrs. George Myrick.

THE KING OF ITALY

FACES THE CRISIS OF HIS CAREER—HIS COUNTRY FAST SPLITTING ON WAR QUESTION

King Victor Emmanuel of Italy faces the crisis of his reign in the present war situation. His country is fast splitting over whether Italy shall fight or not. Many riots have occurred. Some of the people want Italy to take advantage of the present war to extend her boundaries, while others insist that she remain neutral.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

AT THE OPERA HOUSE

The Opera House was filled last night with a responsive and enthusiastic audience to witness another fine vaudeville and picture bill. To choose a feature would be very difficult and more a matter of individual opinion, as each and every act called forth immediate and lasting applause and the motion picture "The Redemption of David Corson" again demonstrated very clearly the wonderful range in which the camera can act in staging the modern dramas.

The vaudeville bill opens with the Gagnons, in a novelty balancing act which found favor in all. Ward and Fay gave the audience one start when they produced their "nut" specialty, nothing but anything that has been seen in this city since the new style of comedy came into vogue. Miss Fay is a feminine "nut" with funny antics and Miss Ensign, her partner, plays an entirely opposite type, between them they work up fun that is compelling in its humor. Francis and Palmer in their miniature musical comedy, "The Millionaire Girl," took the house by storm with their comic songs and witty sayings. Miss Palmer is not unlike Miss Anna (Lillian) in her voice, while her gowns are most beautiful.

"The Redemption of David Corson" with William Burton in the title role, tells the story of a strong man's temptation, transgression and regeneration, and typifies the everlasting conflict between the human and divine, and to those who have witnessed the play will come a very deep impression of the wonderful manner in which the various scenes are carried out, the minutest attention having been given to the smallest details.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Distinctly in a class by itself is the wonderfully engrossing Lasky photodrama, "The Call of the North," with Robert Edison in the splendid character of "Red Trent." Yesterday many saw the live parts of the play unfolded, and it is doubtful if more perfect, more artistic photography has ever been accorded a photo-play production. Admirers of Edison and his sturdy type of acting will rejoice in witnessing him in "The Call of the North," a play in which he has appeared hundreds of times. All of the pictures in the silent, cold Hudson Bay region is imparted to the pictures, and the supporting cast of Mr. Edison is all that could be desired. Theodore Roberts, the splendid character actor, appears in the part of "Galen Albert," the Hudson Bay factor. Four new acts of vaudeville are shown, the top-line feature being given by the Orpheus Comedy Four, singing and dancing. The Seelies, a boy and a girl, play the piano and violin admirably, and Lynch and Zeller, burlesquers, offer a classy act. Clara Bill, a singing comedienne, is also shown. The regular Friday and Saturday features to be seen on the program are "Our Mutual Girl" in her regular weekly appearance; a Keystone comedy which also is shown, the Owl shows one of these comedies daily; "Moonshine Molly" will keep you interested from the very first, by its strange plot and perfect acting, the scenes are also very picturesque. Lodging for the Night is safe to assure another genuine treat. The plot is unusual and is finely acted by an American company. MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

The ever increasing popularity and esteem which local theatre goers are giving the members of the Merrimack Square Theatre Stock Co. is only one of the many pleasant ways which goes to show how this really capable band of artists have endeavored themselves in patrons during their short stay in Lowell. The present week's offering, "The Awakening of Helena Richter," has proven one of their most successful bills, while the attraction announced for the coming week which the great New York Gaiety theatre success, "Miss Dimples Valentine," will no doubt add materially to their laurels. Seats are now on sale at the box office one week in advance, the prices for the matinee being 10, 20 and 30 cents, while in the evening they are 10, 20, 30 and 50 cents. Special attention is called to the time which the first act curtain rises which is at 2 and 5 o'clock. Subscription list open.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

"The Live Wire Theatre of Lowell" is the appellation that the management of the Academy of Music is striving to earn from local theatregoers.

Opening today with the most stupendous feature—present over attempted they have already taken a long step in that direction. "The Hands of London Crooks" is a five-act feature selected to start the season of movies at the Academy and it is probably the strongest feature melodrama ever produced.

The scenes are first staged in studios, but are taken amidst the actual city life of London and at the famous Asot race course on Derby day.

The scenes are first staged in studios, but are taken amidst the actual city life of London and at the famous Asot race course on Derby day.

The regular amateur night feature of the Academy of Music will be run tonight, and every other Friday throughout the season. No explanation of the hilarious fun and amusement that is always a part of amateur night at the Academy need be given here. Everybody who is anybody knows about it and will be present.

Sunday will bring with it another surprise in the shape of a big vaudeville concert composed of all-star features acts direct from the biggest Boston and New York theatres.

The admission prices to the Academy have been set at five and ten cents, it will be a difficult matter to equal this show at three times the price of admission.

Starting Monday, it is announced that each and every program at the Academy will include a famous Keystone comedy and every Wednesday and Thursday there will be two complete episodes of the famous Million Dollar Mystery. All patrons of the Academy will be eligible for the $10,000 prize that goes for the best solution of this mystery. This will not be part of our regular program, but an extra added feature.

The entire program will undergo complete changes every Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Sunday.

THE OWL THEATRE

Another successful week is closing at the Owl, and for a parting feature, "When Women Love," a three-part modern society play, has been booked by the management. This play is one of the best offerings of the week, and as an Owl feature rarely disappoints. It is safe to assure another genuine treat. The plot is unusual and is finely acted by an American company. Among the regular Friday and Saturday features to be seen on the program are "Our Mutual Girl" in her regular weekly appearance; a Keystone comedy which also is shown, the Owl shows one of these comedies daily; "Moonshine Molly" will keep you interested from the very first, by its strange plot and perfect acting, the scenes are also very picturesque. THE KASINO

Kasino dance exhibitions have been the hit of the season, and there is no indication of waning interest. In fact, enthusiasm has increased with every contest. Tonight, Mr. Duncan Heslin and Miss Del Gagnon will meet Mr. Sheehy and Miss Bradford in a contest which will include the one step, the hesitation and the maxixe. These movements are typical modern dances, indicating grace of action, minus any thing suggestive, and altogether good to see. The dancer who masters absolutely the one-step, hesitation and maxixe possesses not only the physical qualities, but also the genuine musical temperament. Observation will help you learn all modern steps. Tonight's artists are recognized leaders. Miner's orchestra is always present with tuneful music.

BROKERS PROTESTING

AGAINST SPECIAL TAX OF $50 A YEAR ON GROUND THAT STOCK EXCHANGES ARE CLOSED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Stock brokers are protesting to democrats of the house ways and means committee against the proposal to include in the war revenue bill a special tax on them of $50 a year. Such a tax was levied in the war revenue act of the Spanish-American war which the democratic caucus authorized the committee to eliminate. The stock brokers have their claim for exemption on the fact that stock exchanges are closed throughout the country and that their business is demoralized. They also point to the uncertainty as to when stock exchanges will resume operations.

The matter will be taken up today, when the committee expects to receive from the treasury department estimates of revenue to be derived from special and stamp taxes.

Great increases in land transactions and insurance business since the Spanish war they believe will afford stamp tax revenues more than sufficient to make up for exemption of the check tax.

Senate republicans believe that their filibuster against the river and harbor bill and fight against the war tax will keep congress in session until after the November election. As an indication of their confidence in this, Senator Gallinger, the minority leader, announced last night that he would leave last night for New Hampshire to carry on his campaign for reelection.

PAIN IN THE BACK

Do not worry about a pain in your back. The worry will do you more harm than the pain. The serious cases of the kidney's seldom or never produce such pains while the cause of most backache is muscular rheumatism, which is painful but never fatal. Lumbago is a form of muscular rheumatism, so is stiff neck.

Sufferers from any form of muscular rheumatism affecting the joints, should keep the general health at the highest standard by the use of a non-alcoholic tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and eat good nourishing food without too much meat. Proper nutrition and good blood are the best means of fighting rheumatism. Medicines do not control the disease directly but a well nourished system will often throw it off. Rheumatism quickly thins the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and as they build it up and strengthen the system there is an increased resistance to the rheumatic poisons. In this way many rheumatic sufferers have found complete recovery.

A book, "Building Up the Blood," which tells about the treatment of rheumatism, is free for the asking from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

J. L. CHALIFOUX'S DISPLAY SHOT GERMAN CAPTAIN

SOMETHING UNIQUE IN THE MAT-TER OF WINDOW DECORATION—
WORK OF W. M. WALKER

One of the finest show window displays presented in this city has been today at the opening of fall and winter merchandise. Mr. Chalifoux since his removal to his own building, has added many new departments, making a wonderful difference in the appearance of the store and the display. It is certainly the best of its kind in the city, and in many ways in advance of the times, and believing in advertising in all its branches, he says, the newspaper is the first consideration, and second show window displays and in his big ad. today will be found bargains that will attract all of the buyers by their low prices. This window display certainly will attract every passerby for its elegance and design. Mr. Chalifoux has engaged the services of one of the most competent men in the decorative and advertising field, in the person of Mr. W. M. Walker, who is certainly an artist as a decorator, having been employed at one time in R. H. White's in Boston as window decorator, which speaks volumes in itself. His display is a triumph of the decorator's art. The background of the windows on the Merrimack street side is of a California landscape with a setting sun, effect and it would be hard to think of a more beautiful and artistically arranged background as it shows both land and water and forest with a setting sun in the west, and this brings out to the best advantage a double effect to the beautiful articles displayed in the windows, showing at the present state of the window display in the city, nearly 200 running feet of the choicest articles for both young and old. The articles displayed without exaggeration are the finest class and quality of goods to be seen in the city and include everything from furniture to infants' wear in the long stretch of window display. On the Central street side is displayed gentlemen's wear, hats, clothing and knits, also boys' and youths' clothing, ladies' misses' and children's wear. Blankets and domestic goods are displayed on the Central street side, also a grand display of ladies' and gents' footwear, ranging from Central street back to the Merrimack street display may be seen samples of ladies' millinery and toilet articles, jewelry and specimens of children's coats and suits and everything that would please the most fastidious and to bring out these beautiful goods, Mr. Chalifoux has arranged, also samples of elegant gowns and coats in the latest up-to-date designs from the best designers in this and other countries, the display making one grand and imposing sight well worthy of anyone's attention. The latest additions to the Chalifoux store is the new furniture department which should not be overlooked while on a tour of inspection. Mr. W. Bena, the assistant window trimmer, also deserves credit for assisting in this unique display.

LAD TURNED GUN ON MAN WHO TOLD HIM TO SLAY FRENCH SERGEANT

PARIS, Sept. 17.—The Matin and the Carls print the following story. The Matin gives Senator Paulhat, as authority, and the noted author, Daniel Lesueur (Mme. Jeanne Lapauze), claims the article in the Carls. The Prussians have occupied the village of Louches, near Donau. A lieutenant with a half company had arrested 15 miners and was giving an order to shoot them when he himself fell dead, the shot coming from a French sergeant, badly wounded and lying half hidden in a ditch close by. The captain, who had been summoned to shoot the sergeant, succeeded in shooting the lieutenant with his revolver. The Germans rushed on the sergeant, struck at him with their rifles and killed him and dragged him to the 15 prisoners. Then there was a short delay while the German soldiers and officers from their captain. While waiting the captain, the wounded sergeant begged those looking on to bring him water. A small boy ran and got a cup out of which the sergeant drank. The German captain arrived in time to see the lieutenant and raised the boy as a young scoundrel and declared he would shoot the boy, and the rest of them too. Then, changing his mind, he thrust a rifle in the boy's hands and told him to shoot the sergeant while a drink party shot the 15 miners. The order to fire was given and the 15 miners fell. The captain, quickly swinging around, shot him point blank. The German soldiers bayoneted the boy to death. A subscription has been opened to build a monument to the boy, whose name was Emile Despres.

American Red Cross Appeals for Women and Children's Clothing to Be Sent to Europe
WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The American Red Cross announces that in addition to ameliorating the suffering of sick and wounded in the European war the utmost will be done to give relief to women, children and others distressed by the war. The Red Cross will be glad to accept funds designated for use in this particular way and will see that such contributions are so used. Furthermore it will be pleased to receive gifts of women's and children's clothing, if absolutely new, and will distribute the apparel where most needed in Europe. It is believed that Red Cross headquarters throughout the United States to contribute the collections of Peace Sunday, Oct. 4, to the relief fund of the American Red Cross will bring substantial returns. The total European war relief contributions thus far received at headquarters is approximately $250,000, a very small amount in proportion to the needs.

CIVILIANS FOR PRISONERS

Representatives of the bureau will go to places where such prisoners will be brought together for exchange with certificates showing the number for exchange, and personally conduct these to the frontiers of their own country. The expense must be borne by the countries benefited, but lodgings and food for the caravans while they are proceeding through Switzerland will be provided through Switzerland will be provided from the public charity funds.

RETURNS AS PRISONER

German Wine Merchant of Bordeaux, Who Enlisted, Brought Back With the Wounded
BORDEAUX, Sept. 17.—Among those who arrived here yesterday, in two train-loads of German wounded, was a man who had a big wine business in Bordeaux. A few days before hostilities broke out he left Bordeaux to join the German colors. All the wounded were in a pitiable plight. Their uniforms were rags and

IVY POISON ON HANDS, FACE, LEGS

In Pimples, Started to Spread. Burned, Itched and Irritated. Could Not Sleep Many Nights. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Trouble Disappeared.

20 Higwood St., Waterbury, Conn.—"I got poison ivy on my hands, face and legs and it started to spread. It broke out in pimples, very small and looked as if small white seeds were spilled all over my legs and face. It burned and itched so that I scratched and irritated it. My clothing made it worse and I could not sleep many nights. For two months I tried other remedies and they didn't help me. Then I got some Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they afforded relief as soon as I bathed with the Cuticura Soap and put the Cuticura Ointment on. In a week the trouble had completely disappeared." (Signed) Edward F. Moxel, Jan. 31, 1914.

Samples Free by Mail
For pimples and blackheads the following is a most effective and economical treatment: Gently smear the affected parts with Cuticura Ointment, on the end of the finger, but do not rub. Wash off the Cuticura Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water and continue bathing for some minutes. This treatment is best on rising and retiring. At other times use Cuticura Soap freely for the toilet and bath, to assist in preventing inflammation, irritation and clogging of the pores. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each with 32-p. Skin Book will be sent free upon request. Address: "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Safety First!

There's a sage farmer not many miles from this town, who once told us this sure formula to tell a mushroom from a toadstool.

"If you live, it's a mushroom."

There's a similar element of risk in the buying of cheap clothes. It is all a question of whether you want to risk $12 or $15 on a chance, or invest $18, $20 or $25 on a certainty.

At the Live Store we can sell you a $15.00 suit as good—and probably better—than you can get anywhere else in this country.

But for $5.00 or $10.00 more we can give you a Kuppenheimer suit—and a Kuppenheimer suit is what might best be described as a "dead sure thing."

You need never worry about discovering—too late, alas—that your mushroom was, in fact, a toadstool.

And to make assurance doubly sure, both this store and the makers stand behind Kuppenheimer Clothes with a double guarantee that insures your lasting satisfaction or your money back without a quibble or a frown.

"Safety First" in your clothes buying!

MIDDLESEX NORTH FAIR

Opened Today With Several Attractive Features—Typical Farmers' Dinner Was Enjoyed

Quite a large crowd was on hand at the Middlesex North fair today in Dracut when the exhibits were put on display and at 12 o'clock a typical farmers' dinner was enjoyed by the majority of those present. In the afternoon a program of several features was presented. An exhibition of family, draft, farm, matched and saddle horses was given at two o'clock, while at the same hour a baby show was being held in the vestry of the church nearby. A pony exhibit on the highway was also a feature of the day.

VALUABLE HORSE SHOT
A valuable bay horse, valued at $300, the property of D. T. Sullivan, the local dealer, was shot Tuesday as a result of an accident sustained on Monday afternoon. The horse, one of a pair of bays, was being driven down Thorndike street to Appleton street when it slipped on the ear tracks and fell heavily to the ground, receiving internal injuries. Dr. Sherman, the veterinarian, was called and ordered the injured animal removed to the barn where everything possible was done to relieve its sufferings. On Tuesday morning the horse was in great agony and Mr. Sullivan, realizing that while it might live it would never be fit for work, decided that it would be better to end its suffering. Accordingly, the horse was put out of misery by Dr. Sherman.

ACKNOWLEDGES HONORS CONFERRED, BUT SOLDIERS SHOULD BE GIVEN THE CREDIT
LONDON, Sept. 17.—Reuter's Agency correspondent says King Albert has sent a telegram to Emperor Nicholas gratefully acknowledging the honor conferred upon him by the emperor in the bestowal of the Cross of Knight of the Military Order of St. George. "I hope your majesty will permit me," King Albert's message said, "to bestow all the merit on my gallant soldiers. Your majesty's eulogy of the Belgian people and army particularly touches me and will be received with lively gratitude and praise by the entire nation."

PLACES FIGURING IN WAR

Information by National Geographical Bureau—Rheims, Heligoland and Cracow

The National Geographic Society of Washington, D. C., has prepared the following facts concerning places that are figuring prominently in the news of the military operations in the European war.

REIMS (Rheims)—A city of north-eastern France, eighty-five miles east of Paris. It is situated on the right bank of the Marne, and is connected with the city of Paris by the Marne-Rhone canal. It is one of the six cities, each of which with numerous forts constituting the second line of defense to the north-east of Paris. In 1871 the construction of a chain of detached forts was begun in the vicinity of Reims. Thirteen fortresses have been built in a semi-circle about the city, and the city itself is at a mean distance of six miles from the center of the city. The hills on the Paris side are open and unimportant. The city is the chief wool market in France. The manufacture of champagne, machinery, chemicals, paper, capsules, bottles, canisters, soap and paper is carried on extensively. In the foreign invasions of 1814, Reims was captured and recaptured. In 1870 it was made by the Germans the seat of a governor-general and impoverished by heavy requisitioning.

COMPIEGNE—A French town, 45 miles from the heart of Paris on the northern railway between Paris and St. Quentin, with a population exceeding 15,000. Until 1870 it was the occasional residence of the French kings. Paper, building, rope making, steam sawing, distilling and the manufacture of chemicals and machinery are among its industries. At the close of Compiègne in 1430 Joan of Arc was taken prisoner by the English. In 1914 the town offered a stubborn resistance to the Prussian troops. From 1870 to 1871 it was one of the headquarters of the German army.

NOYON—A city of northern France, 47 miles north of Paris, and 55 miles from the heart of Paris. It is situated on a direct line to the French capital. It is built on the foot and on the slopes of a hill. Noyon, with a population of about 10,000, is a trade center in grain and livestock. It is a center of chemical works, and has a large paper, wax, and soap industry. The town was destroyed by St. Quentin in the close of the third century. The English and the Burgundians ravaged the town during the Hundred Years' war. In 1544 a treaty was signed there by Francis I and Charles V. The city was captured by the Spaniards in 1567 and afterwards by the League, who were expelled in 1591 by Henry IV. John Calvin was born at Noyon in 1509.

FOYE—A town of northern France, 25 miles south of Paris. It is situated on the right bank of the Oise. The town is a center of the grain trade in the Saunier, the fertile plateau in which the town is located. The church of St. Pierre in Foye was begun in the 11th century and completed in the 16th century.

MONTMIDI—A town of northern France, 25 miles south of Paris, with a population of about 5,000, situated on the right bank of the Oise. The town's industries include tanning and the manufacture of zinc-white. A brave and successful resistance to the Spanish troops was offered here in 1638.

BAR-LE-DUC—A town of about 16,000 population in northeastern France, 35 miles west of Nancy, and 40 miles southeast of Reims. The industries of the town include the manufacture of jam, machinery, corsets, hosiery, flannel goods and wall paper. The town is traversed throughout its length by the river Meuse. At the northeast is the canal from the Meuse to the Rhine and for the southeast the Canal des Usines. Through probably of ancient origin the town was unimportant till the 19th century, when it became the residence of the counts and dukes of Bar.

CRACOW—A town in Galicia, Austria, the intellectual center of the Polish nation, five miles from the Russian border, and 212 miles west of Lemberg. In 1910 its population was 141,856. It occupies a position of great strategic importance. In 1806 it was the Stanislaus cathedral, and the kings of Poland were crowned and the rulers and great men of Poland. Although Cracow manufactures machinery, agricultural implements, chemicals, soap, tobacco, etc., it is more important as a trading center. Its position on the Vistula and at the junction of several railways makes it a natural mart for the products of Poland, Hungary and Russia and Austria. On the third partition of Poland in 1795, Cracow was incorporated in 1809. Napoleon incorporated it with the duchy of Warsaw. In 1815 the Congress of Vienna made Cracow a free state. Following an insurrection in 1846, Russia, Austria and Prussia gave it to Austria.

PRZEMYSL—A town of Galicia, Austria, 37 miles west of Lemberg, 38 miles south of the Russian border, and 35 miles south of Cracow. In 1910 it had a population of 45,502. It is situated on the river San and is one of the strongest fortresses in Galicia. Its industries comprise the manufacture of machinery, liquors, the tanning of leather, cotton spinning and the sawing of timber. It is one of the oldest towns in Galicia, claiming to have been founded in the eighth century, and was at one time capital of a large independent principality. In the 17th century its importance was destroyed by invasions of Tatars, Cossacks and Swedes.

GILGENBURG—A small Prussian town, about half way between Tilsit, where the Russian army crossed the Ross river, and Königsberg, the principal town of West Prussia. It is but a few miles from the Baltic sea and practically equidistant from Königsberg and Insterburg, northeast of the former and northwest of the latter. It is about 30 miles west of the Prussian-Russian frontier. Its population is about 2,000.

HELIGOLAND—An island of Germany, 48 miles from Cuxhaven, at the mouth of the river Elbe, and 55 miles from Bremen. It is the most important of the river Weser. It has a population of about 2,000. From 1807 to 1890 it was a British possession. In the latter year it was ceded to Germany. Since that time it has been strongly fortified with heavy artillery. Inside its harbor the largest ships can ride at anchor and take in coal and other supplies. In times of peace some 25,000 people visit the island in the summer for sea bathing.

THE MIDNIGHT SUN IS

ALWAYS CHARMING—NATURAL PHENOMENON CAN BE SEEN IN BOTH HEMISPHERES

"The midnight sun" is one of those seemingly mysterious natural phenomena which exercise a perpetual charm over the popular imagination. The northern part of Scandinavia has acquired for itself the distinctive name of the "Land of the Midnight Sun," but the title should be extended to include a complete circuit of the earth along the Arctic circle. Then, too, the southern hemisphere has a precisely smaller phenomenon, which occurs along the Antarctic circle, indicating a portion of Wilkes Land.

Properly speaking, a midnight sun is seen but once a year in either hemisphere. Confining our attention to the northern hemisphere, the midnight sun is visible near the Arctic circle on the date of the summer solstice, which occurs about June 21, at the time when the sun, in its apparent annual circuit of the sky, reaches its greatest northern declination, about 23 1/2 degrees, which is precisely equal to the inclination of the earth's axis of rotation from a perpendicular to the plane of its orbit around the sun.

The Arctic circle is situated this same angular distance (23 1/2 degrees) from the North pole. When the sun is directly over the equator, about March 21, its light reaches simultaneously both poles of the earth. As the sun begins to move northward, the light quits the South pole, which then enters on its period of six-months night. But at the same time the sun rises higher at the North pole, which in its turn enters upon its record of six-months day.

In the meantime, along the Arctic circle, the days grow longer and the nights shorter, as the sun comes continually northward until, at the solstice, when the sun is 23 1/2 degrees north of the equator, there will be one period of twenty-four hours during which the sun does not set at all in the Arctic circle. At the hour of midnight on that day the sun, describing a circle through the stars, touches the rim of the horizon in the north, like the ball of a gigantic pendulum, and then, without disappearing, immediately begins to rise again to describe the other half of its sweep in the sky.

This is the phenomenon called the "midnight sun." Conversely at the time of the winter solstice, which occurs about Dec. 22, when the sun is at its greatest southern declination, there is one absolutely sunless day on the Arctic circle, when the sun sinks just under the southern horizon.

half a degree (about 33 miles) south of the Arctic circle. After the day of the solstice the sun begins to dip below the horizon again, because it is then going south once more, and the nights, beginning with the length of only a few minutes, gradually increase until they, too, for one single occasion, attain the length of twenty-four hours. Within the Arctic circle the days and nights, alternately, greatly exceed twenty-four hours in length. At the very pole, as we have seen, they may be a month long, and at the North Cape three months.—Garrett P. Servis in the Detroit Tribune.

CRIMINAL COURT WILL OF SAMUEL EMERY

The trial of the case of Ione Bruns, charged with maintaining a house of ill fame, was resumed in the criminal session of superior court this forenoon, Hon. James B. O'Donnell presiding with the defendant's case. Shortly before the noon recess the case was given to the jury for deliberation. Two witnesses testified today. Mrs. A. Perron, agent of the property which the defendant occupied, claiming that the house was rented to another person, and Miss Brassard, denied the charges made by the government. Defendant was held in $1000 surety while the jury was out.

Paul Broncato, who was defaulted yesterday, pleaded guilty to unlawfully keeping liquor and a $50 fine was imposed. After pleading guilty to a complaint charging him with breaking and entering the store of Susie Thorpe in Merrimack street and the larceny of $3.84, John Sandakuk, aged 15 years, was placed on probation on condition that he secure work and lead a straight life. The young man told the court that he had been in this country but a year and would not have committed the theft only for the fact that he was out of work and needed food.

Osmond Field was called on continuance for unlawfully keeping liquor and his case was again continued for further consideration.

TRAGEDY IN CLIFTON

Candy Salesman Killed Mrs. Laura Guild of Somerville and Then Committed Suicide

CLIFTON, Sept. 18.—Mrs. Laura Guild of Somerville was shot and killed today by Bertram G. Lawton, a candy salesman of Salem, who immediately committed suicide. It was stated that Lawton had been paying attention to Mrs. Guild.

Mrs. Guild had been living at the Frazer cottage with her little son and Lawton is said to have been a frequent visitor this summer.

He met Mrs. Guild this noon as she was going to lunch and fired five shots at her, three of which took effect. She was dead when a physician reached the scene. Lawton coolly reloaded the revolver and then, stepping back into a field beside the road ended his own life with a bullet through the heart.

GREAT BATTLE OF AISNE IS STILL IN PROGRESS

An official statement issued at Berlin says that the battle between the Oise and the Meuse rivers continues with sure indications that the allies are falling back. It is declared that the French attempt to cut through the German right wing failed and a sortie from Verdun on the right bank of the Meuse was repulsed. The German army is said to be advancing slowly but surely.

The above statement evidently was issued late yesterday as the substance of it was received in this country under date of Sept. 17.

It was announced officially in Paris at three o'clock this afternoon that the allies had progressed somewhat. The western wing was declared to have repulsed a vigorous German offensive.

In proroguing parliament today King George said that he was compelled to go to war for the protection of the public law of Europe and the vital interests of the empire and that fighting for a worthy purpose Great Britain would not lay down her arms until that purpose had been fully achieved.

Austrian advisers report that the Servians have evacuated Semlin, the town which they seized when they began their invasion of Hungary. Servian reports are to the effect that their successes continue.

The Germans successful in driving the Russian invaders from East Prussia are reported pushing their way into Russian Poland. The Austrian armies following their disastrous clash with the Russians in Galicia are believed to be attempting the reform at Cracow.

EFFORTS OF ALLIES HAVE BEEN DIVIDED INTO THREE SUPREME STRUGGLES

As has been the case heretofore when the struggle along the vast battle line in France has been most acute the battle is raging with great fierceness along the whole front which extends, roughly speaking, from the River Oise, near Noyon, to the German fortress of Metz, but barring a slight retirement of the German right wing at certain points no decided advantage is credited to either side.

Presumably the efforts of the allies have been divided into three supreme struggles: first to dislodge the Germans from the heights of the Aisne; second to break through the fourth and fifth German armies in the center and third, to outflank the German right wing and Gen. Von Kluck. The position of the fourth and fifth German armies is considered not so strong as the remainder of the line while if the flanking movement is successful the railroad lines on which the Germans depend so greatly would be cut.

While the next move of either army is a matter of the most speculations the press of London dwells today upon the possibility that the Germans are striving only to hold the strong positions they now have assumed with the view of keeping the allies at bay and thus affording Emperor William opportunity to rush more troops to his eastern frontier.

On the other hand it would be no surprise if the Germans, now reinforced should attempt another aggressive movement similar to the one which the allies inaugurated so successfully after the invaders had exhausted themselves in the avalanche-like rush toward Paris.

Figures have been compiled estimating the German losses at 3200 daily for the last fortnight. This totals more than 44,000 since Sept. 4. As the losses of the allies are known to have been tremendous, and adding the terrible loss suffered by the Austrians in Galicia some idea may be gained of the extraordinary sacrifices of men during these first few weeks of the world's greatest war. No confirmation has been received here of the reported Servian evacuation of Semlin nor have the brief despatches bringing this rumor told whether the retirement was due to strategic reasons or a result of the onslaughts of the Austrians, aided by the gunboats which are reported to have bombarded both Semlin and Belgrade. All Servian advisers insist that the Serbs are continuing their vigorous forward movement.

Even preliminary talk of peace seems to be resented by the British public. While the pact recently signed by the allies insures concerted action in the direction of peace on their part the despatches from Washington relative to the attitude on peace of Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, the German chancellor, as conveyed through James W. Gerard, the American ambassador at Berlin, together with despatches from Rome saying that Austria-Hungary desires peace, have aroused considerable discussion here and editorial articles already have appeared saying that peace on any terms is out of the question until what is styled as "the menace of German militarism" is crushed.

The earlier impatience of the British public for news from the front seems not to be more or less reconciled to the enforced necessity of awaiting the official bulletins as given out by the press bureau. Despatches received from Berlin say that the German public has been without actual news of the situation in the western area of the war for two weeks. There is nothing to indicate a change in the situation in the eastern zone. Presumably the armies of Austria are still trying to break into Cracow while the Russian army under General Rennenkampf is holding the Germans at bay along the frontier of Poland.

While public opinion and the press in Italy and Rumania apparently are still in the dark as to the course these nations will pursue as the struggle continues, a semi-official assurance came from Denmark today from the newspaper Politiken stating that country will remain firm in its neutrality.

PRESIDENT WILSON CAN SEE VERY LITTLE PROSPECT OF PEACE IN EUROPE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—President Wilson sees little prospect of peace in Europe reflected in the unofficial exchanges which American ambassadors have been conducting with Germany.

Great Britain, France, and Russia.

This was learned today at the White House following a careful study of the messages which Ambassador Gerard cabled giving his recollection of an informal conversation with the imperial German chancellor.

Until something more tangible and more definite in the way of overtures comes from the belligerents, the president feels that his hands are virtually tied.

ALLIES ARE PROGRESSING SOMEWHAT ON THEIR WESTERN WING—GERMANS REPULSED

PARIS, Sept. 18.—3:11 p. m.—The allies have progressed somewhat on their western wing and are repulsing a vigorous German offensive movement, according to an official announcement made this afternoon by the French war office.

The communication follows: "The battle continued during the day of Sept. 17 along the front from the river Oise to the Woerth without important changes in the situation at any point."

"First: On our left wing, on the heights to the north of the river Aisne we have made slight progress against certain points. Three offensive counter attacks undertaken by the Germans against the English army failed. From Craonne to Rheims we ourselves repulsed some very violent counter attacks executed during the night. The enemy tried in vain to take the offensive against Rheims."

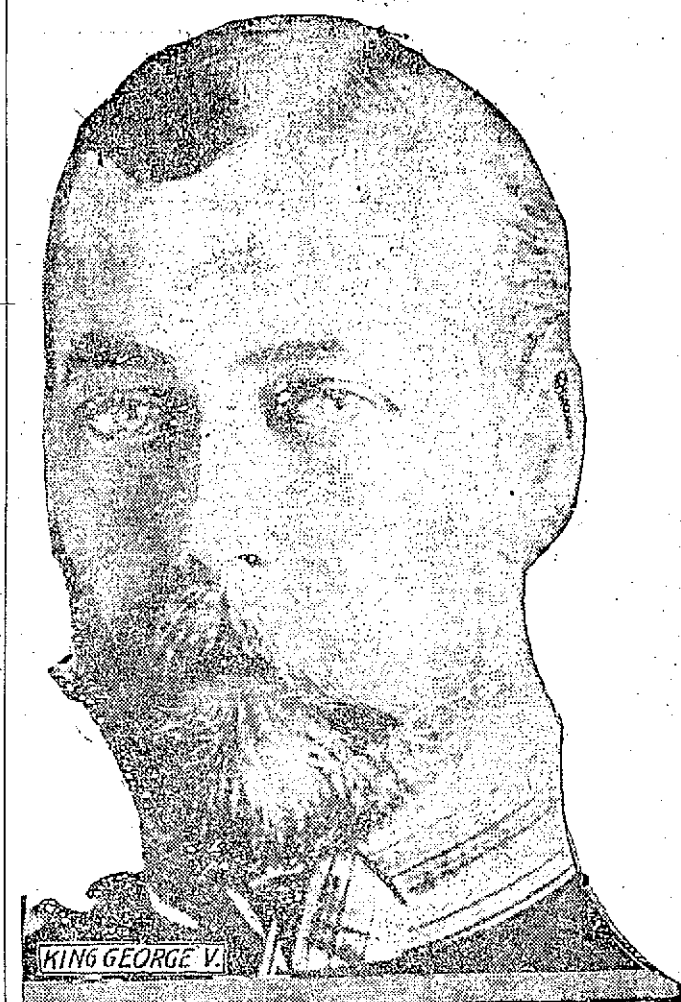

"Second, on the center, from Rheims to the Argonne, the enemy has reinforced himself by constructing important fortifications and has adopted a purely defensive attitude. To the east of the Argonne the situation is unchanged."

"On our right wing in Lorraine and the Vosges, the enemy occupies positions on a defensive basis in the vicinity of the frontier."

Second Edition PARLIAMENT PROROGUED

Wild Scenes Follow Announcement That Home Rule Bill is Law—King's Speech on War

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Scenes of enthusiasm in the staid legislative chambers of Westminster palace were enacted today when the two houses of parliament were prorogued. King George was absent inspecting the troops and his speech was read in the house of lords by Viscount Haldane, the lord high chancellor and in the house of commons by John P. Whitley, the deputy speaker. When the announcement was made in the house of lords that the royal assent had been given to the Irish Home Rule and the Welsh Church Disestablishment Suspension bills and to a number of emergency bills cheers were given for the passing of the Irish and the Welsh bills. On the announcement of the passing of the Irish Home Rule bill, in the house of commons the Nationalists and Liberals broke into loud cheers, which were repeated again and again. When Crooks, the labor party leader, asked if it was in order to sing "God Save the King," without waiting for permission he started the first verse himself and broke down with emotion. The anthem was taken up by the members in the gallery as well as by the members and the singing was heard in the palace yard. As the members filed out of the chamber Mr. Crooks cried out: "Continued to page fourteen"

Last Tuesday night the local youngster met and decisively defeated Harry Snyder, the Boston bantamweight who had successfully defended the New England title in his class up to the time he met Brooks. Brooks, however, won the title from him Tuesday in a battle which stirred the blood of every fan in the arena. Snyder, could find the local boxer on but few occasions.

Brooks is distinctly a boxer and his fighting is not much more than a well laid out plan. He can hit as well and if he should ever meet a boy of his own style and build would undoubtedly put him away. However, today he will meet his opponents and

KAISER WANTS UNCLE SAM LUSTIG TO BOX

To Ascertain Under What Terms the Allies Would Make Peace—Nothing Tangible in Message

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Germany has suggested informally that the United States should undertake to effect from Great Britain, France and Russia a statement of the terms under which the allies would make peace.

The suggestion was made by the imperial chancellor, von Bethmann-Hollweg, to Ambassador Gerard at Berlin, as a result of an inquiry sent by the American government to learn whether Emperor William was desirous of discussing peace as Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, and Oscar Straus recently reported.

No reply was made by Emperor William himself, nor did the imperial chancellor indicate whether his speech on behalf of his monarch, Ambassador Gerard called President Wilson the emperor's remarks from recollection, which was substantially as follows:

Text of Message
"Germany was appreciative of the American government's interest and offer of services in trying to make peace. Germany did not want war but had it forced on her. Even if she defects from the war she must have quick look Great Britain and Russia, all three have made an agreement not to make peace except by common consent. Similarly, England has announced through Premier Asquith and her diplomatic and newspaper that she intended to fight the limit of her endurance. In view of that declaration on the part of Great Britain, the United States ought to get proposals of peace from the allies. Germany could accept only a lasting peace, one that would make her people sure against future attacks. Ascent of peace would be interpreted by the allies as a sign of weakness on the part of Germany and would be misunderstood by the German people, who, having made great sacrifices, had the right to demand guarantee of security."

The above is all that Ambassador Gerard communicated as to his conversation. He added only the brief comment that he, himself, thought the message might possibly be opened to negotiation. President Wilson did not regard the message as a serious one, but a confidential incident to the acknowledgment of the American government's inquiry.

Expected Direct Reply
The president indicated that he had expected a reply to the inquiry to be sent eventually from the emperor himself, though he realized that the imperial chancellor may have consulted his monarch by telegraph before talking informally with the American ambassador.

President Wilson took no action as a result of the message, waiting to hear from Ambassador Gerard whether anything of a formal character could be obtained by him. Germany's position is that she will give her opinion on a term of peace when she has received a definite statement from the allies of their proposals. The statement that Germany did not want war, but had it forced on her, as well as the declaration that she wanted a lasting peace, is almost identical with the remarks which Mr. Bernstorff made to Ambassador Page in London last week.

Will Instruct Ambassadors
The general belief in well informed circles last night was that the president expected a reply to the inquiry to be sent eventually from the emperor himself, though he realized that the imperial chancellor may have consulted his monarch by telegraph before talking informally with the American ambassador.

President Wilson already has indicated that he believed that the emperor's position of the war should be made in a conference of the European powers.

WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE
Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating any food which is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on "light" products, it would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of blanded magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and will thus prevent the building of poisons and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Blasted magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach, but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which induces the digestive stomach trouble. It does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an indigestion and indigestion with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little blanded magnesia from your druggist, eat your food, and your next meal will be one of the blanded magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right."

LOCAL FOOTBALL

Outlook of Textile and High School Elevens This Fall

In a few days now baseball will be over for the season of 1914 so far as local fans are concerned. With the conclusion of the games between Lawrence and New London in the inter-league series now being played off the majority of the Lowell people who take an interest in clean, active sport will have to look elsewhere than the diamond for amusement.

Local Football Outlook
Of course the fall sport is football. With the conclusion of the world's series between Philadelphia (American) and the winner of the National League, local athletic interest will naturally center upon the elevens of the two local schools—Lowell Textile and Lowell High.

City Will Support Good Football
It has been said many times that Lowell will not support a high school football team but this is no different from any other. Give the public a first class aggregation of arduous athletes from the high school and the ex-champion of the athletic association will speed in support of a team such as represented Lowell High last season, however, can hardly be expected to be a paying proposition. The overwhelming defeat by Haverhill High last season is still fresh in the minds of those who witnessed the uneven struggle.

This year, however, Captain Moebius feels confident that the local high school will turn out a real football eleven. Good material is to be had at the school and, although a coach for the team has not been secured yet, the outlook is very good.

Textile to Have Strong Team
At the Textile school Captain Oliver Lane is very optimistic about the chances of his team this season. Textile, as well as the high school, did not turn out a team to be proud of by any means last fall and an effort will be made at the Moody street institution this year to make up for last season's poor showing by putting an exceptionally strong eleven on the hundred yard field.

The Lowell Textile school is very fortunate in having a man of the calibre of Arthur A. Stewart at the head of their athletics. Mr. Stewart, while an instructor in the institution, is in sympathy with the athletes and appreciates every move which may be made for the betterment of the school's athletics.

CANADA FEARS ENEMIES

ALL AEROPLANES MUST CARRY
DOMINION OFFICER—AMMUNITION
FORBIDDEN

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—Air craft have crossed the American border on several occasions since war began in Europe, and fear that a German or Austrian sympathizer in the United States or Canada may resort to bomb throwing has led the Canadian government to make regulations, announced here yesterday, governing the movements of aeroplanes in Canada.

A few days ago it is learned, the actions of an aeroplane in the vicinity of the Welland canal excited so much attention that canal guards were prepared to fire on it.

The government, under the regulations, forbids flight within 10 miles of the principal centers of population and points at which aeroplanes may alight have been designated.

Guards have been ordered to fire on air craft within 10 miles of Halifax, Sydney, St. John, Charlottetown, Quebec, Valcartier, Montreal, Ottawa, Edmonton, Kingston, Toronto, London, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, Victoria and Vancouver and of any government wireless station.

Any aeroplane carrying passengers which crosses the international boundary will be allowed to land only at Annapolis, N. S.; Woodstock, N. B.; Lake Megantic and Hemmingford, Que.; Athens, Welland and Essex, Ont.; Morris, Man.; Estevan, Sask. and Lethbridge, Alberta, and Chilliwack, B. C. Canadian officers must be carried on any air craft which enters and lands in Canada, and no firearms, explosives or photographic apparatus may be carried. No military air craft will be permitted in Canada which is not the property of the government.

NOTED OFFICERS KILLED

COL SIR EVELYN BRADFORD AND
MEDALS IN AFRICAN WARS

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Among the British officers killed, as made known in a casualty list issued last night, was Capt. Bertram Stewart of the West Kent Yeomanry. Capt. Stewart was one of the two officers who was imprisoned in a German fortress several months for spying and was pardoned by Emperor William on the occasion of his last visit to England.

In the list of dead also appear the names of Col Sir Evelyn Ridley Bradford of the Seaforth Highlanders, who was a well-known Londoner, and Lieut. Col. Louis St. Gratien LeMarchant of the East Lancashire regiment.

Col. Bradford was born in 1860. He served in a Nile expedition in 1898, the battles of Aden and Khartoum and in the South African war. In the latter war he was breveted a major and given the queen's medal and the king's medal for distinguished service.

Lieut. Col. LeMarchant was 18 years old and also had been honored for service in the field, having received the king's medal, the queen's medal and the distinguished service order for his work in the Chitral relief forces, 1895, and in South Africa in 1900-02.

On the occasion of his first appearance outdoors since his illness yesterday he was called into the Concord drug store, at the corner of East Merrimack and Fayette streets, where on behalf of a few assembled friends, Mr. John J. Dr. Deacey will remain at the hospital until the first of the week when he will depart for his home in Lawrence, where, after a rest, he will begin practice with an office in the Bay State building on Essex street. Dr. Deacey is a graduate of Tufts Medical school and in addition to his service at St. John's hospital has served on the staff of the Boston Floating hospital and at the State hospital at Tewksbury. While in Lowell he made a host of friends, who wish him every success in the practice of his profession. His successor at St. John's is Dr. Thos. FORWARD AMERICAN GOODS

British Officials Order Such Carcasses in Belligerent Vessels Sent to Destination

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Advice to the state department yesterday showed that in many cases the British government already has released cargoes of American goods seized in belligerent vessels at the time of the declaration of war. Many such cargoes have been forwarded to their destinations. It is expected that American shippers will ask for several million dollars in damages for delays caused by seizure, but the state department will not take up that question immediately. Under international law ships sailing at any time do so with the risk of being exposed to conditions arising from a possible declaration of war while en route.

$5.00 PANTS FREE

On my Fall Opening two weeks ago, I had a special offering of a pair of trousers free for that occasion. Since that time I have had several inquiries through the mail from out of town customers. Some said the season was a little early to order then; others told me the time limit was short and they couldn't take advantage of it with the double holiday near at hand. Now at this reading I am giving you two days' notice. I have forty-eight trouser patterns to give away with suit or overcoat orders. I want my out-of-town customers to respond in large numbers, and for TODAY and SATURDAY, positively the last two days, I will give

I am an optimistic man—I have faith in this country—I have faith in the future—I have faith in the people because I have always found the people to be right in the long run.

Whatever may be the cause, it is a fact nevertheless that people are not paying much attention to my overcoat announcement. Just now it isn't that you don't need an overcoat—it isn't that the weather of the past few days was too warm, we have had warm weather other years, but people responded to overcoat bargains.

LISTEN TO ME—You will get cold weather soon enough. You will need an overcoat. I offer you now the chance to get a suit or overcoat for less money than the ordinary clothing dealer can put that garment on his counter for. It is positively the greatest trade of my career and that means something. Will you order now? You don't spend your money until you want your garment—Take the suit or overcoat when the weather compels you to wear it.

As a Token of My Regard

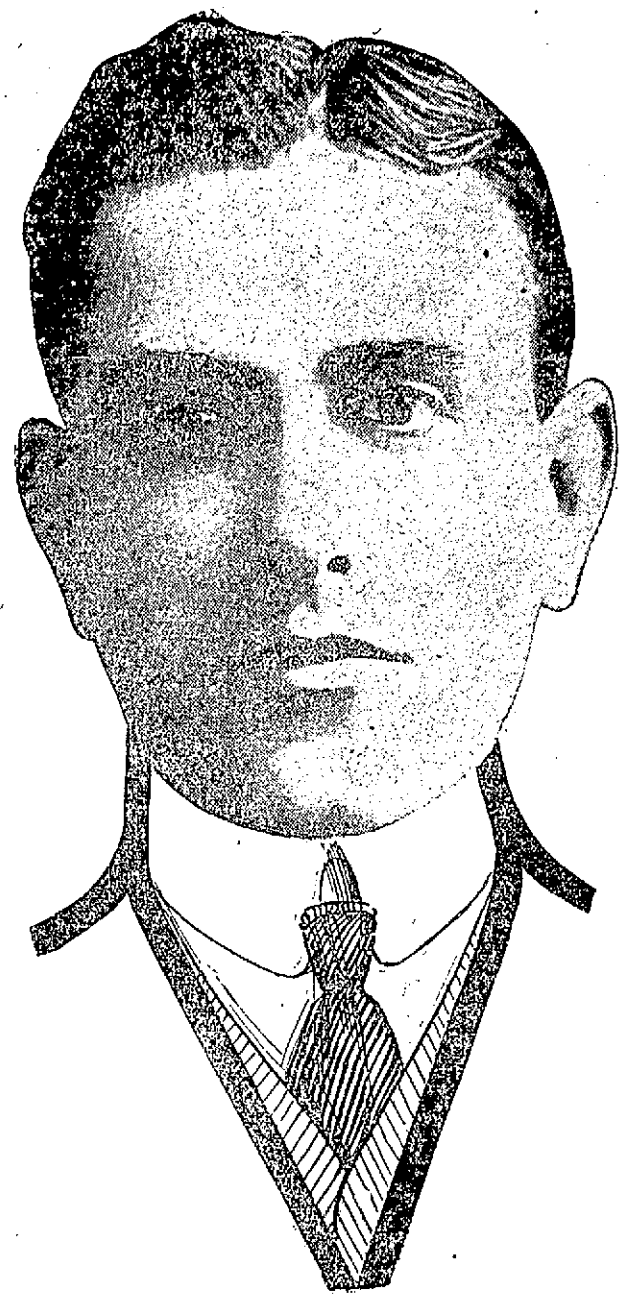

To answer the many inquiries I had in the last week as an inducement to the late buyer to force his order earlier and to the new customer to give me a trial, I will give to each customer ordering a suit or overcoat Friday or Saturday

It was an exciting match and was witnessed by many friends of the bowlers. In the first string Moran secured an early lead and won easily. The second string was close but went to Hartigan. Moran started off like a winner in the last string but Hartigan rolled three spares in succession and soon had the heart taken out of Jack. Hartigan's high string was 119. Moran rolled a total of 276 while Hartigan's total was 295. These men will meet again in the near future and Moran predicts that he will turn the tables. Both athletes are employed at the Federal Shoe Co. Before leaving Chester informed his rival that they would be unable to meet again as Kittredge was going to close. Jack wanted to know why, and was informed that the "alleys" were going to war. Spare him, Mike!

NEW MAP SHOWING THE LINEUP OF GERMANS AND ALLIES IN GREAT CONFLICT IN FRANCE

FIRE IN JEWELRY STORE

ALARM CALLED THE DEPARTMENT TO STORE ON EAST MERRIMACK STREET

The fire department was called out at 10.15 o'clock last night in response to an alarm from box 6, at the corner of East Merrimack and Howe streets, when a blaze started in the jewelry store formerly owned by the Quia Jewelry Co., but now the property of Hepeleto Buslowicz. The store is at 55 East Merrimack street.

The fire was discovered by Officer T. A. Moloney while making the rounds of his beat. An explosion of some sort aggravated the blaze to such a degree that the firemen had difficulty in getting it under control. Beyond burning the fixtures of the store and smoking up the interior and doing little damage was done.

PRACTICAL BEAUTIFYING

Long before Emerson declared that beauty is its own excuse for being the civilized peoples of the earth strove to make applied beauty go hand in hand with prosperity. All over the world sprang up cities which reflected an order that is vainly sought today and public buildings were erected that have been an inspiration to the artistic world. Whether in Athens or Florence or burned Lorraine the story was written in stone that a people can advance in riches without losing an appreciation of the beautiful.

It has been an old reproach that America in its admiration of the dollar has had little time to admire aught else or to seek for idealization in its cities, but if this accusation was ever just, the occasion for it is passing. There are still a great many people, however, who can see no sense in beautifying cities, towns and homes, unless there is a practical return in dollars and cents.

In his little talk at the meeting of the directors of the Lowell board of trade a few evenings ago, Mr. Harvey B. Greene who has established his right to speak on the city beautiful reminded his hearers that instead of being a drain on municipal funds, city beautifying will have a direct benefit in increased monetary returns. He told of two similarly laid out streets in Somerville, one of which was shaded by trees and beautified by strips of grass, and the other of which was left bare and unimproved. Similar houses were built on each but the real estate dealers found that while they could get $120 a year for the houses on the shaded street they could get only $300 for the houses on the less desirable street.

A road expert who spoke here some time ago on the necessity for improving the roads leading into the city emphasized the fact that an improvement in such streets would mean a higher property valuation and a consequent improvement in the whole vicinity; the contrary is proved often by the deterioration that follows the erection of an undesirable block in a nice district or the carelessness that permits property to fall into decay. When a little interest is shown in maintaining high standards the citizens generally respond in kind but municipal carelessness is followed by general indifference.

It seems useless to agitate the acquisition of parks or playgrounds while those we have are being kept under so many difficulties and with so slight an appropriation, and the greatest hope for the development of the city beautiful lies in the hands of private citizens. If more of our department heads were actuated by the spirit that prompts the officials of the Lowell Gas company and the New England Telephone company to keep beauty spots, Lowell would be a far more lovely city. In Manchester, N. H., the mill officials have taken an interest in city beautifying and the result is creditable. A like interest would have a like result in Lowell which started so well with the erection of the grand and beautiful St. Anne's church but which seems to have lost a fine ideal. A little intelligent interest by all would make the city far more pleasing to the eye while adding to its prosperity. City beautifying is an activity which has a direct result not only in higher standards but in higher financial returns.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETINGS

It is not only fitting but most desirable that the representative citizens of a community should frequently and publicly discuss its problems, suggesting improvements and criticizing innovations sincerely and in the proper spirit. If this were done in a city such as Lowell and if the general public could be instructed and educated to a higher plane of civic ideals, the abuses and restrictions which are a bar to genuine progress would melt away like snow in the sunshine. The suggested series of general meetings of our board of trade is therefore an excellent idea, and its adoption, if favored by the rank and file of the body and responded to generously would demonstrate the power of well directed public opinion. Among our business men, professional men, manufacturers, publishers and others are men of high ideals, sound judgment and civic loyalty, the expression of whose views would be decidedly beneficial to the city. Even though these expressions carry no direct power to make them mandatory, they appear to the strongest power in American public life—the power of an intelligent public demand that cannot long be ignored.

LOCAL BUSINESS BOOM

In all walks of life and in every sphere of daily activity one hears criticism or suggestions that are both wise or pertinent. The banker, waiter, clerk, and the man in the street, all have something to say which would be of general interest to the citizens as a class and in our higher officials. Yet they talk very little good, for they vanish into thin air and are speedily forgotten. Those who thus condemn or approve any phase of municipal life could be gathered into a group such as the board of trade, and if their ideas could be aired openly from time to time, the voters and non-voters would soon learn whether the city is progressing or retrograding and would take steps accordingly. President Marden wisely outlined the sphere of activity which the board might advantageously follow at the meeting on Wednesday evening when he declared that the body aims at being useful to the general public by emphasizing high civic ideals but by refraining from being partisan or sectional in city affairs. He well knows, as do the other directors, that an active participation in a purely political matter, whether civic or state, would react unfavorably on the or-work is to be done by intelligent action with a chance for general discussion and by unbiased publicity. There are many avenues of activity in which the body may manifest genuine and constructive interest in public affairs, and of this there is no stronger proof than is contained in the various speeches made at the recent meeting. Among the many excellent suggestions offered were: the more general use of the court house as a site for city W. Butler; the civic center mentioned by Judge Fisher; the criticism of thoroughness made by Messrs. Walsh and O'Hearn; the school suggestion of Frank Ricard; the municipal survey mentioned by Daniel Carroll; and the practical improvements outlined by Secretary Murphy. All the suggestions made or criticisms offered were, in fact, very practical and very much to the point and they offer food for reflection to the people of the entire city. If the general meetings so favorably discussed are to give us similar airings of civic affairs, then by all means let us have general meetings—and frequently.

LOCAL BUSINESS BOOM

While we are confidently anticipating a great business boom for this country which shall make all our mills and factories run overtime, let us not forget that our local merchants have just passed a season of stagnation and are now facing what should under normal conditions be a busy and prosperous season. When the heat of summer passes people get ready for domestic changes necessitating expenditures for winter consumption. They hasten to do so, clothes of all kinds take on a winter cast, and in our higher officials. Yet they talk very little good, for they vanish into thin air and are speedily forgotten. Those who thus condemn or approve any phase of municipal life could be gathered into a group such as the board of trade, and if their ideas could be aired openly from time to time, the voters and non-voters would soon learn whether the city is progressing or retrograding and would take steps accordingly. President Marden wisely outlined the sphere of activity which the board might advantageously follow at the meeting on Wednesday evening when he declared that the body aims at being useful to the general public by emphasizing high civic ideals but by refraining from being partisan or sectional in city affairs. He well knows, as do the other directors, that an active participation in a purely political matter, whether civic or state, would react unfavorably on the or-member that The Sun is reaching more people than ever before in its long and prosperous career and is better equipped to meet any demands upon it by Lowell advertisers. The most successful stores can well attest the value of a Sun advertisement which goes into the homes of thousands of Lowell people who are considering a purchase in some line and tell them where in the city they may get the best value for their money. A live newspaper is one of the best agencies for the furthering of congenial business relations between merchant and customer, and in this respect The Sun may, without seeming egotistical, claim unique distinction.

NEXT GREAT BATTLE

There have been great battles during the present war besides the battles between the Germans and the allies, whether in France or Belgium, but they are not followed with the same amount of interest; neither have they been so instrumental in shaping the final result. The eyes of the world, therefore, are watching the predicted contest at the river Aisne, which flows between the encamped forces of the Germans and the allies. If the English and French are victorious, it may be possible to forestall the result of the war and its possible duration; if the Germans are victorious other big battles may be expected to follow in short order.

The Germans are now on the defensive and are fighting hard to recover a position which they have apparently lost. The struggles of the last week have been disadvantageous to them but they have displayed the efficiency of their fighting machine in the order with which they have retreated. In the contradictory character of the war news it is not possible to tell how the contest is going, but the direction of the advance or retreat of either side will tell the story. Germany made a bold attack but did not achieve her ends; whether she is to go down hill or to march forward again after a breathing spell the battle of the Aisne will reveal.

EASTERN FREIGHT RATES

There is a good deal of justice in the request of the eastern railroads that they be permitted to reopen their appeal for an advance of freight rates for the necessity that prompted their action on the last occasion has been increased materially by the stagnation of trade and commerce that has followed the war. In the partial grant of railroad demands the eastern roads fared badly, though it is doubtful if the needs of any other section were more pressing. It is not the time to speak of the various policies that brought such a condition about. Suffice it to say that the eastern railroads stand badly in need of revenue and cannot raise it unless they be given permission to raise freight rates. Business may feel that such an increase would be a burden, but further railroad deterioration would be a still heavier one. The roads should at least be given another opportunity to argue their case before the Interstate commerce commission.

SEEN AND HEARD

Complaints come from various sources about the robbery of orchards and vegetable gardens in different parts of the city. Gangs of boys, some old enough to have sense, make raids into apple orchards and carry off all the fruit they can gather up. They make a specialty of raiding tomato patches so much so that some who have raised a supply for the season have had to buy what they need as the greatest part of their crop was stolen.

REPAIR FIRM STREET

I approve very highly of the articles in your paper showing up the wretched condition of our streets. But there are many other streets just as bad or even worse than the ones mentioned. I will mention one that is in wretched condition. I refer to Elm street. This street is the one taken by strangers crossing the city from Boston street and it is certainly a disgrace. One night search all the cities of the state and not find any worse than Elm street. The various points that have wrenched many an auto. When this street was called the other day, these holes were converted into oil wells. Now if Sept. 18, 1914, will only send his men around with broken stone and fill up these holes while the oil is fresh, there may be a much needed improvement. The property owners on these streets have a right to some consideration as taxpayers even if the reputation of the city be left out of the question altogether. I hope you will insert this letter in your valuable paper, Mr. Editor, and keep right after the street department until something is done. Thanking you for the space.

Respectfully yours,
Taxpayer.

MISSION RATHER PERFUNCTORY.

The poetry on which modern wars are fought, involving the destiny of nations, is the poetry of the music-hall and the cabaret. Men go to their death on doggerel. Were the fate of these United States on trial today, our battalions would be going under like the time of the latest musical Broadway "rug" unless it was the classic, immortal doggerel of "There'll be a hot time in the old town tonight." I don't know what the Kaiser's quarter-million men sang as they marched through Belgium. But German soldiers, I presume, sing that they sang the tunes and the exact number of verses prescribed by the general staff. But that is only a guess. Even German infantrymen, I imagine, are allowed to sing what comes nearest to their hearts—something very cheap and stirring.

That is why I consider the poet laureate's verses fully as good as any that England has produced in the moment of crisis. Mr. Bridges' lines are not only stirring; they come so close to the swing of doggerel that we can easily imagine English soldiers going to their death to the lift of them in the face of the German hosts.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

MAINE ECHOES
The trend of popular political feeling, as disclosed by the democratic success in the Maine election on Monday, unmistakably shows that, whatever may have been the fact before the war in Europe, when the term and other domestic subjects were more dominant in the public mind, the republican more can safely assume that this fall the feeling of the people in the Union—Providence Tribune.

WAR ATROCITIES

In reading the Belgian accounts of the German brutalities in Belgium, it must be remembered that a fair trial requires adequate hearing of both sides without prejudice. And that is no less important to remember that we Americans are not the properly constituted court authorized to try this indictment. It is probable that the shameful crimes were committed by German soldiers. It is quite as probable that there were acts of Belgian that were peculiarly exasperating. —Lewiston Sun.

HER MEMORIAL

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson's aging wish was fulfilled when the house passed the senate bill abolishing the slim alimony in Washington. A fitting memorial to this estimable and devoted woman.—Springfield Union.

DON'T TURN PESSIMIST

If ever there was a time when the people needed an optimistic spirit it is right now. In the first place our country is not going to become involved in the great struggle across the water. Every citizen of this country is going to the burden of taxation and curtailing their productive possibilities, we are bound to reap a rich harvest when the war is over, and our country, but permanently. For years our resources will be severely taxed to help Europe rehabilitate itself.—Dover Times.

PARCEL POST MARKETING

Marketing by parcel post seems to have resulted in diversified opinions. Some are greatly pleased with the prospect of direct marketing of such various places and themselves to proper distribution by this means and already are availing themselves of the facilities that have been provided. Others see a danger in the method, and believe that a great moral or intellectual development needs the force of arms back of it. It has for too long been the German fallacy.—Holt's Transcript.

FATH IN ARMS

In a recent issue of that very excellent German paper, the Frankfurter Zeitung, appeared an editorial with this concluding sentence: "Germany's culture will be protected and upheld by German arms." Even after the war, Germany will be a Christian in Germany at the appeal of "Germany's arms." It will be seen that in those days the great German nation was not a nation of arms and believed that a great moral or intellectual development needs the force of arms back of it. It has for too long been the German fallacy.—Holt's Transcript.

LONE WATCH AT BRIDGE

STORY OF THE TRAGIC END OF MAN KNOWN TO NARRATOR AS "OLD MAN JIM"

Come in, stranger? That's right, shut the door, for this ain't no weather to be hanging with; reminds me of the night I come to the bridge. Yes, sir, it must be nigh onto 30 years ago. I was only a lad of 15 then. Of man Jim had just turned from the watch when I fell against the door. Yes, sir, it was the same of those over there, man, Jim had it inside then. Oh but it opened on the chaise after the storm as the wind blew it clear off the hinges that night. "Bad idea to put it up like that at the start," I remember him saying then very words like it was only yesterday. Well, as I was saying, that night I fell in here the wind was blowing a gale and the bridge was covered with ice. I had walked all day without a bite to eat, and I just did make it to the bridge and see here I've been ever since. I was nearly froze and half starved, but of man Jim, he soon had me fixed up warm and was feeding me something hot from a bowl. A queer one, was of man Jim? He just told me to stay there and rest, and didn't speak to me again till after the watch next day.

I can see him now, coming in after the day watch, all wet and cold to the bone. "Boy," says he, "he never did eat no nothing else but boy, and that's the name I goes by ever since," "boy," says he, "I ask you again, where did you come from?" I told him as I hadn't come from nowhere in particular, and then he asked some more questions. In the same short way, till I begin to get sort of nervous and scary, and when he finally asked where my ma and pa was, I started crying and said I didn't have none. Of man Jim, he didn't say no more just then, but just settled me easy like on the bed and patted me on the head. After a little he slipped his big hand under my chin and tipped my head back and looked right square in my face for a long time, and I could see that he was thinking. "Boy," says he again, "I don't know where you come from, and I don't care, but you're going to stay right here with me."

Where's the old man now? Well, you just sit up to the table and take a sup of this hot soup—I'll take the bill from out your bones—and the while you eat I'll tell you about him. A better man never lived than of man Jim, stranger. It was about five years after the war that I took me in that we had the terrible storm. If you were about these parts at the time, stranger, you're not likely to have forgotten it. That night was the best part of the bridge was carried away. It makes me sick at heart to think of that night and poor little Masie—that was of man Jim's little girl. He was afraid to keep his family on the bridge, although the house was not one bit big enough, for there wasn't no one but the wife and Masie and me of course. Masie and me of course. No, the old man's family lived about 10 miles up the river, where it was high and dry, and every Sunday he'd go up there. Sometimes when there wasn't much doing on the bridge he would take me along, and I just got to love the whole family. "Boy," says he, "you're not likely to have forgotten it. POST - SEASON GAME

MEET DOWNRIVER TODAY FOR
THIRD BATTLE OF SERIES

Lawrence, champions for the season of 1914 of the New England league, and New London, winners of the flag in the Eastern association, got down to business this afternoon in the ball yard of the downriver city after yesterday's vacation.

Yesterday the managers of the two teams went over the existing situation thoroughly with their players. Every weakness, no matter how trivial, which had been discovered in the first two games of the series, was discussed at length, in an effort to make both clubs more effective today.

Although results are still even thus far, the majority of the critics still feel that New London will win the series. There is one little thing that these dopesters have forgotten which might be well for them to remember.

Lawrence without doubt is inferior in playing ability to the team Gene McCann has under his command. But we have seen the way Lawrence fought its way to the top of the New England league ladder and refused to be ousted. It is just this kind of aggressiveness by which Lawrence will win if she wins at all, for beyond dispute New London is the stronger aggregation.

9 KILLED, 15 INJURED

WHEN LOCOMOTIVE STRUCK A
STREET CAR ON RAILROAD
CROSSING AT MEMPHIS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 18.—Nine persons are known to have been killed and more than 15 injured early last night when an Illinois Central freight train crashed into a street car containing about 25 passengers, near Binghamton, a suburb of Memphis.

The wrecked car, a trailer, was hurled over an embankment and the foremost freight cars toppled over on it. The motor car drawing the trailer cleared the railway tracks ahead of the engine. None of its passengers was injured.

Recovery of the bodies of the victims from the tangled heap of wreckage was attended by great difficulty. Two hours after the tragedy, nine dead had been found and 15 injured taken to the hospitals.

An eye witness says the accident occurred when two freight trains were switching over the street railway crossing. The street car conductor, it is said, gave his motorman the signal to go ahead after the first train passed. The car and its trailer were crossing the cross-over when struck by the second train coming from the opposite direction.

The conductor and a few passengers on the trailer saw the onrushing train in time to jump, escaping with slight injuries. Several other passengers who remained in their seats were carried nearly 200 feet on the locomotive tender before being thrown into a ditch.

SEA DUTY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Important changes in naval commands were announced yesterday by Secretary Daniels, continuing his policy of giving all line officers adequate sea duty.

Rear Admiral James M. Helm, commander of the Charleston, S. C. navy yard, succeeds Rear Admiral William R. Caperton, in command of the Atlantic reserve fleet at Philadelphia. Admiralty Caperton having been detailed to command the newly organized cruiser squadron of the Atlantic fleet.

Rear Admiral John R. Edwards, lately president of the board of inspections for shore stations, which has been abolished, will assume command of the Charleston yard.

Rear Admiral Nathaniel Usher, at present commander of the Norfolk navy yard, goes to the New York yard in succession of Capt. Albert Gleaves, detailed to command the battleship Utah. For the present Commander Louis R. DeSteger, captain of the Norfolk yard, will continue acting commandant, on account of the illness of Rear Admiral Usher.

WARE MAN REFUSES TO WED
WAVER, Sept. 18.—There was a disappointed bride-to-be at 28 Water street yesterday morning, when Pavel Bonarsowski of 36 Water street refused to leave his house to marry Katherine Kul.

The bans of marriage were published at St. Mary's church and yesterday morning Katherine put on her wedding gown and got into a hack, which drove up to 36 Water street, but Pavel refused to come out and get married.

WERE BURIED ALIVE

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 18.—A cave-in on the 1500 foot level of the Centennial-Eureka mine at Eureka yesterday buried 12 men. Although hopes of rescuing them was abandoned, their relatives stood about the shaft imploring help. The men were too deeply buried to have survived.

JAPAN VERY FRIENDLY

TOKIO, Sept. 18.—5.50 p. m.—A notable demonstration of friendship toward the United States was made last night at a dinner given by the Japanese association, which was attended among others by Takahashi Kato, the Japanese foreign minister, and George W. Guthrie, the United States ambassador.

Viscount Kentaro Kuroki, president of the association, in a speech recalled those persons, who, he said, were trying to estrange the United States and Japan.

"Japan not only will attack the Philippines," said Viscount Kuroki, "but she never had any idea of disturbing the tranquility of the territorial waters of the Philippines. Our friendship will be as firm and immovable as historic Plymouth Rock."

Other speakers suggested an alliance between the United States and Japan for the preservation of peace in the Pacific.

Continued

Mr. Morrison didn't remain to express the confidence that had been in him, just prior to the chairman's interruption.

John L.'s Little Joke

Quarter of a century ago, John L. Sullivan, then in the hey-day of his popularity, sprang a little joke which appears to have gotten the goat of the editor of the old Sun, for the latter said editorially:

"John L. Sullivan says that he intends to run for congress. The democrats who attempt to place him in nomination should be read out of the party."

It may have been that John L. read the above editorial, for he reconsidered his intention and was not a candidate.

Bill Halstead Injured

"While Hose 5 was flying to a small blaze started by boys in some straw in the rear of Elm and Butler's store, in Middlesex street, Thursday evening," says The Sun of 25 years ago, "Fireman William Halstead was flung from the hose carriage and badly cut about the face and head. He was also considerably shaken up. He was taken to the protective station and put to bed."

But was no pleased with the good treatment accorded him at the protective company's house that he took a liking to the place and today is captain of the protective company.

Arthur Cummoek's Debut

Said The Sun of 25 years ago: "Among the Harvard students who have started on their studies for the coming year are: Winthrop E. Fiske, Lewis H. Dow, John I. Tobin, James Mellen of the class of '90; Arthur J. Cummoek of the class of '91; H. H. Harris, Fred Coburn, G. A. Viles, Percy Burrows of '92, Gay Martin and P. Roy Martin, who are on their first year."

One year later Arthur Cummoek's name became a household word from the Atlantic to the Pacific, for making the football team in his first year, he became its captain in the year when Harvard defeated Yale at Springfield and had one of the strongest teams in the history of the university. The old timers when discussing football still go back to the days of Arthur Cummoek of Lowell. Mr. Cummoek is the son of A. G. Cummoek, of the Appleton mill of this city. The football games of that year made such an impression on "Jimmie" Mellen that he hasn't missed a Harvard-Yale game since. Three of the gentlemen above mentioned subsequently became connected with Lowell's school department: Mr. Mellen, at present principal of the Lincoln school; Mr. Harris, in charge of the Varunum school, while the late Mr. Tobin taught in the high school.

Matt McCann's Wedding

Irrespective of whether he has had his one day off in fifteen for the month of September, Police Officer Matthew McCann should be given an extra day off next Friday, for that day, Sept. 25, he will be called upon to celebrate an anniversary that can better be observed "in the sanctity of his home," than on a motorcycle in the Oakland. And we get the tip from the old Sun as follows:

McCANN—MURDOCK

Rev. Fr. Shaw officiated at the marriage ceremony of Mr. Matthew McCann and Miss Alice Murdock at St. Patrick's parsonage, Wednesday evening (Sept. 23). Mr. John McCann acted in the capacity of best man and Miss Lizzie Murdock was bridesmaid. The young couple were the recipients of numerous and costly presents, among them being a parlor suite from the Crescent club, of which the groom is a member. They left for a short bridal tour on the 8 o'clock train and on their return they will reside in Centralville.

Matt can still travel 100 yards in 11 seconds and woe-betide the prisoner who attempts to put up a battle with him while under arrest for Matt can still handle the roughest necks without resorting to the wood. Since youth Matt has been a consistent physical culturist, and the result is that he is as active as when he was the pride of all Lowell athletes.

That Old Police Court

While we are still doing business in the same old police court, that is some of us, 25 years ago the lawyers were "holier" for a new court room. Since then many of them have passed away but the old court room is still with us. The old Sun, quarter of a century ago, had the following editorial:

"All the lawyers of the city are longing for a new police court. The air in the present court room is about as foul as it is possible to have it and those who have any business to do in the place are continually complaining.

Even the prisoners complain when they are taken into court."

The editor might truthfully have added that a majority of the prisoners also complain when being taken from the court.

THE OLD TIMER.

Destroys The Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp, and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it. You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and no matter how much dandruff you have, this simple remedy never fails.

WAR NEWS

CROWN PRINCE WANTS WOOLEN UNDERWEAR AND SOCKS FOR HIS SOLDIERS

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—(via London).—Crown Prince Frederick William telegraphed to the Zeitung Am Mittag, as follows:

"Please collect and forward as early as possible woollen underwear and socks for my soldiers. Greetings."

"Wilhelm, Crown Prince."

It was only a few days ago that the crown prince, who evidently has the comfort of his soldiers always in mind, telegraphed a Berlin newspaper asking it to collect and forward tobacco and cigars for his soldiers.

The healing of the wound of Prince Joachim, the youngest son of Emperor William, is progressing normally but it will possibly be several weeks before he is wholly restored, according to an announcement at the imperial court today.

No Official News

No news from official sources for publication has been received since the midnight bulletin, whose reports of attacks and counter attacks indicates that the battle is still progressing. Otherwise there is little illuminating news for the German public and the slightest hint of the movement or position of the German army for the last ten days has been disclosed by the military authorities. The wording of the latest German bulletin may, perhaps, be interpreted as indicating that there is only a series of minor engagements in progress but it is understood that this is not the case and that the attacks and the counter attacks are part of a heavy general engagement.

Meanwhile the severity of the censorship on the Russian front has been relaxed and a number of stories are coming through from which it is possible to draw a general picture of the operations leading to the defeat of General Rennenkampf's Russian army.

From Sept. 7 to 13 the Russians took a strong position on the line from Angerburg to Gerdauen, Allenburg and Wehlau, the left wing resting on the Mazurian lakes and the right wing protected in the rear and flank by the forest of Prischlik.

Were Strongly Entrenched

The Russians devoted great efforts to entrenching their positions and brought up besides their heavy artillery Russian cavalry scouts far to the west and south but otherwise the army undertook no offensive operations in the days following the battle of Tannenberg.

General Hindenburg, the German commander, meanwhile, was assembling every available man, depriving the fortresses of their garrisons and calling in all but a bare remnant of the army protecting the southern frontier in the vicinity of Soldau, adding them to reinforcements received from the west.

General Hindenburg again resorted to the customary outflanking movement and since the Russian right protected by the forest and marshes seemed too strong he adapted the flanking force to the lake region to the south, the same character of movement by which the Russian Narva army was trapped and captured a short time ago and which in case of failure might have been equally disastrous for the Germans.

The strategy, however, succeeded although General Rennenkampf offered a desperate resistance to the frontal attack. After three days fighting the Russians were forced back in the center. On Sept. 15 the Russians began to fall back on their main position, retreating in good order and well covered. The Russian artillery on the right wing appears to have made a good retreat owing to a timely start while the left wing was hard pressed by the enveloping German infantry.

Governor of Suwalki

The German government has appointed Count von Merveldt as governor of the Russian province of Suwalki.

The university of Konigsberg today conferred upon General Van Hindenburg honorary doctor's degrees from all four of the departments of philosophy, law, medicine and theology.

The Berliner Tageblatt prints the following regarding the operations in the west:

"We are standing on the defensive on a 125 mile battle line and because we have been spoiled by a rapid series of victories many are unable to realize that a defense under certain circumstances is as justified as an offensive movement."

"We have learned little concerning the situation, but we can point to some successes, such as the repulse of the French night attacks and the fact that the French have succeeded neither in outflanking the retreating right nor breaking through the front."

For Strategic Reasons

"The abandonment of our original positions between Paris and Verdun for strategic reasons is in itself nothing momentous. In many days of battle and shifting positions final results alone are important. So long as the battle continues unaltered with the possibility of throwing in fresh troops drawing nearer while the enemy has exhausted himself by repeated attacks, the German chance is better than those of the Anglo-French."

Capt. Schleker, the correspondent of the Lokal Anzeiger described the action in East Prussia on Sept. 16, as follows:

"Our heavy howitzer batteries located on the extreme right wing bombarded the entrenchments and bomb-proofs of the Russian infantry with terrible effect and from this position we could watch the progress of the battle easily with field glasses; but we, too, caught the big notes of the battle music. The battle pulses of the Russians came in ever-shortening intervals and between rolled the infantry fire now in volleys and then irregularly. Meanwhile the hard rattle of the machine guns on the edge of the forest had a deafening sense, adding long runs of notes to the concert. The Russian shrapnel meanwhile burst too high or too low near our batteries, but the Russians after a while got the range and over our batteries soon flew fragments of the iron showerbath intended for us. Soon our batteries increased our fire until the heavens seemed alive while on the horizon the villages broke out in flames."

The German Infantry

"Through the field glass I observed dark masses moving across the fields. It was the well-extended German infantry advancing with extraordinary speed. Altogether too high over them exploded shrapnel and from the north came infantry fire which soon was silent."

"At 1.45 in the afternoon, the Russian shrapnel fire reached its maximum violence and then followed a cessation of all fire for ten minutes and then again the fire was opened. At 2.15 the Russian fire stopped with our men advancing as rapidly as possible and a little while afterward the effect of our flank movement behind Loetzen made itself felt."

GEN. BATAILLE KILLED IN ACTION

—PIERCE FIGHTING ALONG THE WHOLE FRONT

LONDON, Sept. 18.—A Bordeaux despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. states that the battle continues with great fierceness along the whole front. Announcement is made that General Bataille was killed in action.

BOYS LESS THAN 10 YEARS OLD ARE FIGHTING IN THE GERMAN RANKS

LONDON, Sept. 18.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Bordeaux asserts that boys less than 10 years old are fighting in the German ranks. The correspondent declares he saw one wounded in the Bordeaux hospital whose age was 15 years and nine months and who told him that all students at school over 15 years had been mobilized and placed in different regiments.

JAPS DROP BOMBS ON ENEMY'S SHIPS, WIRELESS STATION AND MOTOR HOUSE

TOKYO, Sept. 18.—Vice Admiral Kato, commander of the second Japanese squadron, it is officially announced, reports under date of Sept. 17 that in a reconnoiter by aeroplane over Kiao Chow bay the day before bombs were dropped toward the enemy's ships in the harbor, the wireless station and the electric motor house. One bomb was seen to strike a large ship from which smoke curled up.

HUNGARIANS GIVEN ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION IN AUSTRIAN TERRITORY

ROME, Sept. 18.—News from Cetinje says that the Montenegrins have been given an enthusiastic reception in the Austrian territory of Bosnia. This was especially true when they occupied Gorazda, from which point they can communicate by signals with the Servians at Visegrad. Both the columns are proceeding toward Sarajevo, the capital of Bosnia, where they expect to arrive Sunday.

CENSORSHIP OF WIRELESS MES-

SAGES BY FEDERAL GOVERNMENT IS LEGAL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Censorship of wireless messages by the federal government is legal according to an opinion by Attorney General Gregory announced today by Secretary Daniels. The attorney general gives several citations of law to back up his opinion, but his main contention is upon the right of the government to use every means at its command to preserve neutrality in war time. To preserve neutrality, the opinion says, the government has the right even to make use of the armed forces of the United States.

The legal right of the government to exercise a censorship was raised by the Marconi Telegraph Co. of America. All wireless plants are affected by the opinion, but those most prominent in the public eye are at Salsomsett, Sayville and Tuckerton.

THEODORE WHITNEY DEAD

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—Theodore D. Whitney, senior member of the firm of T. D. Whitney & Co., 39 Temple street, and in the line business in Boston for about 40 years, died suddenly yesterday morning in the Portsmouth, N. H., hospital. Although he had not been feeling well for some time his death was entirely unexpected.

He had been on a vacation at Hampton beach, was taken suddenly seriously sick Wednesday night, rushed to the hospital in Portsmouth, where a surgical operation was ventured, but he succumbed on the operating table.

Mr. Whitney was born in Boston July 2, 1847, the son of Nathaniel Davis and Laura Whitney. The father was for many years proprietor of a store at Tremont and Winter streets. The present store was started at 142 Tremont street and was under the firm name of Whitney, Warner & Frost.

When Mr. Whitney bought out the firm he moved the store to the present location. The present firm consisted of Mr. Whitney and Phineas Hubbard, who was a partner of Mr. Whitney's for about 35 years.

In 1875 Mr. Whitney was a member of the old "Tigers," of the then 1st Regiment, and also on Col. Wellington's staff. He served as a militiaman during the Boston fire of 1872.

Mr. Hubbard, Mr. Whitney's partner, was greatly shocked at learning of the death yesterday. He said: "Mr. Whitney was an ideal employer, generous hearted and a true friend. Although of a retiring disposition, he was a strong business man. His death has been a great shock to all of us and I shall miss him greatly."

Mr. Whitney is survived by his wife and a sister, Mrs. George Myrick.

SMITH COLLEGE OPENS

ABOUT 600 IN ENTERING CLASS—INCREASED ENDOWMENT BRINGS ADDITIONAL TEACHERS

NORTHAMPTON, Sept. 18.—Smith college began its first year yesterday morning. The entering class, which numbered about 600, is likely to be the largest in the history of the college.

Academic conditions are unusually favorable, as owing to increased endowment the teaching staff presents 30 new members.

Many of the faculty members who were abroad were able to be here on time only by considerable personal inconvenience.

Miss Margaret Rooke of the Italian department and Miss Pellier of the French department are yet to arrive. The French department loses Miss Louise Tenth, who remains in France as a nurse, and Prof. Michaud, who has taken his place in the French army.

Pres. Burton's address was on the attitude of parents and friends toward a student's education, and on quality as the aim of the student.

Prof. Regis Michaud, who has resigned because of the European war, had just been called to Smith from Princeton.

Pres. Burton and family passed the summer in Wales. Monte of the art department was in Switzerland when the war broke out and was appointed acting consul and chief aid to Americans stranded at Interlaken.

HIGH SCHOOL FURNITURE, HIGHLAND CLUBHOUSE

LOAD FOR THE ANNEX RECEIVED TODAY AND STORED UNTIL NEEDED

The furniture for the new high school annex has arrived and is now stored in the old school building. The furniture, which consists of desks and chairs for pupils as well as of chairs for teachers and visitors and other paraphernalia, was purchased in Boston by Commissioner Donnelly, Supt. Connor, Dr. J. H. Lambert and Abel J. Campbell, the two latter of the school board.

The cartload of furniture arrived in this city yesterday and the various pieces which form the equipment of six class rooms were at once removed to the main high school building where they will be stored until the annex property, which is now undergoing changes, is ready to receive them. It was stated yesterday that the rough work at the annex property will be finished in about a week and then the men will busy on the finishing and it is a matter of but a few weeks before the place is ready for occupancy. The desks for the teachers are now being made by carpenters from the public building department and they will be ready for the opening of the new annex.

PRESIDENT WILSON

Believes Mexicans Will Form Government Acceptable to the United States

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—President Wilson told cabinet members he saw no reason to doubt that the Mexicans will form a government acceptable to the United States, and that the question of recognition had not yet been taken up. He explained the withdrawal of American troops from Vera Cruz by saying that what he wanted to show is recognition of the fact that the Mexicans were in charge of their affairs. He has not been informed whether Carranza will be a candidate for the presidency.

FOR ROAD CONGRESS

PROSPECT THAT THE NOVEMBER MEETING AT ATLANTA WILL BE A GREAT SUCCESS

If the preparations for the American road congress to be held in Atlanta, Nov. 30th-14th, are a reliable indication, the meeting should outstrip even its successful predecessor, the Detroit congress. Already papers have been engaged when should be of unusual value to those in attendance, while the various types of construction promises to be covered in a way not before equaled at any of the road meetings. The extent of the interest already displayed is shown by the fact that 57 national, state and interstate organizations have joined in the official call of the congress, thus insuring a large and representative attendance. Furthermore, a most interesting innovation will be a number of sessions of officials of state highway departments, and so great is the interest in this new phase of the activities of the congress that no less than three-fourths of the states have indicated that their officials will be present. The benefit which may spring from free discussion among men from different sections of the country, all engaged in the same kind of work and confronted with the same problems, is incalculable. Furthermore, the joint committee of the American Road Association and the American Highway Association, which has been working for the codification of state highway laws, is making excellent progress and will have a substantial report ready for congress. Under these circumstances it hardly need be urged upon those interested in highway work throughout the country to make early preparation to attend the congress. While this season an early date for this suggestion, experience in the past has shown that highway boards do not always appreciate the advantages to their organizations of sending their engineering and administrative officials to a congress of this sort. By placing the matter before them at an early date, time is afforded for impressing upon them the educational value of attendance at a congress such as this. There is no other meeting or opportunity of such value to the highway builder as is afforded by the American road congress. This cannot be too strongly emphasized. The benefit primarily is to the organization and not to the individual, for the information gained conduces not so much to individual advancement as to greater efficiency in handling road problems.

OAKLEY C. CURTIS

HIS ELECTION AS GOVERNOR OF MAINE WAS A DECISIVE VICTORY FOR THE DEMOCRATS

OAKLEY C. CURTIS

The election of Oakley C. Curtis, mayor of Portland, Me., as governor of Maine was a decisive victory for the democrats. The result pleased the democratic administration at Washington. Both Curtis and Governor William T. Haines, republican, ran ahead of the vote for Wilson and Taft. The progressive vote fell off heavily. Maine is normally a rock ribbed republican state, but the broadness of the progressives, with the increased democratic vote, turned the tide.

BUTTER AT ONDERDONK HOME IN DURHAM, N. H. REPORTS THRILLING EXPERIENCE

DURHAM, N. H., Sept. 17.—Frank Channells, butter at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Onderdonk of New York, who frightened two burglars from the house the night of Aug. 31 by shouting at them, was held up by four men Tuesday night while walking toward the Onderdonk home along the Dover road in the outskirts of the village near the Oyster river bridge.

The men jumped from the bushes and ordered him to throw up his hands. One of them pressed a revolver against his head, Channells says, and threatened to shoot if he resisted. Channells, however, with a quick movement, pushed the weapon aside and in a twinkling pulled his own revolver from his hip pocket and began shooting, firing several shots. His assailants scattered and quickly disappeared in the darkness. Channells went to the residence of Mrs. Harriet Cox, nearby, and told her what had happened. She had him driven to the Onderdonk home in her automobile.

Deputy Sheriff Fred Goodwin of Dover was summoned and a search was made by him for the holdup men, but without result. He looked for a possible accomplice in the vicinity of the alleged holdup, but found no traces of blood.

REDMOND'S MANIFESTO

IRISH TO AID IN WAR COUNCILMENT WITH SIGNING HOME RULE BILL

LONDON, Sept. 17.—"The democracy of Great Britain has kept faith with Ireland and it is now the duty of honor for Ireland to keep faith with them," said John Redmond, the Irish leader, in a manifesto issued last night, in which he calls on Irishmen to bear their share in the war in which the empire is engaged.

"The Irish people," Mr. Redmond continues, "know and appreciate the fact fully that at last, after centuries of misunderstanding, the democracy of Great Britain has finally and irrevocably decided to trust them and give them their national liberties."

"By overwhelming British majorities, a charter of liberty for Ireland has been passed in a few hours by the house of commons and in a few hours will be the law of the land. A new era has opened in the history of the two nations."

Mr. Redmond wants the Irish to enlist to form an Irish brigade, so that they may get due credit for their part in the war.

DEMOCRATS ON WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE, PLAN TO ELIMINATE STAMPSON CHECKS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Prospect of large revenues from a stamp tax on land conveyances has led democrats of the ways and means committee to plan to eliminate stamps on checks from the war revenue bill.

Some members hope to abandon the checks tax altogether, but if that is not feasible it will be proposed to exempt all checks under $50.

No effort will be made by the house committee to substitute a graduated tax on automobiles, based upon manufacturers' value, for the 2c tax on gasoline. Such an effort may be made, however, when the bill reaches the senate.

TORE HIS STRAPS AWAY

VERA CRUZ, Sept. 17.—Two former officers of the old Federal army last night drew lots for what they regarded the honor of humiliating a constitutionally elected, a young major from the capital, who had obtained permission to wear his full uniform within the American lines. Anticipating that they would be fired for their assault upon the constitutionalist, the two former federal captains pooled $10 in American currency with which they purchased fifty pesos. They then drew lots, and the winner of the pool went up to the major in an open air café and tore the straps from his shoulders.

EXCUSE ME

PANAMA CANAL EFFECTS

How it Will Change the Commercial Aspect of the Nations of Western Hemisphere

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 18.—The National Geographic society, at Washington, D. C., issued the following statement on the probable effect of the Panama canal on the commercial geography of the world, today:

"It seems that the Panama canal will carry most of the freight passing between the eastern coast of the United States and the western coast of Latin-America, and that the shorter distance and lower rates which it offers will greatly increase that trade; that the trade between the eastern and western sections of the United States will be greatly increased and transported at a much lower charge per ton; that it will sufficiently shorten the distances to Japan, northern China, Australia and New Zealand, to increase steamship service and materially increase the traffic with those countries, and that the European countries will use the canal in most of their traffic with western America and in exceptional cases with northern Asia, Australia and New Zealand."

First Baptist Sunday School

A very enjoyable evening was spent in the vestry of the First Baptist church last evening when the officers and teachers of the Sunday school assembled for their annual reunion. A delicious supper was served and the program was concluded with a pleasing musical program.

THE KING OF ITALY

FACES THE CRISIS OF HIS CAREER—HIS COUNTRY FAST SPLITTING ON WAR QUESTION

King Victor Emmanuel of Italy faces the crisis of his reign. In the present war situation, his country is fast splitting over whether Italy shall fight or not. Many riots have occurred. Some of the people want Italy to take advantage of the present war to extend her boundaries, while others insist that she remain neutral.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

AT THE OPERA HOUSE

The Opera House was filled last night with a responsive and enthusiastic audience to witness another fine vaudeville and picture bill. To choose a feature would be very difficult and more a matter of individual opinion, as each and every act called forth much applause and the motion picture, "The Redemption of David Corson," again demonstrated very clearly the wonderful range in which the camera can act in staging the modern drama.

The vaudeville bill opens with the Garbous, in a novelty, balancing act which found favor with all. Ward and Fay gave the audience one act when they produced their "nut" specialty, nuttier than anything that has been seen in the city since the new style of comedy came into vogue. Miss Fay is a feminine "nut" with funnier antics than any vaudeville actress. Her partner plays an entirely opposite type, and between them they work up fun that is compelling in its humor. Francis and "Palm" in their miniature musical comedy, "The Millionaire's Girl," took the house by storm with their comic songs and witty sayings. Miss Palmer is not unlike Miss Fay in appearance, and voice, while her partner is most beautiful.

"The Redemption of David Corson" with William Farnum in the title role, tells the story of a strong man's temptation, transgression and regeneration, and typifies the everlasting conflict between the human and divine, and to those who have witnessed the play will come a very deep impression of the wonderful manner in which the various scenes are carried out, the minutest attention having been given to the smallest details.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Distinctly in a class by itself is the wonderfully gripping Lasky photodrama, "The Call of the North," with Robert Edeson in the splendid character of "Red Trent." Yesterday many saw the first parts of the play unfolded, and it is doubtful if more perfect, more artistic photography has ever been accorded a photo-play reunion. Admission to the theatre and his sturdy type of acting will rejoice in witnessing him in "The Call of the North," a play in which he has appeared hundreds of times. All of the atmosphere of the silent, cold Hudson Bay region is imparted to the pictures, and the supporting cast of Mr. Edeson is all that could be desired. Theodore Roberts, the splendid character actor, appears in the part of "Galen Ahlert," the Hudson Bay factor. Four new acts of vaudeville are shown, the topical feature being given by the Orpheus Comedy Four, singing and comedians. The Solomonides, a boy and a girl, play the piano and violin admirably, and Lynch and Zeller, boy jugglers, offer a classy act. Clara Jones, a singing comedienne, is also shown. Performance begins at 8 and 9 p. m. Phone 25.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

The ever increasing popularity and esteem which local theatre goers are giving the members of the Merrimack Square Theatre Stock Co. is only one of the many pleasant ways which goes to show how this really capable band of artists have endeared themselves to patrons during the short stay in Lowell. The present week's offering, "The Awakening of Helena Richter," has proven one of their most successful bills, while the attraction announced for the coming week which indicates the success of the theatre, "The Girl in the Red Velvet," will no doubt add materially to their laurels. Seats are now on sale at the box office one week in advance, the prices for the matinee being 10, 20 and 30 cents, while in the evening they are 10, 20, 30 and 50 cents. Special attention is called to the time, which the first act curtain rises which is at 8 and 9 o'clock. "Subscription list open."

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

"The Live Wire Theatre of Lowell" is the appellation that the management of the Academy of Music is striving to earn from local theatregoers.

Opening today with the most stupendous feature program ever attempted they have already taken a long step in that direction. "In the Hands of London Crooks" is a five-reel feature selected to start the season of movies at the Academy and it is probably the strongest feature melodrama ever produced.

The scenes are not staged in studios, but are taken amidst the actual city life of London and at the famous Ascot race course on Derby day.

Thrill seekers that in seeking success and the live love interest is sustained throughout the entire five acts. In addition of this big production there are three other big features making in all a show of two and a half hours without a dull moment. The regular Academy night feature of the Academy of Music will be an untimed and every other Friday throughout the season. No explanation of the hilarious fun and amusement that is always a part of amateur night at the Academy need be given here. Everybody who is anybody knows about it and will be present.

Sunday will bring with it another surprise in the shape of a big vaudeville concert composed of all-star features acts direct from the biggest Boston and New York theatres.

The admission prices to the Academy have been set at 10c, 20c and 30c. It will be a difficult matter to equal this show at three times the price of admission.

Starting Monday, it is announced that each and every act of the Academy will include a famous Keystone comedy and every Wednesday and Thursday there will be two complete episodes of the famous Million Dollar Mystery. All patrons of the Academy will be eligible for the $10,000 prize that goes for the best solution of this mystery. This will not be part of our regular program, but an extra act feature.

The entire program will undergo complete changes every Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Sunday.

THE OWL THEATRE

Another successful week is closing at the Owl and for a parting feature, "When Women Love," a three-part modern society play, has been booked by the management. This play is one of the best offerings of the week, and as an Owl feature rarely disappoints. It is safe to assure another genuine treat. The plot is unusual and is fascinating. The American company, by act by act, is a masterpiece. Among the regular Friday and Saturday features to be seen on the program are "Our Mutual Girl" in her regular weekly appearance; a Keystone comedy will also be shown; the Owl shows one of these comedies daily. "Moonshine Molly" will keep you interested from the very first, by its strange plot and perfect acting; the scenes are also very picturesque. "Looking for the Night," a drama, and others complete this fine three-hour show. Remember "The Wrath of the Gods," the highest masterpiece of the year, is coming.

THE KASINO

Kasino dance exhibitions have been the hit of the season and there is no indication of waning interest. In fact enthusiasm has increased with every contest. Tonight, Mr. Duncan Heslin and Miss Del Henson will meet Mr. Sheehy and Miss Bruleford in a contest which will include the one step, the hesitation and the maxixe. These movements are typical modern dances, indicating grace of action, minus anything suggestive, and altogether good to see. The dancer who masters absolutely the one-step, hesitation and the maxixe possesses not only the physical qualities, but also the genuine musical temperament. Observation will help you learn all modern steps. Tonight's artists are recognized leaders. Minor's orchestra is always present with tuneful music.

BROKERS PROTESTING

AGAINST SPECIAL TAX OF $50 A YEAR ON GROUND THAT STOCK EXCHANGES ARE CLOSED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Stock brokers are protesting to democrats of the house ways and means committee against the proposal to include in the war revenue bill a special tax on them of $50 a year. Such a tax was levied in the war revenue act of the Spanish-American war which the democratic caucus authorized the committee to emulate. The stock brokers base their claim for exemption on the fact that stock exchanges are closed throughout the country and that their business is paralyzed. They also point to the uncertainty as to when stock exchanges will resume operations.

The matter will be taken up today, when the committee expects to receive from the treasury department estimates of revenue to be derived from special and stamp taxes. Great increases in land transactions and insurance business since the Spanish war they believe will afford stamp tax revenues more than sufficient to make up for exemption of the check tax.

Senate republicans believe that their filibuster against the river and harbor bill and fight against the war tax will keep congress in session until after the November election. As an indication of their confidence in this, Senator Gallinger, the minority leader, announced last night that he would leave last night for New Hampshire to carry on his campaign for reelection.

PAIN IN THE BACK

Do not worry about a pain in your back. The worry will do you more harm than the pain. The serious diseases of the kidneys seldom or never produce such pains while the cause of most backache is muscular rheumatism, which is painful but never fatal. Lumbago is a form of muscular rheumatism, so is stiff neck.

Sufferers from any form of muscular rheumatism affecting the joints, should keep the general health at the highest standard by the use of a non-alcoholic tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and eat good nourishing food without too much meat. Proper nutrition and good blood are the best means of fighting rheumatism. Medicines do not control the disease directly but a well nourished system will often throw it off. Rheumatism quickly finds the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and as they build it up and strengthen the system there is an increased resistance to the rheumatic poisons. In this way many rheumatic sufferers have found complete recovery.

ARMIES REPEL ATTACKS GEO. CHARRETTE DETAINED

PARIS, Sept. 18. The great battle of Aisne continues. All that is known officially of its progress is that the Germans are yielding slightly at some points on the left. Though the communication with this fact was given out officially by the French yesterday it evidently refers to the situation on Tuesday since it accords with the English press statement of Wednesday. The many wounded prisoners coming in from the front indicate that the allies have made the Germans give ground, the latter leaving their wounded behind.

The army of Crown Prince Frederick William has finally turned on its pursuers at Montfaucon, northwest of Verdun, encouraged no doubt by advices of reinforcements coming from the Rhine garrisons and the line of defense is now clearly established from Noyon, 67 miles northeast of Paris to Montfaucon.

In addition to the difficulty of reorganizing their forces to withstand the attack on the new line the Germans are no doubt troubled about their rear. The resumption of activity by the Belgians means more than that its troops have had time to rest and no doubt there is good foundation for the many rumors that King Albert's forces have been reinforced, though from where is only a matter of conjecture.

Some experts still think that the battle is only intended to secure the safety of the crown prince's army which had great difficulty in disengaging itself from the defiles of the forest of Argonne and is not yet, according to opinion here, by any means safe. The prolonged rains also make it necessary to have more time in which to get the artillery out of the chalky mud of northern and eastern Champagne.

LINE OF ADVANCE OF THE ALLIES IS THREADED BY SIX RIVERS

An official statement written by a staff officer who has been on the scene of the operations and which is authorized by the British war office gives details of the actions closing with the crossing of the Aisne but only the most meagre communications have been issued concerning the fighting of the last two days.

Roughly speaking, the line of the advance of the allies is threaded by six rivers, four of which already have been crossed. The crossing of the Meuse, marking the assumption of the offensive by the allies, was purely a rear guard action in which General Von Kluck closely kept the German front from being outflanked. So far as the country was concerned the passage of the Ourcq was not contested. The Vesle river was only lightly defended by the Germans, while, as is now well known, the resistance of the German army to the Aisne was still in the most stubborn character on both the French and British fronts.

If the allies hold the ground across the Aisne which they gained despite the heavy artillery fire from concealed German batteries on the heights along the river, two more rivers, the Allier and the Oise, remain to be crossed. The country between the Aisne and the Allier is ideal for defensive purposes and if the German army holds the Aisne heights for a few days defensive works can be constructed along the country which may delay the allies' advance on German territory for a long time.

On the other hand if the Germans

resume the offensive the country now occupied by them affords an excellent operating base.

It is clear from reports coming in from the allies that the victory of the battle of the Marne and the assumption of the offensive had a tremendous moral effect on the Franco-British armies.

There is a lull in the operations in Belgium where the victorious Russian armies evidently are moving in an effort to cut off the retreat of the Austrians toward Cracow.

IMPORTANT EVENTS EXPECTED IN BELGIUM IN THE NEXT FEW DAYS

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The correspondent of the Daily Mail at Ostend learns that important events are expected in north Belgium in the next few days, the nature of which he is not allowed to disclose. He says there is little doubt that there are three German army corps about 24,000 men in Belgium and conveys a report which he has received that the German military authorities have advised the civil population of Liege to leave that town.

GERMAN RAIDING IN VARIOUS PARTS OF NORTH BELGIUM IS EXPLAINED

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The correspondent of the Times at Ghent believes that most of the German raiding in various parts of north Belgium which could not be explained in any relation to the fighting on a large scale last week was connected with incidents just heard of where some 1200 Uhlans were sent out in small parties to discover whether British troops were landing.

They were told to push through at all costs, he says, and it was promised that every man who got back with reliable information would receive the decoration of the Iron Cross. "I do not think any will get back," is the terse comment with which the correspondent concludes his despatch.

MOTHER PERMITTED TO ACT AS SUBSTITUTE FOR ABSENT FATHER

BORDEAUX, Sept. 18.—A decree issued by the French government today permits the mother or guardian of a youth under 20 years to act as a substitute for the absent father in legally authorizing the young man to volunteer for the war. In the case of the death of the mother or the guardian the local magistrate may authorize the father-in-law. This decree is designed to make it possible for a very large number of ardent volunteers to enlist. Physically they are fit but they are under the legal age to join the army.

GEN. DE CASTELNAU MADE GRAND OFFICER OF LEGION OF HONOR

INQUIRY INTO ALLEGATIONS OF BREACH OF CIVILIZED WARFARE SUGGESTED

LONDON, Sept. 18, 12:45 p. m.—An inquiry by American jurists into the allegations of German disregard for the rules of civilized warfare is suggested by the Weekly Spectator in its current issue.

"Undoubtedly American jurists would command most general confidence," the Spectator says. "We cannot ask President Wilson of the American government to appoint such a committee of inquiry. That would naturally be afraid of annoying the German government by so doing and of impeding that strict, nay anxious, neutrality which they are desirous of maintaining with Germany."

"We do not see, however, why the French, English and Belgian governments should not invite three American jurists of high distinction to undertake the work of discovering whether the Germans have respected and are respecting the agreement made at The Hague in 1907 and also these rules of civilized warfare which generally are respected by belligerents and to report whether any infringements of these conventions and these rules have taken place."

NO DECISION YET IN BATTLE BETWEEN THE OISE AND THE MEUSE

BERLIN, Sept. 18 (via London).—The following official announcement was made at the headquarters of the general staff the evening of Sept. 17: No decision yet has resulted in the battle between the Oise and the Meuse but certain signs indicate that the power of resistance of the enemy is relaxing.

The endeavor of the French troops to break through the German wing collapsed without any great efforts on the part of our army.

The center of the German army is gaining ground slowly but surely. On the right bank of the Meuse the allies from Verdun have been easily repulsed.

GERMANS CONSTRUCT PROTECTIVE WORKS IN EXTENSIVE AND COMPLETE MANNER

BORDEAUX, Sept. 18.—Intelligence received here from the front concerning the trench work done by the Germans throughout the region to the north of Chelons indicates that these protective works have been constructed in a most extensive and complete manner.

The infantry trenches are from three to four feet deep and have been arranged in parallel lines with connecting cuttings. The trenches are protected by double lines of embankments 20 yards apart and earth shelters have been constructed for the men while they sleep. These extended works make the advance of the allies slow.

REPORT OF BIG BATTLE AT THIANN, ALSACE, IS UNTRUE

GENEVA, Sept. 18 (via Paris).—Advices received here say that the report of a big battle at Thann, Alsace, in which 20,000 men were engaged, is untrue. It is stated that there are not more than 20,000 German soldiers in Alsace and that not more than 10,000 were engaged at Thann. Most of the troops in Alsace and around Belfort have been sent to join the principal German army.

A telegram from Basel says that the troops at all the fortresses on the Rhine have been hurried to the front to aid in the battle there.

NEW HAVEN CHANGES

SANFORD NAMED PURCHASING AGENT FOR TROLLEY COMPANIES, GIVING INDEPENDENCE

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—The New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad has announced that, following out its policy of curtailing expenses, H. A. Sanford, director of purchases, will hereafter purchase all supplies for the road, and J. H. Sanford, formerly purchasing agent of the road, has been appointed purchasing agent for the Connecticut company, the Massachusetts Power company, the Berkshire Street Railway company and the Westport Water company.

It is also stated that the appointment of a separate purchasing agent for the trolley companies is the last step in giving those companies a complete organization of their own, independent in every respect of the New Haven road. Mr. Sanford's headquarters will be in New Haven.

At a meeting of the directors of the Central New England railroad in New York yesterday the resignation of James H. Haskins as director and vice president was accepted. Mr. Haskins having been elected president of the Boston & Maine railroad. In his place was elected J. M. Tomlinson, general auditor of the New Haven road.

A report made at the meeting of the New Haven directors stated that the Interstate commerce commission hoped to begin its valuation work on the New Haven road on April 1 next. It was suggested that the road has all its data ready and preparations made so that the commission would be able to proceed promptly.

The New Haven directors authorized the appropriation of about $55,000 for improvement of the signal system in the vicinity of New Haven. A contract with a power company was made which will double the amount of electric train traffic between New Haven and New York to be materially increased.

Was Expected in July Under Retirement—Is Probably Detained With Navy in Orient

Mr. and Mrs. Alexandre Charrette of 28 Gershom avenue, are anxiously awaiting news from their son, George, chief gunner aboard the U. S. S. Saratoga, who left Lowell for China some three years ago. As a rule Mr. Charrette writes to his parents about twice a month, but it is now several months since the last letter, was received from him, and as much as there is trouble in China at the present time, where the Japanese are raising havoc, Mr. and Mrs. Charrette are very anxious to receive news from their son.

It was expected that George would be in Lowell by this time, for he was to be retired from duty last July, when his 20 years' service came to a close, and it is stated he had made plans to locate definitely in this city, for which he always had a great pride. Some of Mr. Charrette's relatives believe he is on his way home and they expect him any moment, but others are under the impression that he is being detained in China by the United States government, where his services are very valuable in protecting American rights.

George Charrette, who is now 45 years of age, entered the service of Uncle Sam in the navy at the age of 15 years. He has served his country in a faithful and efficient manner and his discipline and work was so good that the young man soon gained promotion. In the sinking of the Merrimack at Santiago during the Spanish-American war, the Lowell boy took an active part and was highly commended for his bravery. Shortly afterward he was promoted to chief gunner and for a number of years he was attached as an instructor to the Charleston navy yard.

Three years ago Charrette was assigned to the U. S. S. Saratoga, which left Boston on a trip to China and since that time he has been stationed in a Chinese port. Mr. Charrette wrote to his friends in this city very regularly. However, for the past few months not a word has been received from him and his aged parents are worrying over his delay in writing.

Last July George completed 20 years of active service with Uncle Sam and he was then entitled to a pension, and he had made up his mind to retire. However, according to the rules of the United States navy a retired officer may be called upon at any time for service and it is believed George was kept aboard his ship and will remain there until the present European conflict is over.

CONGRESSMAN KENNEDY

CHOSEN AS PERMANENT CHAIRMAN OF DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION AT HARTFORD, CT.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 18.—When the democratic state convention reconvened today to make nominations for United States senator and state officers and to adopt a platform, the delegates found that the unsettled condition of last midnight, when adjournment was taken until today, continued.

The credentials committee had had before it four contests over seating of delegates but these were quickly disposed of when the session resumed, the roll as reported by the committee being accepted and Congressman William Kennedy of Narragansett being chosen as permanent chairman of the convention.

Governor Simon E. Baldwin and Congressman Bryan Mahan of New London were candidates for the senatorial nomination.

LOWELL MOTOR BOAT CLUB

The Lowell Motor Boat Club held its first ladies' night last evening which consisted of a parade of the Golden State of Liberty upon her bow. It was one of the prettiest winter scenes that has been held in this vicinity in years.

Fifteen other boats followed in single file behind Commodore Walker's boat and all of them decorated very prettily. Among the boats in line were the following: "Wings," owner, Eugene Donovan; "Perceval," owner,

MOTOR BOAT BURNED

SIX FLEE FROM BLAZING CRAFT—KING PHILIP TO THE RESCUE—BLAZE DUE TO BACKFIRE

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—In spite of the valiant efforts of the steamer King Philip, which hurried at top speed to the scene of the conflagration and soon had four streams of water playing upon the blazing craft, the 40-foot motor boat Prosperina, owned by Edmund H. Hutchinson, engineer at the Industrial School for Crippled and Deformed Children on St. Botolph street, was burned to the water's edge and sunk yesterday afternoon about three miles east of Graves Ledge, near the entrance to Boston harbor.

The six persons—three men and three women—on board the motor boat escaped in her tender without the slightest injury, being picked up by harbor pilot boat 3 and later transferred to the King Philip, which brought them back to Boston.

The blaze was caused by the backfire from the carburetor of the Prosperina and a few minutes after it had started the three women passengers were placed in the tender. As soon as it became plain that the fire was getting beyond control, the three men, Mr. Hutchinson, the owner; John S. Costen of 13 Garrison street, Park Bay, and one other whose name is not known, also boarded the tender and rowed to a place of safety.

About 10 p. m. the King Philip, after cruising around the fishing grounds all day with 100 passengers on board, was heading toward Boston when, about three miles northeast of Boston Lightship, Capt. Edward W. Dixon sighted the smoke of the burning Prosperina, some three miles away.

Capt. Dixon ordered full speed ahead in the direction of the blazing motor boat. The King Philip's hose was prepared for action as the steamer hurried toward the burning craft and by the time she reached the ill fated Prosperina four streams were ready.

Both the Prosperina's gasoline tanks exploded before any water could be played on the flames, the second explosion coming just before the King Philip

The Killpartrick-Owen Party Had Thrilling Experiences—Graphic Story From Miss Stillings

Since the outbreak of the great world war, probably no group of American tourists have been spoken of in Lowell with more interest and anxiety than the members of the Killpartrick-Owen party who, after many thrilling experiences and unforeseen adventures, arrived in New York yesterday on the Athenae after a memorable voyage of 20 days. All the members of the party are in excellent health and that they are happy ones without saying. The sight of American food, they say, brought on a feeling of gladness that all last while any memory of European conditions is marred. Yet they did not come directly in contact with the war in its worst phases, but they were continually reminded of the great tragedy by touching events that brought its enormity and its awful effects home to them more vividly than actual warfare. The members of the party were Miss Flora A. Owen, of the Moody school, Miss Carrie Bailey, principal of Pine street school, Miss Ellen A. Stillings, principal of Ethel school, Miss Sara Dean, Laura E. Lee, principal of Mrs. Sophie Ward, 23 Green street, and Miss Irene H. Keen, 5 Myrtle street. During a part of the trip they formed part of larger groups to that some side lines of travel were enjoyed in company with scores of Americans from other parts, all of whom were anxious to get out of Europe as soon as possible.

Miss Stillings gave a very graphic account of the party's experiences this morning to a Sun representative. "We had been touring Italy," she said, "in the usual carefree and delightful manner without thought of anything but the beautiful and historic towns, the monuments of antiquity, the palaces, the pictures, the wonderful Italian atmosphere. We had been to Naples, to Sorrento, to Capri and to the other points of interest along that lovely coast; we had joyfully received the crowded past in the ruins of Pompeii, and were resting in Rome, our hotel overlooked a public square and we enjoyed sitting in the balcony and seeing the tide of life passing. All at once it seemed to me that there was some unusual excitement as people were discussing something of general interest. An Italian newsboy passed and though I did not understand what he was shouting I saw a paper with a great headline which announced war between Serbia and Austria. Thinking it merely the scare headline of a sensational paper—such as we Americans permission to take us with about 20 others across the Austrian border. "I shall never forget the sights of the border. It fairly bristled with troops. Films were coming and going along the mountain roads and companies of cavalry clattered past. Soldiers were tethered in circles. Everything spoke of actual warfare. We passed through a marvellously fresh and lovely country to Cortina, a mountain town, situated under crags among the evergreens. From this little town 500 men had been taken all between the ages of 20 and 45. There was great sadness. News of death was coming home daily and the crushed populace expected another draft which would take all the men between 42 and 70. Poverty, misery and suffering were on all sides. The lady manager of the hotel said to us: 'I had hundreds of tourists, but the government came and took my guests, my grain, hay, chickens—everything. They would have taken the contents of my cellars had they known that there was anything in them.' Here we spent three delightful days and would have spent more but were compelled to cross the Italian frontier. The Venetian papers said that we were the last band permitted to pass over."

Sailed From Venice
"On getting back to Venice we made plans to sail on the first available boat that seemed reliable—which was the Athenae. Although we had prepaid our passage on the Cunard line, it was out of the question. Having six or eight days, we spent them in a tour of the Italian lakes. We went through Maggiora, Como and changed our plans of beauty. On trying to land at Lake Como, we were refused. Finally, we went to a charming villa on Lake Como, high on a wooded point, the Villa of Sorbelloni, an old Italian family which had a noted cardinal of the name. To tell of this villa on the wooded hill would be to tell of gardens, statues, mountain paths, Italian gardens, orange trees, palms and a beauty that is indescribable."

"We returned to Venice and sailed from there for New York on the 25th. Our voyage was most memorable. We sailed past Corfu and stopped at Patras for two days. Here a Cook agent came aboard and offered us a two days' trip to Athens for $20. We went, and the really surpassed all expectations. I have a most vivid memory of the vine-clad country, the bay of Corinth, the Corinthian canal, the Aegean sea, the bay of Salamis and other classic details. Beyond that we saw a desert country, which reminded me of pictures of Palestine. Shepherds in olden costumes herded their sheep which gathered in groups under the slight shade of gnarled olive trees, and everywhere were traces of a simple primitive life. The ruins of Athens have a beauty that cannot be set down in words. The Parthenon, the temples of Nike, of Athena, of Neptune, the tower of the winds—all are wonderful. We saw the temple of Jupiter by moonlight, with its 15 pillars standing in their slender stoniness and with their Corinthian capitals, and with one lying prostrate. We saw the old Greek forum and went to the museum which has a great collection of articles used by the ancients."

Twenty Days on Board
"From Athens we passed through the straits of Messina with the lights of Reggio and Messina on either hand, bright jewels shining out of the darkness. Through the Adriatic, past the coast of Spain, and on to the Atlantic, we passed, spending 20 days on board."

Some conditions of the voyage were new to us and we were compelled to suffer many inconveniences, but the management was so hard to make things as pleasant as possible. Still to view of all we had seen and experienced we were glad to be facing for America and we did not mind the hardships that were incidental to the voyage."

BERLIN WIRELESS SAYS GERMAN ARMY ADVANCING SLOWLY BUT SURELY

BERLIN, Sept. 18 (via wireless to the Associated Press, which received a dispatch from the German general staff, L. 1). The following statement has been given out by the German general staff: "The battle between the Oise and Meuse rivers is still continuing but there are sure indications that the enemy's force is falling. The French attempt to cut through the German right wing has failed down without notable exertion on the German side. The German army is advancing slowly but surely. A sortie from Verdun on the right bank of the Meuse was most easily repulsed. Another official statement issued by the German general staff says that all the German airships came up to expectations after undergoing long and dangerous flights. Some of the aircraft were damaged but now all of them have been repaired. None has been destroyed or captured by the enemy."

LONDON BOARD OF TRADE REFUSE TO EXPORT ANILINE OIL TO UNITED STATES

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The board of trade refuses to export aniline oil to the United States, as requested by American manufacturers. Evidently England is unable to produce more of the oil than is sufficient for her home use.

NO LASTING PEACE POSSIBLE IF SQUARE INCH OF GERMAN TERRITORY IS GIVEN UP

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador to the United States, discussed today the prospects of peace in Europe and the efforts of President Wilson to bring it about.

"The idea of peace was started by people of the United States," said the ambassador. "Its continuance after the answer sent by the German government through Ambassador Gerard depends upon the attitude of the allies. As long as they talk of crushing and dismembering Germany there is absolutely no possibility of peace. I am quoting Premier Asquith and other Englishmen. I have no idea that Germany could be crushed or dismembered."

"No lasting peace would be possible if a square inch of German territory was given up. That applies to the colonies of Germany as well as to the German empire itself. It is perfectly clear that if any territory was taken from Germany would again arm to the teeth."

Count Von Bernstorff said that undoubtedly the German emperor had been informed of the talk between Ambassador Gerard and the imperial German chancellor and that the answer given had been first submitted to the emperor. He added that it should be emphatically understood that from a military viewpoint Germany was not seeking peace at this time any more than before.

PARLIAMENT PROROGUED Continued

"God save Ireland!" John Redmond, the Irish nationalist leader, replied: "God save England!" Parliament will sit again Oct. 27.

The King's Speech
The king's speech was as follows:

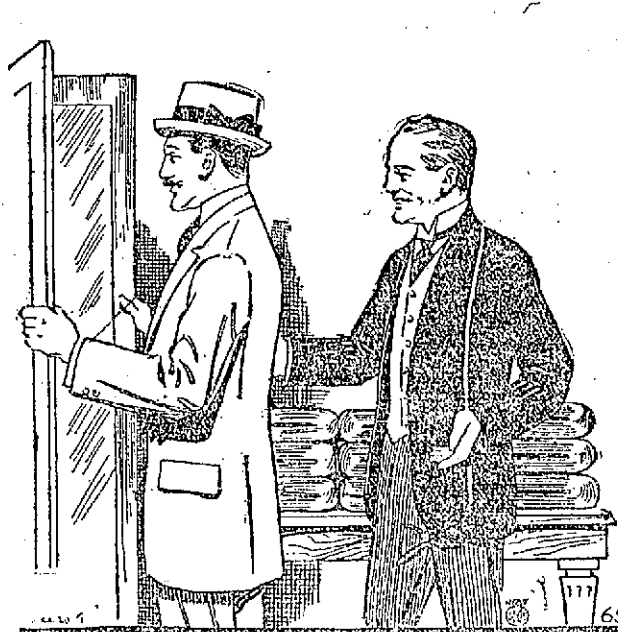

"My Lords and Gentlemen: I address you in circumstances that call for action rather than for speech. After every endeavor had been made by my government to preserve the peace of the world I was compelled in this assertion of treaty obligations, deliberately set at naught and for the protection of the public law of Europe and the vital interests of my empire, to go to war. "I and my army have with unflinching vigilance, courage and skill sustained, in association with our gallant and faithful allies, a just and righteous cause. "From every part of my empire there has been a spontaneous and enthusiastic rally to our common flag. "Gentlemen of the house of commons: I thank you for the liberality with which you have met a great emergency. My lords and gentlemen: We are fighting for a worthy purpose and we shall not lay down our arms until that purpose has been fully achieved. I rely with confidence upon the loyal and united efforts of all my subjects and I pray that Almighty God may give us His blessing. "Mr. Redmond, who was the recipient of many warm congratulations in the lobby of the house after adjournment, left later in the day for Ireland, where he will take part in the recruiting campaign for which Premier Asquith has sought his aid."

THE MIDNIGHT SUN IS

"The midnight sun" is one of those seemingly mysterious natural phenomena which exercise a perpetual charm over the popular imagination. The northern part of Scandinavia has acquired for itself the distinctive name of the "Land of the Midnight Sun," but the title should be extended to include a complete circuit of the earth along the Arctic circle. Then, too, the southern hemisphere has a precisely similar phenomenon, which occurs along the Antarctic circle, including a portion of Wilkes Land.

Properly speaking, a midnight sun is seen but once a year in either hemisphere. Confining our attention to the northern hemisphere, the midnight sun is visible near the Arctic circle on the date of the summer solstice, which occurs about June 21, at the time when the sun, in its apparent annual circuit of the sky, reaches its greatest northern declination, about 23½ degrees, which is precisely equal to the inclination of the earth's axis of rotation from a perpendicular to the plane of its orbit around the sun.

The Arctic circle is situated this same angular distance (23½ degrees) from the North pole. When the sun is directly over the equator, about March 21, its light reaches simultaneously both poles of the earth. As the sun begins to move northward the light quits the South pole, which then enters on its period of six-months night. But at the same time the sun rises higher at the North pole, which in its turn enters upon its record of six-months day.

In the meantime, along the Arctic circle, the days grow longer and the nights shorter, as the sun comes continually northward until, at the solstice, when the sun is 23½ degrees north of the equator, there will be one period of twenty-four hours during which the sun does not set at all in the Arctic circle. At the hour of midnight on that day the sun, describing a circle through the sky, just touches the edge of the horizon in the north like the bob of a gigantic pendulum and then, without disappearing, immediately begins to rise again to describe the other half of its sweep in the sky.

This is the phenomenon called "the midnight sun." Conversely at the time of the winter solstice, which occurs about Dec. 21, when the sun is at its greatest southern declination, there is no absolute sunless day on the Arctic circle, while the sun sinks just under the southern horizon at noon. As a matter of fact, owing to the effects of the refraction of the atmosphere, which means the power of the air to bend the rays of light so that the sun appears to be above the horizon by about its own diameter, when it is really its own diameter below it, the phenomena just described are visible half a degree (about 33 miles) south of the Arctic circle.

After the day of the solstice the sun begins to dip below the horizon again because it is then going south once more, and the nights, beginning with the length of only a few minutes, gradually increase until they, too, on one single occasion, attain the length of twenty-four hours.

Within the Arctic circle the day and nights, alternately, greatly exceed twenty-four hours in length. At the very pole, as we have seen, they may be a month long, and at the North Cape three months—Garrett P. Serv in the Detroit Tribune.

CRIMINAL COURT A SLICK CHICKEN THIEF

Third Edition PARLIAMENT PROROGUED

The trial of the case of Rose Brasseur, charged with maintaining a house of ill fame, was resumed in the criminal session of superior court this forenoon, Hon. James E. O'Donnell finishing with the defendant's case. Shortly before the noon recess the case was given to the jury for deliberation. Two witnesses testified today, Mrs. A. Parson, agent of the property which the defendant occupied, claiming that the house was rented to another person, and Miss Brasseur, denied the charges made by the government. Defendant was held in $1000 surety while the jury was out.

Paul Broncato, who was defaulted yesterday, pleaded guilty to unlawfully keeping liquor and a $50 fine was imposed.

After pleading guilty to a complaint charging him with breaking and entering the store of Susie Thorpe in Merrimack street and the larceny of $3.54, John Sandulak, aged 13 years, was placed on probation on condition that he secure work and lead a straight life. The young man told the court that he had been in this country but a year and would not have committed the theft only for the fact that he was out of work and needed food.

Osmond Field was called on continuance for unlawfully keeping liquor and his case was again continued for further consideration.

Harry Kimball pleaded guilty to assault with intent to rob and the larceny of one mesh bag, containing $55 and several small articles from one Margaret T. Sullivan of Newton, before Judge Keating in the superior court this afternoon and not guilty to a statutory offense. It is alleged that both offenses occurred on the evening of May 27 while Miss Sullivan was proceeding from the car line in Newton to her home. Defendant was held in the sum of $5000 on each complaint until his case might be called by the district attorney. Not being able to furnish bail, he was committed to the Lowell jail.

Two complaints also faced James Dargento. He was charged with assault with a dangerous weapon and carrying a concealed weapon, but as his counsel was not present, the matter was postponed until Monday morning.

The jury that heard the Rose Brasseur case had also failed to reach an agreement when court was adjourned at 3:30 o'clock. The sitting will reconvene in this city Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

CONFIDENCE GAME WORKED ON WOMEN IN PAWTUCKETVILLE DISTRICT

A slick hen thief has been at work in Pawtucketville for some time and it is reported that many residents of that section of the city have been separated from valuable chickens. According to information received, the thief works his game by calling at a house where hens are kept and by informing the woman of the house that he has purchased a number of hens, specifying a certain number, from the head of the family, and that he has called for his property, and every time his work has been successful.

The last to be caught by this slick thief was Mrs. Joseph Boudreau, of 336 Moody street. Yesterday afternoon a man called at this woman's home and informed Mrs. Boudreau he had just sold Mr. Boudreau for two hens, and he also told her he had called for the pullets. Mrs. Boudreau doubted the man's story at first, but he assured her he was telling the truth and then he repaired to the hencoop, where he selected two of the heaviest hens and after borrowing a bag to carry the hens in, he boarded an electric car in the direction of the city. In the evening when Mr. Boudreau returned to his home he denied having sold any hens and informed his wife she had been robbed.

The man's description as given by Mrs. Boudreau for the benefit of other hen keepers in Pawtucketville or elsewhere is as follows: Five feet and ten inches in height, and weight, about 165 pounds. The man wore a blue coat with grey trousers and a small cap. He has a smooth face and he is of good appearance.

Wild Scenes Follow Announcement That Home Rule Bill is Law—King's Speech on War

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Scenes of enthusiasm in the staid legislative chambers of Westminster palace were enacted today when the two houses of parliament were prorogued.

King George was absent inspecting the troops and his speech was read in the house of lords by Viscount Haldane, the lord high chancellor and in the house of commons by John P. Whitley, the deputy speaker.

When the announcement was made in the house of lords that the royal assent had been given to the Irish Home Rule and the Welsh Church Disestablishment Suspension bills and to a number of emergency bills, cheers were given for the passing of the Irish and the Welsh bills.

On the announcement of the passing of the Irish Home Rule bill in the house of commons the Nationalists and Liberals broke into loud cheers, which were repeated again and again.

Will Crooks, the labor party leader, asked if it was in order to sing "God Save the King." Without waiting for permission he started the first verse himself and broke down with emotion. The anthem was taken up by the spectators in the gallery as well as the members and the singing was heard in the palace yard.

As the members filed out of the chamber Mr. Crooks cried out:

G. BROOKS IS CHAMPION

Gardner Brooks, the Lowell boy, who has been in action in picking for the 115 pound championship, before the winter has passed, has been having two years in that length of time has faced thirty-one opponents within the bantam square. Of this number Brooks has lost but one decision and that to another local boy, Young Clark.

Last Tuesday night the local youngster lost and decisively defeated Barney Snyder, the Boston bantamweight who had successfully defended the New England title in his class up to the time he met Brooks. Brooks, however, won the title from him Tuesday in a fight which started the blood of every fan in the arena. Snyder could find the local boxer on but few occasions.

Brooks is distinctly a boxer and his slowness and lack of reach make him well nigh unbeatable. He can hit as well as if he should ever meet a lay of his own style and build would undoubtedly beat him away. However, today he outboxed his opponents and

To Ascertain Under What Terms the Allies Would Make Peace—Nothing Tangible in Message

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Germany has suggested informally that the United States should undertake to elicit from Great Britain, France and Russia a statement of the terms under which the allies would make peace.

The suggestion was made by the imperial chancellor, von Bethmann-Hollweg, to Ambassador Gerard at Berlin, as a result of an inquiry sent by the American government to learn whether Emperor William was desirous of discussing peace as Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, and Oscar Straus recently reported.

No reply was made by Emperor William himself, and the imperial chancellor indicated whether he spoke on behalf of his monarch. Ambassador Gerard cabled President Wilson the chancellor's remarks from recollection, which was substantially as follows:

"Germany was appreciative of the American government's interest and offer of services in trying to make peace. Germany did not want war but had it forced on her. Even if she defeats France she must likewise vanquish both Great Britain and Russia, as all three have made an agreement not to make peace except by common consent. Similarly, England has announced through Premier Asquith and her diplomatists and newspapers that she intended to fight the limit of her resources. In view of the determination on the part of Great Britain, the United States ought to get proposals of peace from the allies. Germany could accept only a lasting peace, one that would make her people sure against future attacks. To accept mediation now would be interpreted by the allies as a sign of weakness on the part of Germany and would be misunderstood by the German people, who, having made great sacrifices, had the right to demand guarantees of security."

The president indicated that he rather expected a reply to the inquiry to be sent eventually from Berlin. He added only the brief comment that he, himself, thought the way might possibly be opened to mediation. President Wilson did not regard the message, however, as non-committal, but incidentally to the acknowledgment of the American government's inquiry.

Expected Direct Reply
The president indicated that he rather expected a reply to the inquiry to be sent eventually from Berlin. He added only the brief comment that he, himself, thought the way might possibly be opened to mediation. President Wilson did not regard the message, however, as non-committal, but incidentally to the acknowledgment of the American government's inquiry.

President Wilson took no action as a result of the message, waiting to hear from Ambassador Gerard whether anything of a formal character could be obtained by him. Germany's position is that she will give her opinion on terms of peace only after she has received a definite statement from the allies of their proposals. The statement that Germany did not want war but had it forced on her as well as the declaration that she wanted a lasting peace, is almost identical with the remarks which Sir Edward Grey made to Ambassador Page in London last week.

Will Instruct Ambassadors
The general belief in well informed circles last night was that the president after waiting a few days for more information from Berlin probably would instruct American ambassadors at London, Paris and Petrograd to communicate with the imperial German chancellor what the imperial German ambassador had said to Ambassador Gerard. It was believed that the ambassadors would be asked to reiterate the wish of the American government to be of service in bringing about peace and to point out the readiness of the United States to communicate to Germany and Austria any statement of terms which the allies might care to make.

Diplomats were disposed to believe that through such informal conversations something definite in the way of peace terms might yet be obtained as a working basis. If a concert of opinion for the discussion of peace terms were reached, President Wilson then would endeavor to obtain an acceptance by all the belligerents of the original tender of good offices.

The Final Reckoning
President Wilson already has indicated that he believed that the final reckoning of the war should be made in a conference of the European powers.

"Indigestion is practically all forms of stomach trouble arising from times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, it would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bleached magenta in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bleached magenta is dissolved in the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach; but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an indignant and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bleached magenta from your druggist, eat what you want of your next meal, take some of the bleached magenta as directed above, and see if it is not right."

LUSTIG TO BOX

Clever N. Y. Boxer Will Once More Appear in Boston Ring

Tuesday night at the Atlas A. A. of Boston, the boxing fans will have another opportunity to see Johnny "Young" Lustig, the cleverest boy ever turned out in New York, perform against Eddie Murphy of South Boston, who is the cleverest lightweight in New England. They will box 12 rounds at catchweights.

Lustig showed in Boston two weeks ago, winning a decision over Terry Brooks, the hard hitting Boston lightweight, after one of the hardest fought contests ever seen in this section. Twice, the clever New Yorker went to the mat, only to arise and unless such a fast brand of speed as is very seldom witnessed in this or any other country, with the result that the New York boy received an ovation when the referee announced he was the winner. When the announcement was made last Tuesday night that Lustig was to appear here again with Eddie Murphy for an opponent, the members were well pleased, and are loud in their approval of this match.

Eddie Murphy is a different type of boxer than Brooks, and he feels confident he can take the measure of the New York lightweight, feeling that he is as clever, and a harder hitter, but he is leaving nothing in the condition line undone, as he knows it would relegate him to the rear to suffer defeat at this time, and will carry the willing to Lustig from the opening bell.

Another 12 round bout between Al McCoy of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Young Jasper of Boston, will also be staged, making a double window show. This team boxed a sensational 16-round draw three weeks ago, and as each is out to secure the decision in a longer battle, there will not be any time wasted when this team gets started.

Happy Riker, a New York lightweight, meets Gus Murphy of Cambridge in one of the six-round preliminaries. Eddie Brown of Boston meets Billy Burke of Lynn in the other six-round affair.

"FATHERS' CLUBS"

Organized at Council Bluffs, Iowa, Over a Year Ago—Training Children a Specialty

"What sort of a father are you?" This question is found on every program of what is claimed to be the first fathers' club in the United States, organized at Council Bluffs, Iowa, a little over a year ago, according to information received at the home education division of the United States bureau of education.

Ten clubs, with an average membership of 50 have been formed during the year for the purpose of bringing the fathers into closer touch with the children, the teachers, and board of education, in an endeavor to bring about the very best results for the betterment of the children. The motto of these clubs is, "Make the indifferent different." Membership is limited to males 21 years of age or over.

Each month the "fathers' clubs" debate such questions as: "Are our children trained, for or away from, the age in which we live? How many children

Quests representing various community groups are invited to the meetings; interested fathers from other districts; clergymen; physicians of the neighborhood; members of the board of education; mayor and city council; and the Bar association. The clubs were addressed at different times during the year by a judge of the United States circuit court, university professors, senators, school superintendents, a judge of the superior court, a member of the state board of education, as well as other interested citizens.

It is planned in the near future to form the existing clubs into a federation, with a uniform program for all the clubs every month.

On my Fall Opening two weeks ago, I had a special offering of a pair of trousers free for that occasion. Since that time I have had several inquiries through the mail from out of town customers. Some said the season was a little early to order them; others told me the time limit was short and they couldn't take advantage of it with the double holiday near at hand. Now at this reading I am giving you two days' notice. I have forty-eight trouser patterns to give away with suit or overcoat orders. I want my out-of-town customers to respond in large numbers, and for TODAY and SATURDAY, positively the last two days, I will give

A PAIR OF $5.00 TROUSERS FREE

I am an optimistic man—I have faith in this country—I have faith in the future—I have faith in the people because I have always found the people to be right in the long run.

Whatever may be the cause, it is a fact nevertheless that people are not paying much attention to my overcoat announcement. Just now it isn't that you don't need an overcoat—it isn't that the weather of the past few days was too warm, we have had warm weather other years, but people responded to overcoat bargains.

LISTEN TO ME—You will get cold weather soon enough. You will need an overcoat. I offer you now the chance to get a suit or overcoat for less money than the ordinary clothing dealer can put that garment on his counter for. It is positively the greatest trade of my career and that means something. Will you order now? You don't spend your money until you want your garment—Take the suit or overcoat when the weather compels you to wear it.

As a Token of My Regard

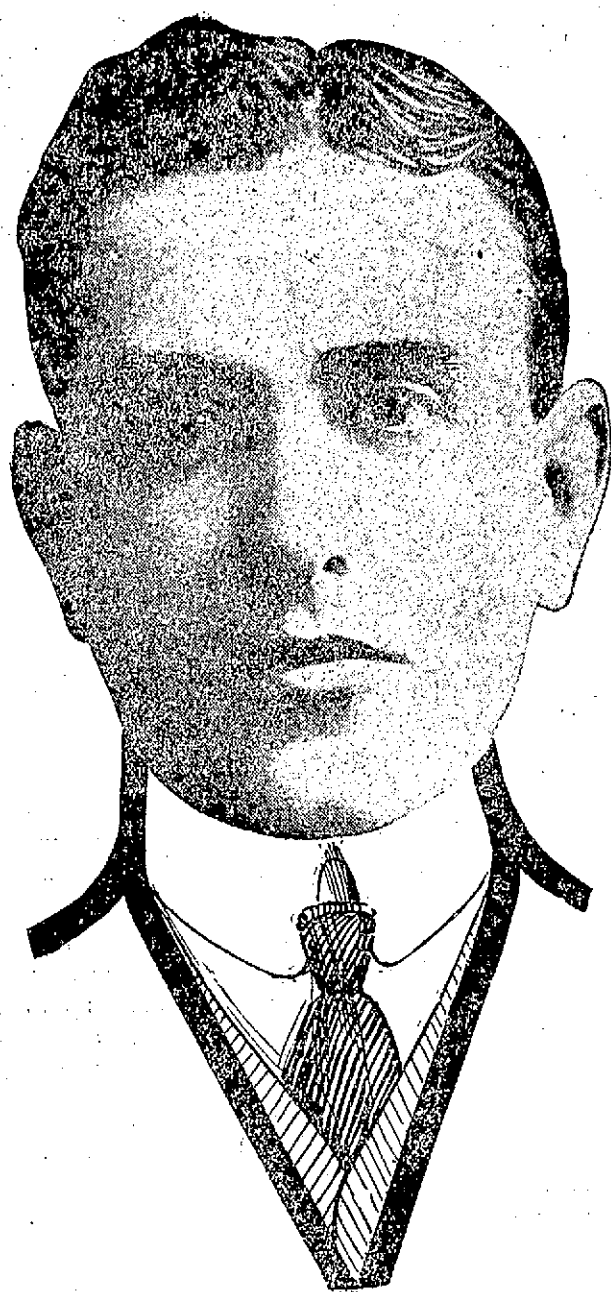

To answer the many inquiries I had in the last week as an inducement to the late buyer to force his order earlier and to the new customer to give me a trial, I will give to each customer ordering a suit or overcoat Friday or Saturday

It was an exciting match and was witnessed by many friends of the bowlers. In the first string Moran secured an early lead and won easily. The second string was close but went to Hartigan. Moran started off like a winner in the last string but Hartigan rolled three spares in succession and soon had the heart taken out of Jack. Hartigan's high string was 119. Moran rolled a total of 276 while Hartigan's total was 296. These men will meet again in the near future and Moran predicts that he will turn the tables. Both athletes are employed at the Federal Shoe Co. Before leaving Chester informed his rival that they would be unable to meet again as Kittredge was going to close. Jack wanted to know why, and was informed that the "Alleys" were going to war. Spare him, Mike!

NEW MAP SHOWING THE LINEUP OF GERMANS AND ALLIES IN GREAT CONFLICT IN FRANCE

FIRE IN JEWELRY STORE

ALARM CALLED THE DEPARTMENT TO STORE ON EAST MERRIMACK STREET

The fire department was called out at 10.15 o'clock last night in response to an alarm from box 8, at the corner of East Merrimack and Howe streets, when a blaze started in the jewelry store formerly owned by the Qua Jewelry Co., but now the property of Hepolito Buslewicz. The store is at 65 East Merrimack street.

The fire was discovered by Officer T. A. Moloney while making the rounds of his beat. An explosion of some sort aggravated the blaze to such a degree that the firemen had difficulty in getting it under control. Beyond burning the fixtures of the store and smoking up the interior and stock little damage was done.

POST - SEASON GAME

MEET DOWNRIVER TODAY FOR
THIRD BATTLE OF SERIES

Lawrence, champions for the season of 1914 of the New England league, and New London, winners of the flag in the Eastern association, got down to business this afternoon in the ball yard of the downriver city after yesterday's vacation.

Yesterday the managers of the two teams went over the existing situation thoroughly with their players. Every weakness, no matter how trivial, which had been discovered in the first two games of the series, was discussed at length, in an effort to make both clubs more effective today.

Although results are still even thus far, the majority of the critics still feel that New London will win the series. There is one little thing that these dopesters have forgotten which might be well for them to remember.

Lawrence without doubt is inferior in playing ability to the team Gene McCann has under his command. But we have seen the way Lawrence fought its way to the top of the New England league ladder and refused to be ousted. It is just this kind of aggressiveness by which Lawrence will win if she wins at all, for beyond dispute New London is the stronger aggregation.

9 KILLED, 15 INJURED

WHEN LOCOMOTIVE STRUCK A
STREET CAR ON RAILROAD
CROSSING AT MEMPHIS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 18.—Nine persons are known to have been killed and more than 15 injured early last night when an Illinois Central freight train crashed into a street car containing about 35 passengers, near Binghamton, a suburb of Memphis.

The wrecked car, a trailer, was hurled over an embankment and the foremost freight cars toppled over on it. The motor car drawing the trailer cleared the railway tracks ahead of the engine. None of its passengers was injured.

Recovery of the bodies of the victims from the tangled heap of wreckage was attended by great difficulty. Two hours after the tragedy, nine dead had been found and 15 injured taken to the hospitals.

An eye witness says the accident occurred when two freight trains were switching over the street railway crossing. The street car conductor, it is said, gave his motorman the signal to go ahead after the first train passed. The car and its trailer were passing the cross-over when struck by the second train coming from the opposite direction.

The conductor and a few passengers on the trailer saw the onrushing train in time to jump, escaping with slight injuries. Several other passengers who remained in their seats were carried nearly 200 feet on the locomotive tender before being thrown into a ditch.

For the present Commander Louis R. DeStigler, captain of the Norfolk yard, will continue acting commandant, on account of the illness of Rear Admiral Usher.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Sir Edward Carson, leader of the unionists in Ulster, was married at Wincanton, Somerset, yesterday to Miss Ruby Frewen, niece of Morton Frewen, member of Parliament for Northeast Cork. SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 18.—A cave-in on the 1600 foot level of the Centennial-Eureka mine at Eureka yesterday buried 12 men. Although hope of rescuing them was abandoned, their relatives stood about the shaft imploring help. The men were too deeply buried to have survived.

JAPAN VERY FRIENDLY

TOKIO, Sept. 18.—9.55 p. m.—A notable demonstration of friendship toward the United States was made last night at a dinner given by the Japanese association, which was attended among others by Takaki Kato, the Japanese foreign minister, and George W. Guthrie, the United States ambassador.

Viscount Kintaro Kaneko, president of the association, in a speech scored those persons who, he said, were trying to estrange the United States and Japan.

"Japan not only will attack the Philippines," said Viscount Kaneko, "but she never had any idea of disturbing the tranquility of the territorial waters of the Philippines. Our friendship will be as firm and immovable as historic Plymouth Rock."

Other speakers suggested an alliance between the United States and Japan for the preservation of peace in the Pacific.

Continued

Mr. Morrison didn't remain to express the confidence that had been in him, just prior to the chairman's interruption.

John L.'s Little Joke
Quarter of a century ago, John L. Sullivan, then in the hey-day of his popularity, sprang a little joke which appears to have gotten the goat of the editor of the old Sun, for the latter said editorially:

"John L. Sullivan says that he intends to run for congress. The democrats who attempt to place him in nomination should be read out of the party."

It may have been that John L. read the above editorial, for he reconsidered his intention and was not a candidate.

Bill Holstead Injured

"While Hose 5 was flying to a small blaze started by boys in some straw in the rear of 214 and Puffer's store, in Middlesex street, Thursday evening," says The Sun of 25 years ago, "Fireman William Holstead was flung from the hose carriage and badly cut about the face and head. He was also considerably shaken up. He was taken to the protective station and put to bed."

Bill was so pleased with the good treatment accorded him at the protective company's house that he took a liking to the place and today is captain of the protective company.

Arthur Cumcock's Debut

Said The Sun of 25 years ago: "Among the Harvard students who have started on their studies for the coming year are: Winthrop E. Fiske, Lewis H. Dow, John J. Tobin, James Mellen of the class of '99; Arthur J. Cumcock of the class of '01; H. H. Harris, Fred Coburn, G. A. Viles, Percy Burrows of '92, Guy Martin and F. Roy Martin, who are on their first year."

One year later Arthur Cumcock's name became a household word from the Atlantic to the Pacific, for making the football team in his first year, he became its captain in the year when Harvard defeated Yale at Springfield and had one of the strongest teams in the history of the university. The old-time football players still go back to the days of Arthur Cumcock of Lowell. Mr. Cumcock is the son of A. G. Cumcock of the Appleton mill of this city. The football games of that year made such an impression on "Jimmy" Mellen that he hasn't missed a Harvard-Yale game since. Three of the gentlemen above mentioned subsequently became connected with Lowell's school department: Mr. Mellen, at present principal of the Lincoln school; Mr. Harris, in charge of the Varnum school, while the late Mr. Tobin taught in the high school.

Miss McCann's Wedding

Respective of whether he has had his one day off in fifteen for the month of September, Police Officer, The old-time McCann should be given an extra day off next Friday, for that day, Sept. 25, he will be called upon to celebrate an anniversary that can better be observed "in the sanctity of his home," than on a motorcycle in the Oakland. And we get the tip from the old Sun as follows:

McCann—Murdoch

Rev. Fr. Shaw officiated at the marriage ceremony of Mr. Matthew McCann and Miss Alice Murdoch at St. Patrick's parsonage, Wednesday evening (Sept. 23). Mr. John McCann acted in the capacity of best man and Miss Lizzie Murdoch was bridesmaid. The young couple were the recipients of numerous and costly presents, among them being a parlor suite from the Crescent club, of which the groom is a member. They left for a short bridal tour on the 8 o'clock train and on their return they will reside in Centralville.

Matt can still travel 100 yards in 11 seconds and voice-betide the prisoner who attempts to put up a battle with him while under arrest for Matt can still handle the roughest necks without resorting to the wood. Since youth Matt has been a consistent physical culturist, and the result is that he is as active as when he was the pride of all Lowell athletes.

That Old Police Court

While we are still doing business in the same old police court, that is some of us, 25 years ago the lawyers were "holloing" for a new court room. Since then many of them have passed away but the old court room is still with us. The old Sun, quarter of a century ago, had the following editorial:

"All the lawyers of the city are longing for a new police court. The air in the present court is about as foul as it is possible to have it and those who have any business to do in the place are continually complaining.

Even the prisoners complain when they are taken into court."

The editor might truthfully have added that a majority of the prisoners also complain when being taken from the court.

Destroys The Hair

Girls—If you want plenty of thick, beautiful glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it. You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

WAR NEWS

CROWN PRINCE WANTS WOOLLEN UNDERWEAR AND SOCKS FOR HIS SOLDIERS

BERLIN, Sept. 15—(via London)—Crown Prince Frederick William telegraphed to the Zeitung Am Mittag, as follows:

"Please collect and forward as early as possible woolen underwear and socks for my soldiers. Greetings."

"Wilhelm, Crown Prince."

It was only a few days ago that the crown prince, who evidently has the comfort of his soldiers always in mind, telegraphed a Berlin newspaper asking it to collect and forward tobacco and cigars for his soldiers.

The healing of the wound of Prince Joachim, the youngest son of Emperor William, is progressing normally but it will possibly be several weeks before he is wholly restored, according to an announcement at the imperial court today.

No Official News

No news from official sources for publication has been received since the midnight bulletin, whose reports of attacks and counter attacks indicate that the battle is still progressing. Otherwise there is little illuminating news for the German public and not the slightest hint of the movement or positions of the German army for the last ten days has been disclosed by the military authorities. The wording of the latest German bulletin may, perhaps, be interpreted as indicating that there is only a series of minor engagements in progress but it is understood that this is not the case and that the attacks and the counter attacks are part of a heavy general engagement.

Meanwhile the severity of the censorship on the Russian front has been relaxed and a number of stories are coming through from which it is possible to draw a general picture of the operations leading to the defeat of General Rennenkampf's Russian army.

From Sept. 7 to 13 the Russians took a strong position on the line from Angorburg to Gerdauen, Allenburg and Wehlau, the left wing resting on the Mazurian lakes and the right wing protected in the rear and flank by the forest of Frischling.

Were Strongly Entrenched

The Russians devoted great efforts to entrenching their positions and brought up besides their heavy artillery, Russian cavalry scouted far to the west and south but otherwise the army undertook no offensive operations in the days following the battle of Tannenberg.

General Hindenburg, the German commander, meanwhile, was assembling his every available man, depriving the fortresses of their garrisons and calling in all but a bare remnant of the force protecting the southern frontier in the vicinity of Soldau, adding them to reinforcements received from the west.

General Hindenburg again resorted to the customary outflanking movement and since the Russian right protected by the forest and marshes seemed too strong he adopted the daring strategy of sending the flanking force to the lake region to the south, the same character of movement by which the Russian Narva army was straggled and captured a short time ago and which in case of failure might have been equally as disastrous for the Germans.

The strategy, however, succeeded although General Rennenkampf offered a desperate resistance to the frontal attack. After three days' fighting the Russians were forced back in the center. On Sept. 10 the Russians began to fall back on their main position, retreating in good order and well covered. The Russian artillery on the right wing appears to have made a good retreat owing to a timely start while the left wing was hard pressed by the enveloping German infantry.

Governor of Suwalki

The German government has appointed Count Von Merfeldt as governor of the Russian province of Suwalki.

The university of Koenigsberg today conferred upon General Von Hindenburg honorary doctor's degrees from all four of the departments of philosophy, law, medicine and theology.

The Berliner Tagblatt prints the following regarding the operations in the west:

"We are standing on the defensive on a 125 mile battle line and because we have been spoiled by a rapid series of victories many are unable to realize that a defense under certain circumstances is as justified as an offensive movement."

"We have learned little concerning the situation, but we can point to some successes, such as the repulse of the French night attacks and the fact that the French have succeeded neither in outflanking the retreating right nor breaking through the front."

For Strategic Reasons

"The abandonment of our original positions between Paris and Verdun for strategic reasons is in itself nothing momentous. In many days of battle and shifting positions final results alone are important. So long as the battle continues undecided with the possibility of throwing in fresh troops drawing nearer while the enemy has exhausted himself by repeated attacks, the German chances are better than those of the Anglo-French."

Capt. Schickel, the correspondent of the Lokal Anzeiger deserting the action in East Prussia on Sept. 10, as follows:

"Our heavy howitzer batteries located on the extreme right wing bombarded the entrenchments and bomb-proofs of the Russian infantry with terrible effect and from this position we could watch the progress of the battle easily with field glasses; but we, too, caught the big notes of the battle music. The battle noises of the Russians came in ever-shortening intervals and between rolled the infantry fire now in volleys and then irregularly. Meanwhile the hard rattle of the machine guns on the edge of the forest had a deafening sound, adding long runs of notes to the concert."

"The Russian shrapnel meanwhile burst too high or too low near our batteries, but the Russians after a while got the range and over our batteries soon flew fragments of the iron showerbath intended for us. Soon our batteries increased our fire until the heavens seemed alive while on the horizon the villages broke out in flames."

The German Infantry

"Through the field glass I observed dark masses moving across the fields. It was the well-extended German infantry advancing with extraordinary speed. Altogether too high over them exploded shrapnel and from the north came infantry fire which soon was silent."

"At 1.45 in the afternoon, the Russian shrapnel fire reached its maximum violence and then followed a cessation of all fire for ten minutes and then again the fire was opened. At 2.15 the Russian fire stopped with our men advancing as rapidly as possible and a little while afterward the effect of our flank movement behind Loetzen made itself felt."

GEN. BATAILLE KILLED IN ACTION —PIERCE FIGHTING ALONG THE WHOLE FRONT

LONDON, Sept. 15.—A Bordeaux despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. states that the battle continues with great fierceness along the whole front. Announcement is made that General Bataille was killed in action.

BOYS LESS THAN 10 YEARS OLD ARE FIGHTING IN THE GERMAN RANKS

LONDON, Sept. 15.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from Bordeaux asserts that boys less than 10 years old are fighting in the German ranks. The correspondent declares he saw one wounded in the Bordeaux hospital whose age was 15 years and nine months and who told him that all students at school over 15 years had been mobilized and placed in different regiments.

JAPS DROP BOMBS ON ENEMY'S SHIPS, WIRELESS STATION AND MOTOR HOUSE

TOKIO, Sept. 15.—Vice Admiral Kato, commander of the second Japanese squadron, it is officially announced, reports under date of Sept. 17 that in reconnoiter by aeroplane over Kiao Chow bay the day before bombs were dropped toward the enemy's ships in the harbor, the wireless station and the electric motor house. One bomb was seen to strike a large ship from which smoke curled up.

MONTENEGRINS GIVEN ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION IN AUSTRIAN TERRITORY

ROME, Sept. 15.—News from Cetinje says that the Montenegrins have been given an enthusiastic reception in the Austrian territory of Bosnia. This was especially true when they occupied Gornja, from which point they can communicate by signals with the Serbians at Visegrad. Both the columns are proceeding toward Sarajevo, the capital of Bosnia, where they expect to arrive Sunday.

According to officials of the line the Barbarossa left her pier because an incoming Holland-America line vessel wished to dock at Hoboken in the place that the Barbarossa occupied. The Barbarossa had no cargo of coal aboard it was said.

In the haze that overhung the sea just outside the entrance to the harbor observers from the shore made out this morning what they thought to be the shape of two or three British cruisers which have been stationed there for several days.

CENSORSHIP OF WIRELESS MES- SAGES BY FEDERAL GOVERN- MENT IS LEGAL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Censorship of wireless messages by the federal government is legal according to an opinion by Attorney General Gregory announced today by Secretary Daniels.

The attorney general gives several citations of law to back up the opinion, but his main contention is upon the right of the government to use every means at its command to preserve neutrality in war time. To preserve neutrality, the opinion says, the government has the right even to make use of the armed forces of the United States.

The legal right of the government to exercise a censorship was raised by the Marconi Telegraph Co. of America. All wireless plants are affected by the opinion, but those most prominent in the public eye are at Siasconset, Sayville and Tuckerton.

THEODORE WHITNEY DEAD

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—Theodore D. Whitney, senior member of the firm of T. D. Whitney & Co., 39 Temple place, and in the linen business in Boston for about 40 years, died suddenly yesterday morning in the Portsmouth hospital in Portsmouth, where a surgical operation was ventured, but he succumbed on the operating table.

Mr. Whitney was born in Boston July 2, 1847, the son of Nathaniel Davis and Laura Whitney. His father was for many years proprietor of a store at Tremont and Winter streets. The present store was started at 143 Tremont street and was under the firm name of Whitney, Warner & Frost.

When Mr. Whitney bought out the firm he moved the store to the present location. The present firm consisted of Mr. Whitney and Phineas Hubbard, who was a partner of Mr. Whitney's for about 35 years.

In 1875 Mr. Whitney was a member of the old "Tigers" of the 1st Regiment, and also on Col. Wellington's staff. He served as a militiaman during the Boston fire of 1872.

Mr. Hubbard, Mr. Whitney's partner, was greatly shocked at learning of the death yesterday. He said: "Mr. Whitney was an ideal employer, generous hearted and a true friend. Although of a retiring disposition, he was a strong business man. His death has been a great shock to all of us and I shall miss him greatly."

Mr. Whitney is survived by his wife and a sister, Mrs. George Myrick.

SMITH COLLEGE OPENS

ABOUT 600 IN ENTERING CLASS— INCREASED ENDOWMENT BRINGS ADDITIONAL TEACHERS

NORTHAMPTON, Sept. 15.—Smith college began its 41st year yesterday morning. The entering class, which numbered about 600, is likely to be the largest in the history of the college.

Academic conditions are unusually favorable, as owing to increased endowment the teaching staff presents 30 new members.

Many of the faculty members who were abroad were able to be here on time only by considerable personal inconvenience. Miss Margaret Rooka of the Italian department and Miss Pellissier of the French department are yet to arrive. The French department loses Miss Louise Dujail, who remains in France as a nurse, and Prof. Michaud, who has taken his place in the French army.

Mrs. Burton's address was on the attitude of parents and friends toward a student's education, and on quality as the aim of the student.

Prof. Regis Michaud, who has resigned because of the European war, had just been called to Smith from Princeton.

Mrs. Burton and family passed the summer in Wales.

Prof. Louis G. Monte of the art department was in Switzerland when the war broke out and was appointed netting consul and chief aid to Americans stranded at Interlaken.

AUTOMOBILES NOT ALLOWED TO LEAVE PARIS—ACTION DUE TO USE OF MOTORS BY SPIES

PARIS, Sept. 18.—Beginning today, no automobiles will be allowed to leave Paris except military ambulances and cars carrying officials and journalists bound to and from Bordeaux. It is thought this action may be due to the use of automobiles by spies.

Two cars, one black and one green, have been speeding around the outskirts of Paris defying the challenges of sentinels. Both automobiles were driven by chauffeurs wearing French minitors and carrying passengers in plain clothes who in some cases have returned the fire directed at them by sentinels. There seems to be doubt that the cars were used by spies to locate positions of troops in the vicinity of Paris.

Two more Germans, a woman and her daughter, suspected of spying, were driven from Saint-Michael-Sur-Orge amid the howlings of the populace yesterday.

First Baptist Sunday School

A very enjoyable evening was spent in the vestry of the First Baptist church last evening when the officers and teachers of the Sunday school assembled for their annual reunion. A delicious supper was served and the program was concluded with a pleasing musical program.

THE KING OF ITALY

PACES THE CRISIS OF HIS CAREER
—HIS COUNTRY FAST SPLITTING
ON WAR QUESTION

Klug Victor Emmanuel of Italy faces the crisis of his reign in the present war situation. His country is fast splitting over whether Italy shall fight or not. Many riots have occurred. Some of the people want Italy to take advantage of the present war to extend her boundaries, while others insist that she remain neutral.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

AT THE OPERA HOUSE

The Opera House was filled last night with a responsive and enthusiastic audience to witness another fine vaudeville and picture bill. To choose a feature would be very difficult and more a matter of individual opinion. In an act and every act called forth immediate and lasting applause and the motion picture, "The Redemption of David Corson," again demonstrated very clearly the wonderful range in which the camera can act in staging the modern dramas.

The vaudeville bill balancing act which found favor with all. Ward and Fay save the audience one start when the producer called forth immediate and lasting applause and the motion picture, "The Redemption of David Corson," again demonstrated very clearly the wonderful range in which the camera can act in staging the modern dramas.

Sunday will bring with it another surprise in the shape of a big vaudeville concert composed of all-star features acts direct from the biggest Boston and New York theatres.

B. F. KEMPIS THEATRE

Distinctly in a class by itself is the wonderfully engrossing Laszky photodrama, "The Call of the North," with Robert Edison in the splendid character of "Red Trent." Yesterday many saw the five parts of the play unfolded, and it is doubtful if more perfect, more artistic photography has ever been achieved in a photoplay rendition. Admirers of Edison and his sturdy type of acting will rejoice in witnessing him in "The Call of the North," a play in which he has achieved his greatest triumph. All of the atmosphere of the silent, cold Hudson Bay region is imparted to the pictures, and the supporting cast of Mr. Edison is all that could be desired.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

The ever increasing popularity and acclaim which local theatre goers are giving the members of the Merrimack Square Theatre Stock Co. is only one of the many pleasant ways which goes to show how this really nippable band of artists have endeared themselves to patrons during their short stay in Lowell. The present week's offering, "The Awakening of Helena Richter," has proven one of their most successful bills, while the attraction announced for the coming week which is the great New York Gaiety theatre success, "Atlas Jimmy Valentine," will no doubt add materially to their success. Seats are now on sale at the box office one week in advance, the prices for the matinee being 10, 20 and 30 cents, while in the evening they are 10, 20, 30 and 50 cents. Special attention is called to the time which the first act curtain rises which is at 2 and 3 o'clock. Subscription list open.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

"The Live Wire Theatre of Lowell" is the appellation that the management of the Academy of Music is striving to earn from local theatregoers.

Opening today with the most stupendous feature, program ever attempted they have already taken a long step in that direction.

"In the Hands of London Crooks," is a five-reel feature selected to start the season of movies at the Academy and it is probably the strongest feature melodrama ever produced.

The scenes are not staged in studios, but are taken amidst the actual city life of London and at the famous Ascot race course on Derby day.

Thrill follows thrill in gasping succession and the live love interest is sustained throughout the entire five acts.

In addition of this big production there are three other big features making in all a show of two and a half hours without a dull moment.

The regular amateur night feature of the Academy of Music will be run tonight and every other Friday throughout the season. No explanation of the hilarious fun and amusement that is always a part of amateur night at the Academy need be given here. Everybody who is anybody knows about it and will be present.

Sunday will bring with it another surprise in the shape of a big vaudeville concert composed of all-star features acts direct from the biggest Boston and New York theatres.

The admission prices to the Academy have been set at five and ten cents. It will be a difficult matter to equal this show at three times the price of yesterday.

Starting Monday, it is announced that each and every program at the Academy will include a famous Keystone comedy and every Wednesday and Thursday there will be two complete episodes of the famous Million Dollar Mystery. All patrons of the Academy will be eligible for the $10,000 prize that goes for the best solution of the mystery. This will not be part of our regular program, but an extra added feature.

The entire program will undergo complete changes every Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Sunday.

THE OWL THEATRE

Another successful week is closing at the Owl, and for a parting feature, "When Women Love," a three-part modern society play, has been backed by the management. This play is one of the best offerings of the week, and as an Owl feature rarely disappoints. It is safe to assure another genuine treat. The plot is unusual and is finely acted by an American company.

Among the regular Friday and Saturday features to be shown in the program will be "The Mutual Girl" in her regular weekly appearance; a Keystone comedy will also be shown. The Owl shows one of these comedies daily, "Koonshine Molly" will keep you interested from the very first, by its strange plot and perfect acting, the scenes are also very picturesque; "Lodging for the Night," a drama, and others complete this fine three-hour show. Remember, "The Wrath of the Gods," the biggest masterpiece of the week, is coming.

Kasino dance exhibitions have been the hit of the season, and there is no indication of waning interest. In fact, enthusiasm has increased with every contest.

thing suggestive, and altogether good to see. The dancer who masters absolutely the one-step, hesitation and the maxixe possesses not only the physical qualities, but also the genuine musical temperament. Observation will help you learn all modern steps. Tonight's artists are recognized leaders. Minor's orchestra is always present with useful music.

BROKERS PROTESTING

AGAINST SPECIAL TAX OF $50 A YEAR ON GROUND THAT STOCK EXCHANGES ARE CLOSED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Stock brokers are protesting to democrats of the house ways and means committee against the proposal to include in the war revenue bill a special tax on them of $50 a year. Such a tax was levied in the war revenue act of the Spanish-American war which the democratic caucus authorized the committee to emulate. The stock brokers base their claim for exemption on the fact that stock exchanges are closed throughout the country and that their business is demoralized. They also point to the uncertainty as to when stock exchanges will resume operations.

The matter will be taken on today, when the committee expects to receive from the treasury department estimates of revenue to be derived from special and stamp taxes.

Great increases in land transactions and insurance business since the Spanish war they believe will afford stamp tax revenues more than sufficient to make up for exemption of the check tax.

Senate republicans believe that their filibuster against the river and harbor bill and fight against the war tax will keep congress in session until after the November election. As an indication of their confidence in this, Senator Cullinger, the minority leader, announced last night that he would leave last night for New Hampshire to carry on his campaign for reelection.

PAIN IN THE BACK

Do not worry about a pain in your back. The worry will do you more harm than the pain. The serious diseases of the kidneys seldom or never produce such pains while the cause of most backache is muscular rheumatism, which is painful but never fatal. Lumbago is a form of muscular rheumatism, so is stiff neck.

Sufferers from any form of muscular rheumatism affecting the joints, should keep the general health at the highest standard by the use of a non-alcoholic tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and eat good nourishing food without too much meat. Proper nutrition and good blood are the best means of fighting rheumatism. Medicines do not control the disease directly but a well nourished system will often throw it off. Rheumatism quickly thins the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and as they build it up and strengthen the system there is an increased resistance to the rheumatic poisons. In this way many rheumatic sufferers have found complete recovery.

A book, "Building Up the Blood," which tells about the treatment of rheumatism is free for the taking from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

ARMIES REPEL ATTACKS

PARIS, Sept. 18. The great battle of Aisne continues. All that is known officially of its progress is that the Germans are yielding slightly at some points on the left. Though the communication with this fact was given out officially by the French yesterday it evidently refers to the situation on Tuesday since it accords with the English press statement of Wednesday. The many wounded prisoners coming in from the front indicate that the allies have made the Germans give ground, the latter leaving their wounded behind.

The army of Crown Prince Frederick William has finally turned on its pursuers at Montfaucon, northwest of Verdun, encouraged no doubt by advances of reinforcements coming from the Rhine garrisons and the line of defense is now clearly established from Noyon, 67 miles northeast of Paris to Montfaucon.

In addition to the difficulty of reorganizing their forces to withstand the attack on the new line the Germans are no doubt troubled about their rear. The resumption of activity by the Belgians means more than that its troops have had time to rest and no doubt there is good foundation for the many rumors that King Albert's forces have been reinforced, though from where is only a matter of conjecture.

Some experts still think that the battle is only intended to secure the safety of the crown prince's army which had great difficulty in disengaging itself from the defiles of the forest of Argonne and is not yet, according to opinion here, by any means safe. The prolonged rains also make it necessary to have more time in which to get the artillery out of the chalky mud of northern and eastern Champagne.

LINE OF ADVANCE OF THE ALLIES IS THREADED BY SIX RIVERS

An official statement written by a staff officer who has been on the scene of the operations and who is authorized by the British war office gives details of the actions closing with the crossing of the Aisne but only the most meagre communications have been issued concerning the fighting of the last two days.

Roughly speaking, the line of the advance of the allies is threaded by six rivers, four of which already have been crossed. The crossing of the Marne, marking the assumption of the aggressive by the allies, was purely a reconnaissance action in which General Von Kluck's army was defeated. The crossing of the Oise was not contested. The Vesle river was only lightly defended by the Germans, while as yet new well known resistance of the Germans at the Aisne was not yet reached. The Aisne was crossed by the allies on the 12th inst. and the Oise on the 13th.

If the allies hold the ground across the Aisne which they gained despite the heavy artillery fire from concealed German batteries on the heights above the river, two more rivers, the Aisne and the Oise, remain to be crossed. The country between the Aisne and the Oise is ideal for defensive purposes and if the German army holds the Aisne heights for a few days defensive works can be constructed along the river which will delay the allied advance on German territory for a long time.

On the other hand if the Germans

resume the offensive the country now occupied by them affords an excellent operating base.

It is clear from reports coming in from the allies that the victory of the battle of the Marne and the assumption of the offensive had a tremendous moral effect on the France-British armies.

There is a full in the operations in Belgium, where the victorious Russian armies evidently are moving in an effort to cut off the retreat of the Austrians toward Cracow.

IMPORTANT EVENTS EXPECTED IN BELGIUM IN THE NEXT FEW DAYS

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The correspondent of the Daily Mail at Ostend learns that important events are expected in north Belgium in the next few days, the nature of which he is not allowed to disclose. He says there is little doubt that there are three German army corps, about 150,000 men in Belgium and conveys a report which he has received that the German military authorities have advised the civil population of Liege to leave that town.

GERMAN RAIDING IN VARIOUS PARTS OF NORTH BELGIUM IS EXPLAINED

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The correspondent of the Times at Ghent believes that most of the German raiding in various parts of north Belgium which could not be explained in any relation to the fighting on a large scale last week was connected with incidents just heard of where some 1200 British were sent out in small parties to discover whether British troops were landing.

They were told to push through at all costs, he says, and it was promised that every man who got back with reliable information would receive the decoration of the Iron Cross. "I do not think any will get back," is the terse comment with which the correspondent concludes his dispatch.

MOTHER PERMITTED TO ACT AS SUBSTITUTE FOR ABSENT FATHER

BORDEAUX, Sept. 18.—A decree issued by the French government today permits the mother or guardian of a youth under 20 years of age to act as a substitute for the absent father in legally authorizing the young man to volunteer for the war. In the case of the death of the mother or the guardian the local magistrate may authorize the enlistment. This decree is designed to make it possible for a very large number of ardent volunteers to enlist, physically they are fit but they are under the legal age to join the army.

GEN. DE CASTELNAU MADE GRAND OFFICER OF LEGION OF HONOR

INQUIRY INTO ALLEGATIONS OF BREACH OF CIVILIZED WARFARE SUGGESTED

LONDON, Sept. 18, 12:45 p. m.—An inquiry by American jurists into the allegations of German disregard of the rules of civilized warfare is suggested by the Weekly Spectator in its current issue.

"Undoubtedly American jurists would command most general confidence," the Spectator says. "We cannot ask President Wilson or the American government to appoint such a committee of inquiry. That would naturally be afraid of annoying the German government by so doing and of imperiling that strict, nay anxious, neutrality which they are desirous of maintaining with Germany."

"We do not see, however, why the French, English and Belgian governments should not invite three American jurists of high distinction to undertake the work of discovering whether the Germans have respected and are respecting the agreement made at The Hague in 1907 and also those rules of civilized warfare which generally are respected by belligerents and to report whether any infringements of these conventions and these rules have taken place."

NO DECISION YET IN BATTLE BETWEEN THE OISE AND THE MEUSE
BERLIN, Sept. 18. (via London).—The following official announcement was made at the headquarters of the general staff the evening of Sept. 17: No decision yet has resulted in the battle between the Oise and the Meuse but certain signs indicate that the power of resistance of the enemy is weakening.

The endeavor of the French troops to break through the German wine collapsed without any great efforts on the part of our troops.

The centre of the German army is moving forward slowly but surely. On the right bank of the Meuse the allies from Verdun have been easily repulsed.

GERMANS CONSTRUCT PROTECTIVE WORKS IN EXTENSIVE AND COMPLETE MANNER
BORDEAUX, Sept. 18.—Intelligence received here from the front concerning the trench work done by the Germans throughout the region to which the French have been forced to retreat indicates that these protective works have been constructed in a most extensive and complete manner.

The infantry trenches are from three to four feet deep and have been arranged in parallel lines with well defined cuttings. The artillery is protected by double lines of embankments 20 yards apart and earth shelters have been constructed for the guns while they sleep. These extended works make the advance of the allies slow.

REPORT OF BIG BATTLE AT THANN, ALSACE, IS ENTERED

GENEVA, Sept. 18. (via Paris).—Advices received here say that the report of a big battle at Thann, Alsace, in which 50,000 men were engaged, is untrue. It is stated that there are not more than 20,000 German soldiers in Alsace and that not more than 10,000 were engaged at Thann. Most of the troops in Alsace and around Belfort have been sent to join the principal German armies.

NEW HAVEN CHANGES

SANFORD NAMED PERMANENT AGENT FOR TROLLEY COMPANIES, GIVING INDEPENDENCE
BOSTON, Sept. 18.—The New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad has announced that, following out its policy of curtailing expenses, H. A. Sanford, director of purchases, will hereafter purchase all supplies for the road, and J. H. Sanford, formerly purchasing agent of the road, has been appointed purchasing agent for the Connecticut company, the Housatonic Power company, the Berkshire Street Railway company and the Westport Water company.

It is also stated that the appointment of a separate purchasing agent for the trolley companies is the first step in giving those companies a complete organization of their own independent in every respect of the New Haven road. Mr. Sanford's headquarters will be in New Haven.

At a meeting of the directors of the Central New England railroad in New York yesterday the resignation of James H. Haults as director and vice president was accepted. Mr. Haults having been elected president of the Boston & Maine railroad, in his place was elected J. M. Tomlinson, federal auditor of the New Haven road.

A report made at the meeting of the New Haven directors stated that the interstate commerce commission hoped to begin its valuation work on the New Haven road on April 1 next. It was asserted that the road had all the data ready and preparations made in that the commission would be able to proceed promptly.

The New Haven directors authorized the appropriation of about $55,000 for improvement of the signal system in the vicinity of New Haven. A contract with a power company was approved which will enable the amount of electric train traffic between New Haven and New York to be materially increased.

GEO. CHARRETTE DETAINED

Was Expected in July Under Retirement—Is Probably Detained With Navy in Orient

Mr. and Mrs. Alexandre Charrette of 78 Gershom avenue, are anxiously awaiting news from their son, George, chief gunner aboard the U. S. S. Saratoga, who left Lowell for China some three years ago. As a rule Mr. Charrette writes to his parents about twice a month, but it is now several months since the last letter was received from him, and inasmuch as there is trouble in China at the present time, where the Japanese are raising havoc, Mr. and Mrs. Charrette are very anxious to receive news from their son.

It was expected that George would be in Lowell by this time, for he was to be retired from duty last July, when his 30 years' service came to a close, and it is stated he had made plans to locate definitely in this city, for which he always had a great pride. Some of Mr. Charrette's relatives believe he is on his way home and they expect him any moment, but others are under the impression that he is being detained in China by the United States government, where his services are very valuable in protecting American rights.

George Charrette, who is now 44 years of age, entered the service of

Uncle Sam in the navy at the age of 15 years. He has served his country in a faithful and efficient manner and his discipline and work was so good that the young man soon gained promotion. In the sinking of the Merrimack at Santiago during the Spanish-American war, the Lowell boy took an active part and was highly commended for his bravery. Shortly afterward he was promoted to chief gunner and for a number of years he was attached as an instructor to the Charlestown navy yard.

Three years ago Charrette was assigned to the U. S. S. Saratoga, which left Boston on a trip to China and since that time he has been stationed in a Chinese port. Mr. Charrette wrote to his parents in this city very regularly. However, for the past few months not a word has been received from him and his aged parents are worrying over his delay in writing.

Last July George completed 30 years of active service with Uncle Sam and he was then entitled to a pension, and he had made up his mind to retire. However, according to the rules of the United States navy a retired officer may be called upon at any time for service and it is believed George was kept aboard his ship and will remain there until the present European conflict is over.

CONGRESSMAN KENNEDY

CHOSEN AS PERMANENT CHAIRMAN OF DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION AT HARTFORD, CT.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 18.—When the democratic state convention resumed today to make nominations for United States senator and state officers and to adopt a platform, the delegates found that the unsettled condition of last night, when adjournment was taken until today, continued.

The credentials committee had had before it four contests over seating of delegates but these were quickly disposed of when the session resumed, the roll as reported by the committee being accepted and Congressman William Kennedy of Naugatuck being chosen as permanent chairman of the convention.

Governor Simeon B. Baldwin and Congressman Bryan Mahan of New London were candidates for the senatorial nomination.

LOWELL MOTOR BOAT CLUB

The Lowell Motor Boat club held its first ladies' night last evening which consisted of a parade of the club's motor boats on the Merrimack river, all of the boats being beautifully illuminated with vari-colored lights.

The start was made from the Vesport boat house at 8:15 with Commodore Walker's boat with the Goddess of Liberty upon her bow. It was one of the prettiest water scenes that has been held in this vicinity in years.

MOTOR BOAT BURNED

SIX FLEE FROM BLAZING CRAFT—KING PHILIP TO THE RESCUE—BLAZE DUE TO BACKFIRE
BOSTON, Sept. 18.—In spite of the valiant efforts of the steamer King Philip, which hurried at top speed to the scene of the conflagration and soon had four streams of water playing upon the blazing craft, the 40-foot motor boat Prosperina, owned by Edmund H. Hutchinson, engineer at the Industrial School for Crippled and Deformed Children on St. Botolph street, was burned to the water's edge and sunk yesterday afternoon about three miles east of Graves Ledge, near the entrance to Boston harbor.

The six persons, three men and three women—on board the motor boat escaped in her tender without the slightest injury, being picked up by harbor pilot boat 2 and later transferred to the King Philip, which brought them back to Boston.

The blaze was caused by the backfire from the carburetor of the Prosperina and a few minutes after it had started the three women passengers were placed in the tender. As soon as it became plain that the fire was getting beyond control, the three men, Mr. Hutchinson, the owner; John S. Coston of 13 Garrison street; Back Bay; and one other whose name is not known, also boarded the tender and rowed to a place of safety.

About 3:30 p. m. the King Philip, after cruising around the fishing grounds all day with 100 passengers on board, was heading toward Boston when, about three miles northeast of Boston Lightship, Capt. Edward W. Dixon sighted the smoke of the burning Prosperina, some three miles away.

Capt. Dixon ordered full speed ahead in the direction of the blazing power boat. The King Philip's hose was prepared for action as the steamer hurried toward the burning craft and by the time she reached the ill-fated Prosperina four streams were ready.

Both the Prosperina's gasoline tanks exploded before any water could be played on the flames, the second explosion coming just before the King Philip

ATHLETES AND ATHLETICS

All up for Lawrence. Tomorrow will be the big day of the series. In all probability, an immense crowd for a minor league attraction is expected at Riverside park. Fans going from this city can reach the Lawrence ball grounds without changing cars.

Although the Braves again came through with a win they did not gain on the Giants for McGraw's men made easy work of Cincinnati. Mathewson allowed Herzog's lineup six hits and a single run while New York was scoring ten times.

The high school football team held its first practice yesterday afternoon at Washington park and a husky looking squad of boys turned out. Three of the school's former crack athletes, Legall, Rooney and Rostler, were out with the team helping along with the preliminary work. The local high school expects to turn out a speedy aggregation this fall.

The game scheduled for next Saturday between the Trenton and Suffolk teams and the Dodgers has been called off. The two teams intended to play for a substantial purse. The mill team would now like to arrange a game with the N. E. T. & T. or any other fast club in the city.

The Baraca Bowling league has completed its plans for the coming season and are now all ready to open operations on Kittredge's alleys. At a meeting held by the league last night it was voted to commence play activities on Oct. 20.

The George E. Mongeau team has been returned the winner of the Mercantile league. This organization, composed of Lowell's large business concerns, has had a very successful season. The Mongeau club has played consistent ball since the start of the league and is deserving of the championship.

The Detroit Tigers were unable to stop the Athletics yesterday in spite of the fact that they drove Plank from the rubber by knocking in three runs in the first two sessions. The Philadelphia sluggers got after Dause, Main and Reynolds and sent eight runners across the plate before the windup of hostilities.

Foster was in fine form yesterday and held the lowly Naps to a single run. He was touched up for nine hits but lightened up whenever the home club appeared dangerous. Carrigan's men piled up eight runs and sent Mitchell into retirement.

Napoleon Lajoie has shown the youngsters something since his return to the first sack as a regular. Although the famous diamond star was benched by Manager Birmingham the offers which Cleveland received for him were turned down.

The D. L. Page Co.'s team have protested the J. L. Chalfoux game which was played off yesterday afternoon on the Textile campus on account of the playing of Sullivan by the Chalfoux club. A meeting of the Mercantile league's judges will be held the first of the week to decide the matter.

WHERE'S PATRICK KENNEDY?
A telegram was received at the police station this morning from Waterbury, Conn., addressed to Patrick Kennedy of Lowell in care of the chief of police. The message stated that John Kennedy died suddenly yesterday in Waterbury and was signed by Raymond Kennedy, who evidently did not know the location of his brother Patrick. The police have been unable to locate Patrick Kennedy, although he is supposed to reside here and to be a brother of deceased.

300,000 PASSED THROUGH BRUSSELS
She said that for 11 days German troops poured steadily through Brussels on their way to France. It was estimated that 300,000 men passed through the city. Huge motors, dragging supplies and artillery, chugged past constantly. She said 10,000 German troops were at Brussels when she left there. They had put up posters everywhere forbidding any one to leave the city. Forty Americans could not get out.

No harm was done to the buildings of the city during the siege, she said. The soldiers finally stationed in the city trained big guns on the king's palace and all the important public buildings and made it known that if any attempt was made at an uprising of the populace to drive out the Germans, the city would be destroyed.

The burgomaster, Adolphe Max, pleaded with the citizens to be calm and save their city. He ordered every place of business closed at 9 a. m. each day and forbade selling of wine or spirits. The only drinks purchasable were beer and lemonade.

Mme. Verhoeven also said the only newspapers persons in Brussels had been able to obtain were dropped by Belgian airmen, who flew Antwerp and Ghent. They would wrap up a bundle of English newspapers and drop them in the city from a great height. The Germans tried to shoot the airmen, but the flyers kept up thousands of feet.

Paid $100 to See a Battle
James A. Wakefield of Pittsburgh,

also a passenger on the Menominee, paid $100 to see a battle at Mons. He was in Valenciennes, Aug. 24, when Capt. Antier of the French army offered to take eight men out to see a battle if they would pay him $100 apiece. He was promptly taken up.

The party was provided by the captain with papers permitting them to pass the lines, and they travelled in two spring wagons, which had been provisioned by the captain. They drove to within three miles of Mons, arriving at 5 p. m.

The cannonading was terrific, Mr. Wakefield said, and the whole night seemed a burning furnace from bursting shells. They stayed there until 1 a. m., when there seemed to be a lull in the firing and the captain took them back to Valenciennes in a hurry.

There were 10,000 British in the battle, according to Mr. Wakefield. He also said he saw 32 dead and 332 wounded taken out of the trenches and carried away on stripped automobiles. Fourteen men were placed on each machine. The wounded were taken to Amiens.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 18.—Six persons were killed and 15 seriously injured today when a passenger train of the Alabama & Great Southern railroad was derailed at Klondyke Switch, one mile west of Livingston, Ala.

All of the dead were passengers. The engineer is said to have been probably fatally injured.

The engine was derailed at a switch, swerved and crashed into a gondola loaded with slag which was standing on a sidetrack. The mail and baggage car, two coaches and three sleepers were wrecked. Three other sleepers remained on the track. Power passengers' than usual were in the sleepers.

Switch Tampered With
Bloodhounds have been sent to the scene of the accident. Railroad officials believe the switch was tampered with and an effort will be made to trail the alleged wreckers.

WOMAN DESCRIBES FLIGHT

For Miles Along Battle Line—Crouched Behind Stump as Germans and Belgians Clashed

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Madame Pauline Verhoeven, ballet mistress of the Metropolitan Opera House, arrived from London on the Atlantic transport liner Menominee Wednesday afternoon, after a flight from Brussels, in which she ran bareheaded through woods within a mile and a half of a battle line. She exhibited a traveling bag with about four ounces of wearing apparel in it, which she hurriedly picked up in England.

"It is all I have but my job," she exclaimed. "I just had to get here to work."

Madame Verhoeven, who was born in Brussels, was in that city when it was taken by the Germans. She was told she could not leave under any condition, and in desperation pleaded with a friend who owned an automobile to help her out. He agreed to make the attempt.

She wrote upon a slip of paper in German, "Let car pass with injured soldier," gave that to her friend and sprang a piece of canvas over two robes wound up in the bottom of the tonneau in the shape of a man's figure. She knew all the country about Brussels and learned that the German troops were only guarding the roads through patches of woods.

At 5 p. m. Sept. 2, she started from Brussels, headed for Ninove, 20 miles away, where the American consul at Brussels had told her, she might catch a train.

When she came to the first patch of woods Mme. Verhoeven got out of the car and took to the woods alone, telling the man with her to show the papers to soldiers and meet her on the far edge of the woods. The trick worked perfectly. A German captain of cavalry rode up to the automobile almost as soon as it entered the woods, read the slip of paper and, after glancing at the canvas covering, waved the car on, telling the driver to make all speed.

Ten minutes later Mme. Verhoeven halted the car and climbed back into it. Twenty times she left the automobile and took to the woods. The car was held up six times, but each time the slip of paper freed it.

Hid Behind Stump During Fight
At Ninove Mme. Verhoeven learned no train would leave, she told her friend to hurry back to Brussels before the soldiers had met and would be relieved by others. Then she set out on foot and walked ten miles to Denderleeuw, where she spent the night.

The following day she walked 29 miles more to Lottighem. There she caught a train to Cartrial, then another to Bruges and a third to Ostend, where she took the boat to Folkestone.

"My fourth trip into the woods was the most exciting," the ballet mistress said, describing her experiences. "We had heard there was some skirmishing at that point. I made a long detour, walking probably three miles. I had hardly left the car when I heard rifle shots, but I could not tell from which direction the sounds came."

"Running as fast as I could, I reached the outer edge of the woods and suddenly saw a lot of German cavalry dashing past some Belgian infantry and firing. They galloped by. For a few minutes I crouched behind the stump of a tree and then, bolting back into the thick of the woods, I made my way back to the road and the motor."

Two larceny cases were settled in police court this morning. Walter C. Osgood was charged with stealing $40.75 from his former employer, John J. Conlon. Osgood, who is only a young man, said that he took $25.00 but no more. He was arrested by Officer Kenney.

The evidence in the case revealed the fact that the defendant was drunk when the larceny occurred. In view of sentence.

ARGUE AGAINST HIGHER FARES
BOSTON, Sept. 18.—Testimony in the public service commission hearing on the petition of the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway company for an increased fare was all in all noon yesterday and remonstrants made their arguments during the afternoon.

Among the representatives of cities and towns heard was George A. Sweetser of Wellesley, H. H. Bond of Waltham, Winfield S. Slocum of Newton, Harry Trainor of Waltham, Wesley E. Monk of Watertown and F. S. Mosley of Needham. Attorney Bulantyne of the Middlesex & Boston will make the final arguments for the petitioners today.

Mr. Sweetser claimed that the actual value of the property employed in the business of the company is the only amount upon which it can claim a right to earn dividends. "A street railway company," he said, "has no lawful right to ask the public to pay a fare in the future which will be used to pay for past deficits."

The town of Wellesley insists that not only is the fare provision in the order of location valid, insofar as it covers the town itself, but that in addition the agreement for a fare between the Natick railroad station and Newton Lower Falls is a valid agreement which cannot be abrogated."

Mr. Bond of Waltham maintained again that the lines in Waltham are profitable and should not stand an increase. As regards the money borrowed at times by the Middlesex & Boston road he maintained that the directors did not try to borrow as cheaply as possible.

Commissioner Anderson commented on interlocking directorates and wanted to know why the road did not go into the open market instead of to the Boston & Suburban Electric company, the holding company.

The fact that he was willing to make restitution the court allowed him to escape with a suspended sentence.

The other larceny case brought another young man, Robert McLaughlin, into the spotlight. He was charged with appropriating $13 which belonged to George P. Arlin.

McLaughlin in police court today promised the court that he would pay back the money. Judge Enright gave him a lecture on the error of his ways and then released him with a suspended sentence of three months to the house of correction.

Milk Dealer Appeals
The milk inspector's office at city hall is still busy and another dealer was produced before the court today charged with having milk in his possession which was below the prescribed standard. Alphonse Dufond was the milkman in trouble this morning and he pleaded not guilty to the accusation of Messrs. Masters and Coughlin. He was represented by Judge Pichman.

Nixey Coughlin testified that he took four samples of milk, two from pint bottles and two from quart receptacles. The weak fluid was found in the quart bottles.

The defendant then took the stand and explained how he had been forced to buy from an outside dealer on that particular day and this milk was contained in the quart bottles which were condemned by Inspector Masters. He also showed a report from one of the state inspectors which showed that the man from whom he received this milk had milk in his possession which was below the standard.

The court stated that although he believed the defendant's story he was forced to impose the minimum fine of $10. Defendant appealed from the sentence.

PLEASANT PARTY</

RETURNED FROM EUROPE

The Killpartrick-Owen Party Had Thrilling Experiences—Graphic Story From Miss Stillings

Since the outbreak of the great world war, probably no group of American tourists have been spoken of in Lowell with more interest and anxiety than the members of the Killpartrick-Owen party who, after many thrilling experiences and unforeseen adventures, arrived in New York yesterday on the Athenae after a memorable voyage of 26 days. All the members of the party are in excellent health and that they are happy goes without saying. The sight of American land, they say, brought on a feeling of gladness that will last while any memory of European conditions remains. Yet they did not come directly in contact with the war in its worst phases, but they were continually reminded of the great tragedy by touching events that brought its enormity and its awful effects home to them more vividly than actual warfare. The members of the party were: Miss Flora A. Owen of the Moody school; Miss Carrie Bailey, principal of Pine Street school; Miss Ellen A. Stillings, principal of Eliot school; Miss Sara Dean, Laura B. Lee, primary school; Miss Sophie Wenz, 21 Seymour street; and Miss Doris H. Kerr, 5 Myrtle street. During a part of their trip they formed part of larger groups so that some side lines of travel were enjoyed in company with scores of Americans from other points—all of whom were anxious to get out of Europe as soon as possible.

Ellen M. Stillings

Miss Ellen M. Stillings gave a very graphic account of the party's experiences this morning to a Sun representative. "We had been touring Italy," she said, "in the usual care-free, delightful manner, without thought of anything but the beautiful and historic towns, the monuments of antiquity, the palaces, the pictures, the wonderful Italian atmosphere. We had been to Naples, to Sorrento, to Capri and to the other points of interest along that lovely coast; we had mentally reviewed the stories told in the ruins of Pompeii, and were resting in Rome. Our hotel overlooked a public square and we enjoyed sitting in the balcony and seeing the tide of life passing. All at once it seemed to me that there was some unusual excitement as people were discussing something of general interest. An Italian newspaper passed and though I did not understand what he was shouting I saw a paper with a great headline which announced war between Serbia and Austria. Thinking it merely the scare headline of a sensational paper—such as we Americans know—I paid little attention at the time, but I recalled the incident before long.

Next day, which was Sunday, we went to Florence. There in one of the great art galleries we met a party of teachers who had been with us on the Canope. Each had something to tell of impending war and after an informal conference we decided that the situation looked serious. We were advised to apply for passports, as we had been to Italy through Switzerland and France before returning. We went to the consulate and there found great crowds of Americans, many of whom had already felt the pinch of financial stringency. Banks were closing, travel checks were being refused, and many wealthy Americans were finding themselves penniless for the time being, with little prospect of better conditions. We were enabled to rush one check each for a small amount and we then conceived the idea of going to rich firms and buying something for which we paid by check, getting the change in Italian money. By thus buying our tickets in each place we managed to get $10 or $20 each in currency and so avoided positive inconvenience on this score.

"From Florence we went to Venice, intending to sail for home as soon as possible. We could learn from many indications at this time that the war was growing in magnitude. One day I sat feeding pigeons in the plaza of San Marco. A young man approached and, touching me on the shoulder, said: 'I wouldn't throw that feed away if I were you; you may need it before you get home.' He was an American and was stranded there with his mother and four others. We then became most anxious to get home and with hundreds of others haunted the consulates and the express offices. There were so many that we could not be received personally, but a list of important items was posted outside daily for our information. And, let me tell you, I have a new admiration for American consulates and consuls; the government representatives treated us splendidly and cheered us up at most trying times.

Couldn't Cross Continent

"As our trunks were in London at the hotel we meant to stay at before sailing from Liverpool we made many attempts to cross the continent. It was useless. Trains were requisitioned for troops which were modifying on all sides. We were compelled to stay in our hotel on the Grand Canal with its flower filled balconies, its marvelous vistas, its passing gondolas. A manager of another party, one who had many years of experience, varied the monotony of Venetian life by getting permission to take us with about 20 others across the Austrian border.

"I shall never forget the sights of the border. It fairly bristled with troops. Files were coming and going along the mountain roads and companies of cavalry glittered past. Mules were tethered in circles. Everything spoke of actual warfare. We passed on through a marvellously fresh and lovely country to Cortina, a mountain town, situated under crags among the evergreens. From this little town 600 men had been taken—all between the ages of 20 and 42. There was great sadness. News of death was coming home daily and the crushed mothers expected another draft which would take all the men between 12 and 70. Poverty, misery and suffering were on all sides. The lady manager of the hotel said to us: 'I had hundreds of tourists, but the government came and took my servants, my grain, my chickens—everything. They would have taken the contents of my cellar had they known that there was anything in them.' Here we spent three delightful days and would have spent more but were compelled to cross the Italian frontier. The Venetian papers said that we were the last band permitted to pass over.

Sailed From Venice

"On getting back to Venice we made plans to sail on the first available boat that seemed reliable—which was the Athenae. Although we had prepaid our passage on the Canope line, it was out of the question. Having six or eight days, we spent them in a tour of the Italian lakes. We went through Maggiore, Como and those other spots of beauty. On trying to land at Lugano we were refused. Finally, we went to a charming villa on Lake of Como, high on a wooded point, the Villa of San Belloni, an old Italian family which had a noted cardinal of the name. To tell of this villa on the wooded hill would be to tell of groves, statues, mountain paths, Italian gardens, orange trees, palms and a beauty that is indescribable.

"We returned to Venice and sailed from there for New York on the 28th. Our voyage was most memorable. We sailed past Corfu and stopped at Patras for two days. Here a Cook agent came aboard and offered us a two days' trip to Athens for $20. We went, and the reality surpassed all expectations. I have a most vivid memory of the vine-clad country, the bay of Corinth, the Corinthian canal, the Aegean sea, the bay of Salamis and other classic delights. Beyond that we saw a desert country, which reminded me of pictures of Palestine. Shepherds in olden costumes herded their sheep which gathered in crowds under the slight shade of gnarled olive trees, and everywhere were traces of a simple primitive existence. The ruins of Athens have a beauty that cannot be set down in words. The Parthenon, the temples of Nike, of Athena, of Neptune, the tower of the winds—all are wonderful. We saw the temple of Jupiter by moonlight, with its 15 pillars standing in their stately stateliness and with their Corinthian capitals, and with one lying prostrate. We saw the old Greek forum and went to the museum which has a great collection of articles used by the ancients.

BERLIN WIRELESS SAYS GERMAN ARMY ADVANCING SLOWLY BUT SURELY

BERLIN, Sept. 18 (via wireless to the Associated Press, by way of Sanville, L. I.). The following statement has been given out by the German general staff:

The battle between the Oise and Meuse rivers is still continuing but there are sure indications that the enemy's force is falling.

The French attempt to cut through the German right wing was broken down without notable exertion on the German side.

A sortie from Verdun on the right bank of the Meuse was most easily repulsed.

Another official statement issued by the German general staff says that all the German airships came up to expectations after undergoing long and dangerous flights. Some of the aircraft were damaged, but now all of them have been repaired. None has been destroyed or captured by the enemy.

LONDON BOARD OF TRADE REFUSE TO EXPORT ANILINE OIL TO UNITED STATES

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The board of trade refuses to export aniline oil to the United States, as requested by American manufacturers. Evidently England is unable to produce more of the oil than is sufficient for her home use.

NO LASTING PEACE POSSIBLE IF SQUARE INCH OF GERMAN TERRITORY IS GIVEN UP

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador to the United States, discussed today the prospects of peace in Europe and the efforts of President Wilson to bring it about.

"Talk of peace was started by people of the United States," said the ambassador. "Its continuance after the answer sent by the German government through Ambassador Gerard depends upon the attitude of the allies. As long as they talk of crushing and dismembering Germany there is absolutely no possibility of peace. I am quoting Premier Asquith and other Englishmen. I have no idea that Germany could be crushed or dismembered."

"No lasting peace would be possible if a square inch of German territory was given up. That applies to the colonies of Germany as well as the German empire itself. It is perfectly clear that if any territory was taken Germany would again arm to the teeth."

Count Von Bernstorff said that undoubtedly the German emperor had been informed of the talk between Ambassador Gerard and the imperial German chancellor and that the answer given had been first submitted to the emperor. He added that it should be completely understood that from a military viewpoint Germany was not seeking peace at this time any more than before.

Continued

"God save Ireland!"

John Redmond, the Irish nationalist leader, replied:

"God save England!"

Parliament will sit again Oct. 27.

The King's Speech

The king's speech was as follows:

"My Lords and Gentlemen: I address you in circumstances that call for action rather than for speech. After every endeavor had been made by my government to preserve the peace of the world I was compelled in this assertion of treaty obligations, deliberately set at naught and for the protection of the public law of Europe and the vital interests of my empire, to go to war."

"My navy and my army have with unceasing vigilance, courage and skill sustained in association with our gallant and faithful allies, a just and righteous cause."

"From every part of my empire there has been a spontaneous and enthusiastic rally to our common flag."

"I thank you for the liberality with which you have met a great emergency. My lords and gentlemen, we are fighting for a worthy purpose and we shall not lay down our arms until that purpose has been fully achieved. I rely with confidence upon the loyal and united efforts of all my subjects and I pray that Almighty God may give us His blessing."

Mr. Redmond, who was the recipient of many warm congratulations in the jobbies of the house after adjournment, left later in the day for Ireland, where he will take part in the recruiting campaign for which Premier Asquith has sought his aid.

HOME RULE BILL SIGNED

LONDON, Sept. 18.—King George signed the Irish home rule bill today, enacting it into law.

With the prorogation of parliament the home rule bill and the Welsh disestablishment bill become law but both are suspended for one year.

THE MIDNIGHT SUN IS ALWAYS CHARMING—NATURAL PHENOMENON CAN BE SEEN IN BOTH HEMISPHERES

"The midnight sun" is one of those seemingly mysterious natural phenomena which exercise a perpetual charm over the popular imagination. The northern part of Scandinavia has acquired for itself the distinctive name of the "Land of the Midnight Sun," but the title should be extended to include a complete circuit of the earth along the Arctic circle. Then, too, the southern hemisphere has a precisely similar phenomenon, which occurs along the Antarctic circle, including a portion of Wilkes Land.

Properly speaking, a midnight sun is seen but once a year in either hemisphere. Confining our attention to the northern hemisphere, the midnight sun is visible near the Arctic circle on the date of the summer solstice, which occurs about June 21, at the time when the sun, in its apparent annual circuit of the sky, reaches its greatest northern declination, about 23½ degrees. It is precisely equal to the inclination of the earth's axis of rotation from a perpendicular to the plane of its orbit around the sun.

The Arctic circle is situated (this same angular distance (23½ degrees) from the North pole. When the sun is directly over the equator, about March 21, its light reaches simultaneously both poles of the earth. As the sun begins to move northward the light quits the South pole, which then enters on its period of six-months night. But at the same time the sun rises higher at the North pole, which in its turn enters upon its record of six-months day.

In the meantime, along the Arctic circle, the days grow longer and the nights shorter, as the sun comes continually northward until, at the solstice, when the sun is 23½ degrees north of the equator, there will be one period of twenty-four hours during which the sun does not set at all in the Arctic circle. At the hour of midnight on that day the sun, describing a circle through the sky, just touches the edge of the horizon in the north. Like the bob of a gigantic pendulum, and then, without disappearing, immediately begins to rise again to describe the other half of its sweep in the sky.

This is the phenomenon called the "midnight sun."

Conversely at the time of the winter solstice, which occurs about Dec. 22, when the sun is at its greatest southern declination, there is one absolutely sunless day on the Arctic circle, when the sun skims just under the southern horizon at noon.

As a matter of fact, owing to the effects of the refraction of the atmosphere, which means the power of the air to bend the rays of light so that the sun appears to be above the horizon by about its own diameter, when it is really its own diameter below it, the phenomena just described are visible half a degree (about 33 miles) south of the Arctic circle.

After the day of the solstice the sun begins to dip below the horizon again, because it is then going south once more, and the nights, beginning with the length of only a few minutes, gradually increase until they, too, for one single occasion, attain the length of twenty-four hours.

Within the Arctic circle the days and nights, alternately, greatly exceed twenty-four hours in length. At the very pole, as we have seen, they may be a month long, and at the North Cape three months.—Garrett P. Servis in the Detroit Tribune.
